Both Teams in Best of Condition for This Afternoon's Game

AGGIES KEYED UP; OKLAHOMA TODAY

More Than 500 Rooters Will Go to Oklahoma City on Special Train.

HOLD "PEP" RALLY

Farmers Must Show Pluck to Have Chance in Annual Gridiron Battle.

Special to The World.

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 24.—Excitement is running high here tonight in anticipation of the battle between the Oklahoma A. & M. college eleven and the University of Oklahoma eleven on the gridiron of the capitol city and at that many hours before the game. The college band held its last rehearsal. All arrangements are complete for the eventful trip and the students have their baggage ready and the room is all but empty, everyone having gone home to get the last few hours before the game.

On Special Train.

The special train which will carry the cadet corps, five hundred strong, and also carry many rooters outside the cadet corps will leave Stillwater at 7:45 o'clock Thursday morning, arriving at Oklahoma City about 11:30 o'clock. The regular Santa Fe passenger train reaches Stillwater at 8:14, both being early morning trains. This opportunity to start the journey early will in a way check the restlessness of many of the orange and black followers who are anxious to be up and doing.

A rooters meeting Tuesday night reached the climax of enthusiasm of the student body, and Wednesday was as a mere speck of time that intervened before the trip. At this "pep" rally President Cantwell spoke to the students, going over carefully the details of the trip, the military review and speaking optimistically of the game.

J. T. Harner, a graduate of Oklahoma university in 1908, and now a student in the commerce and marketing school of A. & M. college, was another speaker. Harner told the Aggies that whenever O. U. played any other team than A. & M. they believed for the university but in the Aggie-Sooner game he called for A. & M.

Must Show "Fight."

Ramie Perdue was the third speaker at the rally and his subject was "Fight." He told the varsity eleven and the students that real fighting against the Sooners and continued fighting would mean a victory, and then repeated and repeated about fighting.

"Red" Tarvery, the grandfather of yelling at A. & M., led the rally, drilled the corps in the college songs and yells, made a speech that brought actual tears of mirth at his antics and expressions, altogether working up the student body to the highest pitch of the year. It is always easy to ferment enthusiasm at A. & M. just before the annual O. U. gridiron affair.

There is an apparent determination throughout the A. & M. college to whip the Sooners or give them a good fight. With the odds far against them the Aggie students understand that they must battle like they have not battled this year, with possibly the exception of the Baker university game, in order to beat the Owenites. Their followers are waiting for the fight.

KENNEDY KNOWS TULSA STRENGTH

"Team That Can Practically Tie Game With Sooners Has My Utmost Respect."

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 24.—"There" succinctly the opinion of Coach Bill Kennedy of the Kansas university football team, when asked what he thought of the Tulsa team which will meet Coach Kennedy's team on Thanksgiving day. A team that has the reputation of the varsity eleven, said Coach Kennedy, is sure to put a strong team in the field
