WEDNESDAY EVENING, JANUARY 5, 1887.

A Catholic priest has translated General Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur" into German and it is to be published in Germany.

The English comic papers have resolved to be funny.—New York Morning Journal.

That doesn't "settle it." Resolving to be funny and being really funny are two things.

A very elegant little paper called The Round Table comes to us from Mt. Auburn, Cincinnati. It is the organ of the Mt. Auburn institute, and Miss Mary Bookwalter, of this city, is a member of the editorial staff.

Our old friends of the Albany (N. Y.) Press and Knickerbocker have eclipsed all contemporaries, so far as we can discover, in the beauty and completeness of their Carriers' Addresses, for they have issued one for the daily and one for the Sunday edition.

When the new Factory street bridge is completed, at some time during this year, it will not only be a fine structure in itself, but those crossing it will have a grand view of the rocks and the creek, below and above. Below will be the the bluffs and ...s, the dam and the Plum street bridge, ... Mill run cascade, now solid ... Spring, when the new street ... laid on Plum, from Main to the ... Entrance, a new line for funerals ... be rendered desirable if not necessary, ... when the bridge alluded to is completed, ... Factory street will be a direct and convenient route.

Rev. Dr. John H. Vincent sends us this Christmas greeting, printed in old English text, with an engraved border and the Doctor's private seal upon it, from Rome:

IN ITALY.

December, 1886.

From beyond the great sea I send Christmas greeting, in the name of Him who came as a babe in the town of Bethlehem, long years ago.

The peace He came to bring I now invoke upon you and yours for the coming Yuletide, and for all time and eternity.

A right merry Christmas in your home, and richest Christmas joy in your heart, and blessed beginnings of a New Year are the holiday blessings I wish you.

JOHN H. VINCENT.

The Urbana Daily Citizen, has this to say about newspapers in Springfield:

We are glad to see that the name of the Springfield GLOBE-REPUBLIC is to be changed back to the Springfield REPUBLIC. This is the end of a venture to make two papers grow where there was room for but one. First two papers, then consolidation, finally a return to the old name. It would have been money all around if the second enterprise had not been started or if, when started, it had promptly stopped.

In the same issue of the Citizen we find the following:

We congratulate the managers of the Springfield GLOBE-REPUBLIC for their decision to suspend the Sunday edition of that paper. Every consideration of moral, physical, political and religious interest demands that the Sabbath shall be kept sacred and holy to its great original and never-ending purpose. A Sunday paper is a more useless thing than a sixth wheel to a wagon, and it has done a vast work in destroying man's respect for the commands of God. We'll venture the prediction that an alarming proportion of professing Christian men in Urbana never read a word in the Bible and never fail to read at least sixteen pages of a Sunday daily every Sunday.

A HISTORICAL INSTANCE.

In an editorial tribute to John A. Logan, who died poor, the Boston Herald employs a well known and illustrious historical instance, to emphasize its praise, as follows:

When General James Keith, a younger brother of the venerable Lord Mareschal Keith, fell on the Prussian side at Hochkirch, one of the most murderous battles of the seven years' war, the victorious Austrians buried the body with every mark of honor that a generous foe could pay. An entire army corps fired salvos at the grave, and Marshal Lacy himself officiated as chief mourner. Beside being glorious soldiers, the two Keiths were, in Carlyle's phrase, as "honest as the sunlight," and the Lord Mareschal, writing of his bereavement to Frederick the Great, said: "My brother leaves me a noble legacy, sire. Last year he had Bohemia under ransom—and his personal estate is seventy ducats."

The Herald proceeds to compare General Logan with General Keith, (who has living relatives in Scotland and America who are proud to pay honor to his memory,) in the following:

Logan was a great soldier, a great senator, and he died a poor man. His personal estate was very much of the Keith pattern —honorably small. Keith's name has come down to the present day. Logan's name has a pure place in the memory of his countrymen for generations. Both will be remembered by an admiring world when scores of millionaires who now walk the earth as if they owned it, are well forgotten. It is the rarest thing to find an epitaph in gilt letters that last. Test the point for yourself. You have no trouble in giving the names of scores of men who won eminence in war, or politics, or art, long centuries back. But we doubt if you can on the instant cite the name of a single millionaire of the last generation, unless he was noted for something more memorable than wealth.

A GOOD START.

The new year, 1887, has made a most favorable start. This is certainly so, in the portion of Ohio of which Springfield is the commercial center. Our wheat crop for the year has developed favorably, and it is now completely protected from the extreme cold weather by a thick coating of ice and snow.

We never had finer sleighing than we have now. The roads were worn smooth before the storm came. First fell a rain, which froze; then came sleet, and ice formed gradually, day by day, until the sleighing was quite good, and now an inch or two of snow has made it superb. It is not only unapproachable for pleasure-riding, but it is just the thing for the transportation of ice, wood, coal and other supplies.

Many thousand dollars are saved to our citizens by the abundant supply of splendid ice, in our streams and ponds, clear as crystal and ten to twelve inches thick.

