

RIDICULOUS

Speeches Being Made by Parker Show His Unfitness for the Presidency.

His Ignorance of National Affairs A Surprise to the Public--Democratic Roorbacks Being Circulated.

Washington, D. C., October 31, '04.

Alton B. Parker has become the paramount issue in this campaign. The Democrats started out to make Theodore Roosevelt the issue but the tables have been turned on them, not by the Republicans but by their own Presidential candidate, and to-day Parker is the issue. From the impudently impertinence which won for him the title of "Spink of Europe" Parker has descended to a garrulity which has revealed the superficiality of the man, his amazing ignorance of national affairs and his unscrupulous willingness to father every campaign cant sprang by irresponsible spellbinders. Now the people of the country are faced with the problem of entrusting the presidency to a man who has proved himself utterly incapable of administering the office, or of electing a man who has for three years conducted the affairs of the government in a manner which has won admiration for himself and credit for his party and the nation.

The list of "Parker's blunders" is already long and is likely to be added to before the 8th, of November. Some of the blunders which have hitherto been attributed to lack of wisdom on the part of the Parker managers are now recognized as having emanated from the candidate himself and the result is certain to be a great Republican victory, provided only that every Republican does his duty on election day.

Last week Senator Culberson attempted to create a sensation in New York by reading from the stump a letter the President wrote, on October 10, 1903, to Dr. Shaw editor of the Review of Reviews, in which Mr. Roosevelt used these words: "Privately, I freely say to you that I should be delighted if Panama were an independent State, or if it made itself so at this minute; but for me to say so publicly would amount to investigating a revolt, and therefore I cannot say it." Mr. Culberson, who attempted to deceive his audience into the belief that he was reading to them a letter then made public for the first time, although it had, a month after the Panama revolution, been furnished by the President, to a newspaper man and by him made public, attempted to argue from the passage quoted that the President had fomented the Panama revolution, but in this he failed. The American public is too intelligent to be so fooled and in this private statement of the President they immediately saw that the letter demonstrated, not that the President was guilty of complicity in the Panama revolution, but that he had absolutely refused to do anything which could by any possibility be taken as encouragement to the projects of the revolution. It demonstrates that the President, no matter what his private wishes were, could not and did not take any part whatever in fomenting or encouraging the revolution.

Filed in their attempt to make capital out of this ancient letter the ingenious Democrats, probably at the instigation of the sagacious Parker, have spent several thousand dollars collecting evidence that President Roosevelt paid President Marroquin of Colombia $250,000 out of the "secret fund" of the State Department to foment the Panama revolution and to prevent its being defeated by Colombian troops. A man named Smythe was charged with this delicate mission and he is expected to arrive, almost daily now, in New York with the "proofs." Fortunately for Smythe the Marroquin is dead and cannot deny the calumny. Of course the whole story is as untrue as it is ludicrous. Everyone who remembers the events antedating the revolution remembers how earnestly President Marroquin labored with his Congress to prevent the rejection of the Hay-Harran treaty, how he warned the Congress that Panama would revolt and that by their greed they would lose all, and how he deplored that loss after it occurred. This is precisely the style of roorback to be expected from Democratic headquarters from now until election day.

Perhaps the most ridiculous speech that Parker has made during the campaign was that he delivered at Escopus on the subject of the trusts. Behind this speech lay a powerful spur. Representative William R. Hearst had publicly warned Mr. Parker that his only hope of success lay in his advocating the kind of Social Democracy for which Hearst and has various newspapers stand champions. "Mr. Parker must attack the trusts if he would win," declared Mr. Hearst. Accordingly Parker attempted an attack on the trusts which was a pitiable spectacle.

declared that the common law offered a panacea for the trust evil. Now he comes out with the statement that the trusts are permitted to violate the law and that they are contributing to the Republican campaign fund. Mr. Parker's common law panacea meant immunity for the trusts, as did his New York Democratic platform, which declared that "Corporations chartered by the State should be subject to control of the State." His change of attitude, as has been well intimated by Senator former Attorney General Knox, "smacks of the desperation of despair."

Speaking of Parker's fulmination, Senator Knox said, "It is astonishing that Mr. Parker should have the temerity to throw stones at the Republican party on the trust issue when the men who conducted the campaign for the nomination and who are now conducting the campaign for his election represent these very corporations which he affects to denounce, or else, owe their political strength to the contributions they have received from them in the past or expect to receive from them in the future. One and all they owe their whole power in politics to the intimate connection they have established between the management of corporations and the management of public business. Mr. Parker was created by them, would never have been thought of except for them, and has not now one chance of success save what they give him."

