The Ohio Statesman A PARODY BY G. W. E.

We all can remember the proud oaken vessels, That buoyantly rode on the white-crested waves.

When the mad waves were threatening a watery grave, How long they have sailed on the high rolling billows.

The old oaken vessels; the oaken ribbed vessels; The old oaken vessels with tall masts of pine.

Now on the broad sea, the redoubled is dawning, The harvest of heroes are sown in their pride.

When the war-trumpet sounded the blue waves were covered, With fleets of grim vessels in battle array.

Whistling the bombshells with lightning and thunder, It looks like a demon inclosed in a shell.

Speech of Jeff. Davis at Mobile, The Mobile Register has the following account of the recent review of the military forces there by President Davis.

He congratulated the people upon the fact, which he ascertained them to be the fact, that our cause is now in a better condition than it was some years ago.

After the parade was dismissed, Royal sent a large force in line that he had been sent to Mobile, and he was very much pleased.

The Crops of 1862 and 1863.

We have received from Isaac Newton, Commissioner of Agriculture at Washington, a copy of the "Monthly Report" of his Department for September, 1863.

The answer returned to the circular for September of the Agriculture Department, asking information of the condition of the crops, are given in tables, above or below the crop of 1862.

The fall crops of corn, buckwheat, and potatoes for 1862 and 1863 are as follows:

The monthly reports of the Department in September shows that the amount of wheat and four crops in all countries, in the year ending September 1st, 1863, is 40,686,306 bushels.

The report examines the probable foreign demand for breadstuffs during 1864, and shows that the principal portion of our exports of breadstuffs are purchased in the English market.

The tobacco crop of 1863 is larger than that of last year by nearly fifty millions of pounds, although the frosts in the Western States were very injurious to it.

The meteorological division of the report is much longer than usual, giving a full description of the frosts of August 30 and September 18.

Winter fashions are being created and decided upon in the recesses of fashionable dress-makers' and milliners' repositories.

Two things strike me as particularly novel in ladies' costumes at Tronville; first, they're pretty ornamental corsets, coming half way up the leg, either buttoned or laced at the side.

These corsets are simply wooden sticks, more or less curved and ornamented with flat gilt tops, and finished off, like the boots, with a cord and tassels.

Another thing which rather astonishes us is to see how very much dresses are now being worn in the Oriental—silk, large round necked, and long drooping gowns being preferred.

Very large ear-rings, brooches, clasps, and studs are worn to match, in dimensions liberally unbounded, and either in plain gold or in gold and coral, or enamel.

Combs for the hair are some within the sphere of Jewels. They are made with a wide flat piece, turned back from the teeth, and composed of a very rich ornament, set with gold and precious stones.

Indispensable with a low crown, and also worn with the high crown.

The large round jet or coral blade are preferred for demit-toilette, and married ladies often wear the thick gold one.

Cornettes will hold their own, but in Paris they are decidedly being worn much smaller, especially at the top; they are low round, and consequently more graceful in their appearance.

The skirts of dresses are likely to be very full and immensely long.

Hotels on a Strike, The Tribune says the principal hotels of New York have struck for higher pay from their guests.