As soon as the building season opens, there will be such a degree of building activity in this city as has not been enjoyed for many a year. Several new factories and business blocks are to be erected, and the fourth story is to be added to Oliver S. Kelly's Arcade block, which, when completed, will make of it one of the finest and largest business blocks in Ohio, and the Arcade hotel will be one of the finest and largest hotels in the interior of the country.

General George W. Palmer died at his residence, No. 317 East One Hundred and Twenty Fourth street, New York, Sunday night. Of his career the Tribune says:

He was born in Ripley, Chautauqua county, 1835. He was graduated from the Albany Law School, in 1857. When the war broke out, he went to Washington and saw service in the field. He was soon appointed in the War department, and held various military positions at Washington and in this state. In 1869, he took up the practice of law in this city, and was soon appointed appraiser of the port. He resumed the practice of his profession in 1871. Early in 1879 he received the appointment of deputy collector, which position he resigned when President Cleveland was elected. He then formed a law partnership with Andrew Wesley Kent, which continued until his illness. A wife and three grown-up sons survive him.

We read this announcement of General Palmer's death with real sorrow. Forty-one years ago, he was the editor of the village paper at Westfield, N. Y., and did an act of great courtesy and kindness to a boy who had journalistic aspirations, which stamped him as a true gentleman.

The Florida (Jacksonville) Times-Union wishes the press of the country to "let up" on United States Senator Jones, alleging as a reason, that he is insane. We quote as follows, from the paper mentioned:

Conceding it to be a fact these papers thus marked and sent out by Senator Jones, there can no longer be any doubt as to his insanity. It is impossible to conceive that any sane man, however wilfully eccentric, could find amusement in stultifying himself in this way, and least of all Senator Jones, who has always been characterized by a high sense of personal dignity and a shrinking from ridicule.

And in truth there is a certain satisfaction in believing that he is insane. Were he in his right mind and responsible for his actions, his friends could feel nothing but pain and mortification at his conduct during the past two years, and no Floridian could escape a blush at the ridiculous attitude in which the state has been placed by him in the eyes of the world. On the other hand, if he be not responsible for his actions, then all other feelings are lost in a sentiment of profound sorrow that a brilliant intellect has passed into the twilight of an obscured mind.

The resignation of first assistant surgeon, Dr. A. S. Dunlap, having been accepted, to take effect on the 31st ult., Second Assistant Surgeon R. H. Grube has been, by order of Gen. Wm. B. Franklin, president board of managers, National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, (confirmed by the board at its last meeting,) appointed first assistant surgeon, vice Dr. Dunlap, resigned. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly. The retiring surgeon is an old Springfield man, who goes to Chattanooga, to go into the fruit-raising business. His successor, Surgeon Grube, is a native of this city, a former student at Wittenberg, and was formerly associated with us, for some time, on the old REPUBLIC. His promotion has been earned, for he has paddled his own canoe and worked his way up. We may say, also, that he is a young man of very high personal character.

The Boston Herald sends out a neat calendar. The Herald, we may add, is one of the most prosperous papers in America.

The Xenia Daily Gazette, a paper of excellent judgment, on general principles, says:

The Springfield GLOBE-REPUBLIC has gone back to the old name of REPUBLIC and will discontinue the Sunday paper, both wise arrangements and the public will endorse the proprietors in the move.

In connection with this, we think it proper now to say that we hope to make the proposed change as to the Sunday paper by the first of February.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

There was heavy snow in Louisiana.

Lima, O., is alarmed about a case of small-pox.

The cold weather in Florida causes alarm about the orange crop.

Mrs. John S. Ellis, of New York, sailed for Paris to consult Pasteur.

A sleigh was run into by an express train near Pewaukee Lake, Wis., and three persons killed.

Miss Kate Nicholson was burned to death at Maysville, Ky., by her night clothes catching fire at an open grate.

The Cincinnati board of trade and transportation have endorsed the proposition to issue $1,000,000 bonds to build a new city hall.

Del Lyst, engineer, and Joseph Reid, miller, was instantly killed by the explosion of a boiler in Newton House's mill at Elwood, Ind.

The family of John Wooster, near Montpelier, Ind., consisting of five persons, are lying dangerously ill from the effects of poisonous baking powder.

Indications point to an adjustment of the British Liberal split. Gladstone having announced his willingness to meet Chamberlain's overtures, the latter has called a conference of his henchmen to discuss a basis of compromise.

At Indianapolis, Tuesday, the Supreme court handed down its long expected decision in the case of State Senator Smith, president pro tem. of the senate, against Col. R. S. Robertson, the republican lieutenant-governor elect, affirming the decision of the lower court and giving the republicans first and second blood in the contest.

The Doctors' Great Mistake.

