Vicksburg—The Military and Political Bearings of the Contest, as Viewed by the Richmond Enquirer.

All interest, military and political, centers this day upon the fearful and bloody struggle now raging around the bluffs of Vicksburg.

Vicksburg, as we have good hope, will not fall and cannot fall. We have there a fine army, brave and determined, and led by able commanders.

Yes, it is fated, that in spite of all human valour and devotion can do, Vicksburg and its defenders should become the prey of its enemy.

Thus, Vicksburg is at this moment a point not only of strategic but also of political importance.

For this reason, the result of these Virginia elections, is by no means of so much political significance as the result of those battles round Vicksburg.

There are few, it may be hoped, who are not now up to the right mark; prepared in this matter to make the right choice.

Casualties to the 47th Ohio.