Teachers' Meeting.
The Central Ohio Teachers' Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, November 11, and 12, 1903. Friday November 11, will be spent in visiting the Dayton schools. Friday evening and Saturday morning the Association meetings will be held. A strong program has been arranged. Among the speakers are Supt. J. A. Shawan, of Columbus, Prea, Edwin E. Hughes, of De Pauw University, and Pres. Charles Wm. Dabney, of the University of Cincinnati.

A rate of one fare for the round trip is given on all railroads, tickets sold on the 10 and 11 are good returning until the 14th. That makes the round trip fare from Hillsboro $3.25.

A number of the Hillsboro teachers are going and it is hoped that a large number from Highland county will attend.

Boards of Education usually allow teachers one or two days to attend this meeting.

Notice to Hunters.
You are hereby notified that no person shall within this State catch, kill or injure any quail (or other game enumerated in the game laws) except from the 15th day of November to the 15th day of December.

And further it shall be unlawful for any hunter to kill more than 18 quail in one day.

And that it shall be unlawful for any person to hunt or trap upon the lands of another without first obtaining written permission to do so, from the owner, owners or their authorized agent.

You will take notice of the game laws as they now exist and for all violations of the same coming to my notice either directly or by my personal investigation, diligent prosecution will result--in which I will make every effort to convict any or all violators of the law.

EX-GOVERNOR NASH

Dropped Dead Last Friday--But Two Ex-Governors of Ohio Now Living.

Poor Discipline and Extreme Cruelty Rampant at the Penitentiary--Landslide Predicted for Roosevelt.

COLUMBUS, O., October 29, '04.

The death of Ex-Governor George K. Nash, which occurred at the residence of his son-in-law, Worthington E. Babcock, in this city, yesterday morning, makes three Ohio ex-governors who have died suddenly within the past year: Ex-Governor Charles Foster was stricken while sitting in a chair at the home of General Kellner in Springfield, just before the inauguration of Governor Herrick. Ex-Governor Asa S. Bushnell was stricken in a cab at the Union Station on the evening of that event, and after participating in the ceremonies, and now Ex-Governor Nash has fallen lifeless to the floor of his bath room. There are only two living ex-governors, Jas. E. Campbell and Joseph B. Foraker, of the three deceased, while all were men of high standing, none stood higher than the last.

On the eve of the last week of the campaign, things are living up some at State headquarters. Republican Chairman Dick says that only a landslide can defeat Roosevelt this year, and bases his prediction on the Congressional election of 1904. Democratic Chairman Garber says that he will give out his estimate and predictions on Sunday before election, and that up to that time he will preserve silence. Other Democrats are claiming that in the State of Ohio they will carry the 17th, 18th, 5th and 4th Congressional districts sure, they also have strong hopes of the 16th, 6th and 12th, making seven Democratic Congressmen from Ohio, which with anticipated results from other States, will give them a majority of the House of Representatives. The Republicans claim that the 12th will be redeemed, and that the 16th and 6th are in no danger. The prohibitionists expect to draw largely from the silver Democrats and many new recruits from the Republicans, but we have not heard that they expect to elect any one. Next Tuesday evening, "Uncle" Joe Canos and J. Adam Bede will address the voters of Franklin county. The meeting is under the charge of the Buckeye Club, which is an assurance that it will be a howling success.

The news of the indictment of Captain Aaron Wagoner by a Summit county grand jury, came as a surprise to the captain's numerous friends in this city. The captain was president of the board of managers of the Ohio penitentiary, and had resided in the executive residence at the institution since the death of Warden Hershey. His health has been very bad for some time, and he was barely able to be about the prison offices. When he was summoned to appear before the grand jury at Akron, he furnished the affidavit of the prison physician that he was unable to make the trip. Later his health improved somewhat, and after the sheriff of Summit county came after him he went back to Akron and appeared before the grand jury with the following result: He was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000 on each count, of which there are four. The alleged crimes are in connection with the Akron Savings Bank failure, which occurred a year ago in July, and of which Captain Wagoner was cashier at the time.