The bill appropriating $75,000 for the medical and burial expenses of President Garfield was not passed without opposition. Senator Vest was especially severe on the surgeons, who did not know the structure of the human body, and who had treated one part while the wound was in another, like the carpenter who cannot tell garret from cellar, or the shipwright who knows not mast from hull. For eighty days James A. Garfield lay and sweltered, and agonized and suffered. Bulletin after bulletin went to the anxious hearts and ears of the American people: "We have probed the wound; we have found the bullet: the electric machinery responds under the great laws of nature until we have located the bullet to a hair's breadth." And he died with the far off look in his eyes across the dim and distant ocean, and the autopsy showed that they never came within a foot of the bullet, and that they doctored and probed and lanced the pus cavity for eighty long days; a curious exemplification of scientific skill.—Ben: Perley Poore.

Women Who Wear Tight Shoes.

"Women who pose as models have, as a rule, poorly shaped feet," said an artist to a reporter. "If their feet are not poorly shaped they are apt to be out of proportion by being too small. The reason is obvious. Women are ambitious to have small feet and hands and at an early age they begin to wear tight shoes. The result is that their feet are cramped and do not grow with the other members of the body. Of course there are some professional models who began early in life and never cramped their feet with tight shoes. They have correct proportions. I speak generally of the mass of women who become models after they are 18 years old. Women imagine if they have small feet and hands they have all that is necessary to give them a shapely appearance. A worse mistake was never made. Women who are large should naturally have large feet in proportion; from an artistic point of view they look better. But you cannot make them think so."—New York Mail and Express.

What One Vote Accomplished.

The fact that in Indiana the official count shows that a candidate has been re-elected by just one vote leads The South Bend Tribune to remember that in 1842 Lot Day, Sr., was the Democratic candidate for sheriff and William Cosgrove was the Whig candidate. When the official canvass of the vote was made Lot Day was elected by one majority. In 1844 Hugh C. Flannegan was elected representative by one majority. He went to the legislature and his vote elected a United States senator by one majority. The United States senator's one vote brought on the Mexican war. So St. Joseph county has had an experience that no other county perhaps in the United States has had with a single vote. Four men elected to important offices by single votes and the Mexican war brought on by a single vote.—New York Sun.

As a Great Truth.

The following from Mr. Lowell's Harvard address is going the rounds as "a great truth," as if it were a matter of familiar experience: "A man rich only for himself has a life as barren and cheerless as the serpent set to guard a buried treasure."

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Liver troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any other medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

Frederick Wittrock, Thos. Weaver and Wm. W. Haight pleaded guilty to indictments for the Adams express rbbery. The latter was sentenced to five years, and the others to seven years each.

SELECTIONS.

How can I tell the many thousand ways

After Donelson's Surrender.

[illegible] very freely with the Confederate prisoners immediately after the surrender. They were, save in their officers, a rather scaly lot, dressed in their every day clothes, and looking as if just from the farm or the workshop. At the outset of the surrender they were possessed with the idea that they would be massacred. I was talking with a group of them in the streets of Dover when a gun in the hands of some Federals in the vicinity was discharged, and instantly there was consternation and anxiety on every face.

"They're commencing to shoot the prisoners," ejaculated a slender young fellow, with suddenly blanched features, close to me. I undeceived him, and told him that the Yankees were not savages and that they would all be cared for as prisoners of war. Many of the prisoners were mere boys who should have been at home under the cover of the mothers' aprons. It was savagely cold, and they were without proper covering. They were eager to know when they would be permitted to go south. I assured them that they would probably be soon exchanged or paroled, but I was mistaken. They were needed to grace the triumph of a conqueror, and were sent mainly to Chicago, where they stimulated an apathetic patriotism, and thousands of them left their bones in an indistinguishable grave near the site of Camp Douglas. I saw two steamers laden with these prisoners land at Cairo. The lower decks, the cabins and hurricane decks were thronged with them like clusters of bees. The wind swept down on them from the north, and froze the very marrow in their bones. The lines, spars and guards were covered with ice and frozen snow; it was a terrible change; they were witho it blankets or any protection against the cold; and in their hunger, exposure and semi-nakedness they must have infinitely missed the "sunny south."—"Polluto" in Chicago Times.

Gen. Logan's Sudden Death

Is a great shock to the nation. Few knew that he was even indisposed when the news of his death flashed over the wires and thousands of people stood aghast at the sudden change from health and vigor to cold and silent death. For the past twenty-five years there has been no man more constantly before the public that General John A. Logan. Through all his career he has been noted for his fearlessness and purity of character, both in public and private life. Loved by friends and respected by enemies, he will be mourned by all.

His death adds another to the long list of victims to sudden and acute rheumatism. Probably no disease is so common as rheumatism, none is more sudden or dangerous, and there is certainly none which so completely baffles medical skill.

Only one remedy has yet been discovered which is a sure and safe cure for rheumatism and its twain disease, neuralgia, and that is Athlophoros. In thousands of cases Athlophoros has proved a quick and certain cure for these diseases. In connection with Athlophoros Pills it has never failed to speedily effect a cure.

In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered.

Rheumatism, even though in a very mild form, is extremely dangerous, for it is liable at any moment to go to the heart and cause instant death. Why trifle with a disease so fatal when a certain cure can be obtained of any druggist?

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlephoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervousness debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.
