Poetry.

Fourth of July. The following original article was handed to us for our inspection, and although we have seen better poetry, we publish it for the history and patriotic sentiments which it contains.—Ed. Freeman's.

Fourth of July in near at hand, And hushed tributes may demand; Still 'midst old car does swiftly run, As when the spot of battle begun...

THE FATHER AND SON. An Incident of Real Life. BY PAUL CROTON.

One night last winter, while pursuing my way along one of the most obscure streets in Boston, I was aroused from the reverie I was indulging by hearing footsteps at my side...

"The Golden Gates."

Since the modern discovery of the golden mountains and golden soil of California, there has been a good deal of curious and instructive discussion indulged in, whether or not this mysterious region is the identical "Ophir" from which King Solomon and King Hiram obtained their vast supply of gold...

A Beautiful Little Story.

A few weeks since, in coming down the North river, I was seated in the cabin of the magnificent steamer Isaac Newton, in conversation with some friends. It was becoming late in the evening, and one after another, seeking repose from the cares and toils of the day, made preparations to retire to the berth...

Laws of Health.

Children should be taught to use their left hand as well as the right. Course bread is much better for children than fine.

Dog Express.

The Minnesota Pioneer gives the following account of a dog express, which had arrived at that place from the far North West: "The train arrived on Monday last with a heavy mail from Pembina and the Selkirk settlement, distance 500 miles. Snows were reported very deep in the north. The dogs, having made 50 miles a day, some days were fatigued at the end of their journey; being fed, and laid down in their harness for several hours and slept. But arriving at their destination, they were all fresh and full of life."

The Pleasures and Advantages of Labor.

There is a very false notion in the world respecting employment. Thousands imagine that if they could live in idleness they would be perfectly happy. This is a great mistake. Every industrious man and woman knows that nothing is so tiresome as being unemployed.

Stone Cavalry.

Four petrified horses and their riders are said to have been discovered at the bottom of Crow Wing river, one hundred and twenty-eight miles from St. Paul, Minnesota. The St. Paul Pioneer, which seems to be slightly sceptical on the subject, offers to pay fifty dollars for each sound petrified horse, or gelding, and the same for each perfect petrified man or woman which may hereafter be found, and half price for ponies and children.

Corn Fields.

The papers in Ohio are boasting of a field, owned by James Davis, of Ross county, containing 1800 acres, which the last season was cultivated exclusively in Indian corn. If they would come to our valley this spring, we will show them a whole township, waving in this grain—23,000 acres or more in one body—rich as the Delta. Eighteen hundred acres! why, a boy can tend that with a pony, and go to school all the week except Saturday afternoon.