What is wrong at the penitentiary? Thomas Hale, a life prisoner from Hamilton county died Sunday night, and the penitentiary officials, who ought to know better than he was murdered, and that the medium used was opium, administered by a fellow convict. Hale was known as a bad man and had a host of enemies among the other prisoners. When taken from his cell to the hospital ward, Monday, two large knives were found on his person. If proper discipline is maintained at the big prison, how is it possible for one to obtain sufficient opium to kill a fellow prisoner, or any in fact? another unpleasant feature about the case is that the prison physicians failed to diagnose the case properly, thought that he was shamming, and laboring under that impression, tried the "water cure" on him, and other refined means of torture, to make his last hours pleasant.

On the day of Hale's death, the Guyahob county probate court received evidence that Albert English an insane convict, in for 14 months, had received 17 applications of the "water cure" and 1700 lashes, and the prison officials admit the truth of this testimony. These torments were inflicted upon a man who had been adjudged mentally unsound and therefore irresponsible. It is to be hoped that the new Warden, Gould, will inaugurate some much needed reforms.

The 60th annual meeting of the Order of Masters Star came to a close

Thursday evening in Schenck's hall, with the installation of the newly elected officers. The next meeting will be held at Toledo the last Wednesday of October 1905. The Grand Chapter, numbering about 500, went in a body to Springfield, Wednesday afternoon, to be present at the laying of the corner stone of the new hospital at the Masonic Home, which is a present from the Order. All but about $1000 of the $12,000 needed for the hospital has already been subscribed.

CURRENT PLANETARY PHENOMENA.

Venus is in the west where it may be seen low down on the horizon just after sunset, rising higher each night. Jupiter is in the constellation Pisces, being very favorably situated for observation. It can be seen as the brightest star in the eastern sky immediately after sunset and close to the horizon. It is moving westward among the stars and will continue to do so until the middle of next month when it will become stationary and then start on its eastern journey among the stars. Saturn is in the constellation Capricornus and may be seen in the early evening low down to the south-west.

The principal constellations visible during the month are to the west, Lyrae, Cygnus and Pegasus; to the east, Aries, Taurus, Perseus and Auriga, while Andromeda glitters in the south.

Anyone who looks thoughtfully at the sky on a clear moonless night, must be impressed with the vast number of glittering points of light--the stars. A telescope of even the most modest size reveals a much larger host. How can they be counted? Hardly a year goes by without a new member of this vast family flashing out for a few months only to sink into oblivion. How shall the astronomer be able to say that such a star is really new and not one of the already existing thousands? The earliest known method of cataloguing the stars was by means of the constellations. These are portions of the sky bounded by irregular outlines which have nothing to do with the grotesque figures so common to patent medicine advertising. The boundaries of these constellations all touch like the boundaries of the states of our country, in fact, the constellations are an almost exact analogy to the states of the Union. Each constellation contains a number of stars and these are given the letters of the Greek alphabet in order of the brightness followed by the name of the constellation. Thus Alpha Lyrae is the brightest, Beta Lyrae the next brightest star of the constellation Lyrae. To carry the analogy still further we might call Cincinnati, Alpha Ohioensis, Cleveland, Beta Ohioensis, and so forth.

Of course such a method will not answer the purposes of modern astronomy. So we now locate each star by its right ascension and declination. The right ascensions correspond exactly to longitudes on the earth's surface and declinations to latitudes, the Greenwich of the heavens being the Vernal Equinox or first point of Aries. The first to carry out this plan on any extensive scale was Argelander, at the Bonn Observatory, who also determined approximately the right ascension and declination of some 350,000 stars and also added a number to give their brightness. He divided the sky into strips one degree wide and arranged each star in this strip in order of its right ascension. He also made large maps upon which he located the stars of his catalogue accurately to the scale. This work is now being done over, but with a much greater degree of accuracy, a number of observatories co-operating; when finished the catalogue will consist of fourteen large quarto volumes. Photography has been called into service and maps are now being made with its aid which will show stars several magnitudes fainter than those shown by Argelander.

Visitors are received at The Emerson McMullin Observatory of the Ohio State University on the first and third Wednesdays of the month, during the college year, if the night is clear.

A young man about to cast his first vote should identify himself with the party of progress. Why should he ally himself with a party that has to go back a hundred years to find something to talk about?

RACE QUESTION

Raised in Hillsboro by Colored Child Desiring to Attend the White Schools.

