ENGLISHMAN WAS CLEVER

Rounds of Exceptionally Good Boxing. WILL NOT QUIT THE STATE

LONDON, July 7. — Fred Welsh, lightweight champion of England, tonight outboxed White Ritchie, the American champion, and on the referee's decision, won the lightweight championship of the world.

The fight took place at Olympia and the 20 round bout witnessed a fast and clever bout. Ritchie fought with much more vigor than he had shown in his previous fights. The British victory was cheered to the echo, although there was dissatisfaction among the American spectators at the decision.

It was a fine exhibition of boxing. Neither man went to the floor and the struggle during the last six rounds was of a humorous character. Welsh was quicker and fatter Ritchie repeatedly on the foot, finally driving him down. The American tried constantly for a knockout, but wither he was short of Welsh got inside of him.

holding all the time and I was doing the fighting. Therefore, I think the decision was not fair to me."

Ritchie Not Damaged. Ritchie had his right hand in the boot, but otherwise was not damaged much, except for a few bruises on the face.

All the old timers are agreed that the contest was one of the best and most exciting of boxing witnessed in London in recent years. Ritchie showed his ability. That Ritchie could have come out on top in a tight fight. The Welshman's technique and strategy were superior to the American's and he preferred much of the time to get to close quarters, where Ritchie could not see the powerful swings.

in a clinch gave Ritchie two of three left hooks to the jaw, followed by a right swing in the same spot. Welsh appeared the fresher of the two, smiling when the bout resumed.

ROUND FIVE. Ritchie got one to the face, Welsh replying with a left to the jaw. Ritchie then got a straight to the ear and a right to the cheek. Ritchie forced the punching but was especially cautioned for fouling.

ROUND SIX. Ritchie's left eye appeared to be slightly damaged. Welsh's left eye was also damaged. Ritchie has played for the past few days with a right hand swelling at the end of the fight. Welsh's foot was swollen the night after the fight.

ROUND SEVEN. Half of the crowd had passed on before Ritchie began for on the eighth. He landed two straight to the face. Welsh responded with the American's second left and the fourth round of the fight.

ROUND EIGHT. The work of both fighters has far exceeded their usual standard. Most of the fighting had been body fighting, ending in clinches. Welsh appeared to be more in command, but Ritchie's punches were effective. The American was good both blow and second fighter at the end than at the beginning of the bout.

ROUND NINE. Welsh forced the fighting, opening with a left to the face, an operation which he quickly repeated. Ritchie's liver continually following, while Welsh, seeing a narrow pass, and several blows to the body and got the best of the fight. This was Welsh's round.

ROUND TEN. Welsh forced the fighting, scoring repeatedly on Ritchie's jaw. He then landed one of Ritchie's famous right eye blows. Welsh had the better of the fight than far.

ROUND ELEVEN. Welsh, who came up smiling, landed a sharp left to the face. He then again failed to touch the spot effectively with his right. The fighting was hard and fast, Ritchie receiving some of his punishment.

ROUND TWELVE. Welsh scored a left hook on Ritchie's nose. Ritchie responded with a hard left-hand body blow. Welsh was always too quick for him. The Welshman scored three of four punches in this round but they seemed to make no impression on the American who showed great stamina.

ROUND THIRTEEN. Ritchie snatched an end landed two straight to the face and a sharp uppercut. The American forced the fighting all round. He landed a body blow on his opponent. It was a good point, all in favor of Ritchie.

ROUND FOURTEEN. The American got in a short left on the body. He then landed a right to the face. The British was fast and force to the end of the round. This was the proceeding, was in favor of Ritchie.

ROUND FIFTEEN. The first half of the round was a struggle with both men exchanging blows in the clinches. Welsh was a little better equipped. There was a couple of minutes in which neither was doing. The round was over.

ROUND SEVENTEEN. The men again went into a clinch at the end of the round. From breaking Ritchie landed a hard left-hand swing on the face and followed it with a series of sharp body blows. Ritchie pushed the fighting and answered a series of Welsh's punches. Welsh well and was too quick for his opponent.

ROUND EIGHTEEN. Ritchie laced from the hip. This was a very hard round. In which stretched actual positions exchanged to be displaced, but the Welshman got a little the best of it.

ROUND NINETEEN. Welsh was getting the applause, being the fighter with the crowd. He hit him was doing the fighting. Welsh landed a right on the face and got one to the body. There was a smart rally in which the honors were even.

They started boxing it hard with both hands for the body. Welsh dodged a sure-left uppercut and gave the American sharp left on the cheek. The left on the cheek, the second kind of work, the Welshman, over the American around the ring in the last few seconds. He was crying out of the arena amid great cheering, after being declared the winner by points.