Suit in Mandamus Brought in Common Pleas Court Against the Hillsboro Board of Education.

On Tuesday Moses H. Jones, a colored attorney from Dayton, O., filed a suit in mandamus in the Common Pleas Court against the Hillsboro Board of Education that will do away with our separate schools for white and colored children if successful, as it is supposed to be simply a test case. The petition is as follows:

State of Ohio, ex rel, William Kitzell vs. The Board of Education of the Village of Hillsboro, Ohio.

Now comes the relator and says that he is a resident and citizen of the village of Hillsboro, Highland county, Ohio, and that he is the step-father of a child named Lucile Williams, age nine years.

That on or about the 25th day of October, 1904, sometime after the commencement of the present school year, his grandchild, the said Lucile Williams, presented herself at the Washington school building in the said village of Hillsboro, Ohio, for the purpose of receiving the benefits of public school instruction conducted in the said Washington school building, and after the said child had attended school for a period of one week during the present school year, she was required by the Superintendent of said schools, acting under and by virtue of the authority of the said Village of Hillsboro, Ohio, to cease her attendance at the said Washington school building and refused her admission to the same, and notified her that if she desired to avail herself of the benefits of the public schools of said village, she must attend the school used exclusively for colored children, and which is one of the public schools of the said village of Hillsboro, known as the Lincoln school building.

Your relator further says that the said Board of Education of the said village of Hillsboro endeavored to compel her, his said step-grandchild, Lucile Williams, to attend the said separate school used exclusively for colored children, against her will and consent, by refusing her admission in any of the other schools of the said village of Hillsboro, Ohio.

The relator further says that said child would have to go away from the public school buildings that are near where she resides and travel a distance of more than one mile and a half to reach the said school used exclusively for the education of colored children, the Lincoln building.

Your relator further says that his said child is weak and delicate and is physically unable to constantly travel the distance to reach the said separate school used exclusively for the education of colored children, the Lincoln building.

Wherefore the relator prays that a writ of mandamus issue commanding the said Board of Education of the village of Hillsboro, Ohio, to allow the said Lucile Williams to enter the Washington school building or some other public school building in the said village except the separate school building, to-wit: the Lincoln public school building used exclusively for the education of colored children and for such other general relief as he may be entitled to in the premises.

WILLIAM KITZELL, Relator.

The bill to endow agricultural colleges by land grants and to establish agricultural experiment stations was introduced many years ago by a Republican senator, Morrill, of Maine, and was passed by a Republican Congress and signed by a Republican President. These colleges and experiment stations have been of immense benefit to agriculture. They owe their establishment to the party that "does things."

Colonial Bazaar.

The committees appointed to carry on the program of the Colonial Bazaar to be given at the Armory Hall, November 14-19, by the St. Mary's Catholic Church, are working faithfully to give our people a treat in real colonial fashion. Among the stately dames in silk, satin and court-plaster; and the courtly gentlemen in waist coats, knee breeches and powdered wigs, who will grace this grand occasion, Mr. Joseph Winegardner and Miss Fallon will take the parts of "George and Martha" whilst Miss Elizabeth Uhrig will do the honors as the "Goddess of Liberty."

The entertainment committee guarantees a program that will delight every one. Special features each of the entertainment will be first-class, as assured by the fact of the artists who have it in charge.

The ladies, young and beautiful, will minister to the refined tastes of their many friends with the amount of fancy work, Indian novelties, domestic supplies and mysterious wares, handsomely dressed dolls in colonial styles, etc., etc., and cheer the inward man with all kinds of a colonial refreshments.

Many think this forth-coming social affair will prove more interesting--if not so instructive and wonderful--than the great Louisiana Purchase Exhibition. No admission will be charged. A cordial invitation is extended to all our friends to come and enjoy themselves at this grand occasion.

Purdy--Hunter.

On last Wednesday evening, October 26, at 8 o'clock, Charles V. Purdy and Grace M. Hunter, of New Market, were united in marriage at the parsonage of Rev. W. C. F. Lippert, of Belfast. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Purdy, the well-known farmer, of New Market, and has for some years been one of Highland county's best school teachers, but now is engaged in the mercantile business at New Market.

The bride is the charming young daughter of A. E. Hunter, living just north of New Market. This happy couple will locate in New Market, in the property recently purchased by the groom's father, C. A. Wilkin. We extend with the NEWS-HERALD our hearty congratulations and wish them a long and happy life. * * *

The platform on which Theodore Roosevelt stands reiterates the time-honored republican principle in favor of fostering home industries in order that American workmen may be steadily employed and well paid. The Democratic platform is verbose and evasive, but, sifted of all its platitudes, it simply reiterates the Democratic hostility to any tariff that will protect American industries.

The Democrats are everlastingly referring to Jackson and Jefferson as the political demigods of the past. No one can tell what Jefferson would do were he alive to-day. He was a good man, and a schemer and dreamer in politics. Anyone can tell you what Jackson would do were he alive to-day. He would be with Roosevelt. He is a less educated way was the same kind of man.

The New York Herald has printed a fac simile of Judge Parker's gold telegrams. It should furnish a companion piece by printing a fac simile of his silver ballot in 1896 or 1900.

The last four years of Democratic rule left the country oppressed by misfortune and doubtful of the future. Why should any patriotic American wish to repeat that experience?

Forty years of practical control of the government by the Republican party covers the whole period of modern progress. The only intervals of reaction or failure to progress were when the Democratic party was in power.

With the immense crops which are now assured it is essential that prices be maintained so that farmers may reap the full reward of their labors. This is assured if the Republican party is continued in power.

Under the Republican policy of protection our manufactured products have become one-third of those of the civilized world, and American workmen secure almost double the pay for their labor that similar labor receives in other countries.

John Q. Rhoads is a pleasant and accommodating gentleman, and an honest and successful business man. He will make a model Auditor, and should be elected by a large majority.

C. N. Carey is a prosperous farmer and an honest, upright citizen. He is a Republican of the strongest kind and in every way qualified to fill the position of County Commissioner. Vote for Carey.

SHOOTING AFFRAY

Halloween Night in Hillsboro Narrowly Escaped Being a Tragedy.

Clifford Ellifritz Shot in Thigh and Fred Bennett in the Foot by Special Policeman Carroll.

Halloween was celebrated Monday evening in Hillsboro in strenuous style in two instances, outside of the usual custom of carrying off gates, throwing corn and cabbage, etc. In the absence of all street lights the village authorities had sworn in a large number of extra police to limit the depredations as much as possible. Among the special police was Bert Carroll, who was assigned to the north-west section of town near the foundries. Halloween, a year ago, Mr. Carroll was on the force and a crowd of young men caught and tied him to a hitching post. The same crowd found him about twelve o'clock this year and started to duplicate last year's performance. He resisted but they succeeded in getting a rope around his body over his arms and another around his head through his mouth and were handling him rather rough when he pulled his gun and commenced shooting at the feet of the crowd. One bullet struck Fred Bennett on the big toe of his right foot and another struck the shoe of Ernest Hughes. Bennett was taken home in a wheelbarrow and his foot dressed. It will be several days before he walks without limping.

About one o'clock Carroll came upon a crowd of young men on Collins avenue pulling a mower which they had taken from Gross' foundry. He ordered them to halt, to which they paid no attention, and he fired his revolver, he says, into the ground several times. On the fourth shot Clifford Ellifritz, aged about 20 years, fell shot through the fleshy part of the right thigh. The patrol wagon was called and he was taken home and his wound dressed by Dr. H. A. Russ. He is rapidly recovering. The bullet, a .32 calibre, entered from the rear, passed entirely through the leg, barely missing a large artery and was found just under the skin in front.

A Large Ballot.

The ballot to be voted this fall in Highland county is 14 inches wide and 32 inches long. On it are six tickets, Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, Socialist, Socialist Labor and People's Party. The ballots for each precinct in the county are different, but the average number of names on the ballot will be about 270. The News-Herald force has been engaged night and day the past week on this job. For the county it required 17,000 regular ballots and 27,700 school ballots. To do this printing required over 1200 pounds of paper. Besides each ticket is perforated twice and bound into 65 different books. It is a large job and a very particular one and has been a strain on every member of our force. For all mistakes and other sins of omission or commission in this issue please charge to overwork.

Basket Ball.

The basket ball season will be open on next Friday night with a game between the local High School team and the Pirates from the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. The members of the Pirates rank among the best basket ball players in the city, and last year won the championship of the Y. M. C. A. League. The Hillsboro boys are hoping to hold them to a close score, and some scientific basket ball can be expected. Owing to the drill of Co. D, the game will not be called until 8:15 o'clock.
