

SHOULD BE FLAVORED

ADDITION TO EGGNOGS NEED NOT BE OF INTOXICANTS.

Valuable Food for Invalids May Be Made Palatable in a Number of Ways Agreeable to Opponents of Strong Liquor.

Chilled eggnoqs are not served as often as they should be. They are specially valuable for invalids during the heated weather, because they are not only refreshing but nourishing as well.

This drink may be served in an endless number of ways, and teetotalers can enjoy to their hearts' content eggnoqs without spirits that are simply but deliciously flavored with orange, coffee, vanilla, nutmeg or chocolate.

A plain eggnog of any kind may be turned into a festive beverage if topped with whipped cream or ice cream and a bit of candied fruit. The white of egg so often recommended should not be added unless the "nog" is heavily flavored, as it is apt to impart a raw, eery taste.

Chocolate Eggnog.—For a chocolate eggnog use a tablespoonful of grated chocolate, a tablespoonful of sugar and a large new egg to every half-pint of rich chilled milk. Melt the chocolate and sugar together to a paste, then add the egg yolk and stir the mixture into the milk, beating well so that the egg will not separate from it.

When a coffee eggnog is properly made it is delicious. It may be prepared like the chocolate drink, using in place of the chocolate enough strong coffee to give it a fine flavor. The same proportions may be used with other flavors.

Potato Sandwich.

In puzzling over a new way of cooking Irish potatoes, I discovered potato sandwich, which makes an attractive and delicious luncheon dish, writes a contributor to Good Housekeeping. Select smooth oval potatoes and boil with their skins on until nearly tender.

Keeping Airtight.

Many housekeepers have trouble with keeping airtight anything that is put up in jars. If, however, after a bottle or jar is corked it is sealed with a mixture of beeswax and rosin there is no danger of air getting at it.

Corn Muffins.

Sift together one and two thirds cupfuls of flour, one cupful of cornmeal, two scant teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat to a cream two tablespoonfuls of butter, with three of sugar, and add to them three well-beaten eggs.

Raspberry Rice Pudding.

Soften one tablespoon of gelatin in three tablespoonfuls of cold water, then place over boiling water, until dissolved. Press through a coarse sieve enough cooked rice to make one cupful, and add one cup of raspberry juice, the dissolved gelatin, half a cup of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice and the beaten whites of three eggs.

Stuffed Onions.

Place eight large Bermuda onions, peeled and mashed, in a baking dish. Cover with boiling water slightly salted. Bake them half an hour or till a wire will pierce them, then turn off the water, then with a sharp thin-bladed knife take out the heart without breaking the outer walls, fill the cavity with minced cold chicken and fine bread crumbs seasoned with melted butter.

HANDLE MONEY AND HATE IT

Peculiar State of Mind That Comes of Employees of the Most Noted Gambling Resort.

Probably no one hates the sight of money as do the croupiers at Monte Carlo, through whose hands thousands and thousands of pounds pass every year.

It is not everyone who can be a croupier. Fingering and counting money at the casino requires special training, and, accordingly, there is a school of croupiers in Monaco. Here there are tables similar to those used in the gambling rooms, and each "scholar" is taught by a "master" how to become a croupier.

The "master" and the "scholars" personate players, while one "scholar" takes the part of croupier. The money used is sham, metal discs being substituted for coins and slips of paper for bank notes. Within a given time the croupier-scholar must calculate and pay out the winning stakes, and he must make no mistakes. He has to learn how to pitch money from one end of the table to a precise spot at the other end, and a good many other things.

When a "scholar" is passed as perfect he enters the service of the casino under an agreement which stipulates that he can be dismissed at a moment's notice without any reason being given him.—London Tit-Bits.

Fanaticism and Progress.

Without fanaticism of a certain sort, progress would be impossible. The minds of men and women must be surcharged with love of a cause, or hatred of a wrong, else they will not put their all into the fighting. The very origin of the word "fanatic" connotes absorption in a single idea, for the word is derived from the Latin "fanum" (a temple) and the "fanaticus" was supposed to be maddened by the divinity whose fane he frequented. And it is quite certain that now, as of old, the motive power of every great propaganda is essentially religious, even though the leaders call themselves agnostics or atheists.

Father Would Understand.

This is the letter a boy away at boarding school for the first time is said to have written home: "Dear Parents: I hardly think I will be able to send you many letters while here. You see, when things are happening, I haven't time to write, and when they aren't happening, I haven't anything to write about. You'll understand how it is, won't you, father? And, mother, dear, you just ask father to explain to you how it is. So now I'll say good-by, with lots of love, and sign myself, in haste, Your "LOVING SON."

Bad, but All Well.

The saying "the good funeral of the bad woman," may be apocryphal, but it is attributed to the duke of Buckingham, not otherwise noted for the exercise of functions proper to the clergy. In the wicked London of the restoration an evil woman named Creswell ordered the payment of £10 for a funeral sermon in which no ill should be spoken of her. Buckingham's sermon was: "All I shall say of her is this: She was born well, she married well, lived well and died well; for she was born at Shadwell, married to Creswell, lived at Clerkewell and died at Bridewell."

Prince Charming.

"And you really once saw a prince?" "Yes." "Oh," she exclaimed, clasping her hands and gazing with awe into the eyes that had looked upon royalty, "what was he doing?" "Trying to balance a chair on his chin to amuse a chorus girl."

Considerably Removed.

"Rather nifty looking dairy maids in this musical comedy." "Yes, but I dare say the nearest they ever got to a dairy was a dairy lunch."

The Logical Sequence.

"What happens when a boss divorces himself from politics?" "The natural inference is that he takes care to secure alimony."

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless; Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food; Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory." Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place." Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent." Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

He Was Sure. "Sir, said a smart lawyer, "do you, on your oath, swear that this is not your handwriting?" "I reckon not," was the cool reply. "Do you swear that it does not resemble your writing?" "I do."

You take your oath that this writing does not resemble yours in a single letter?" "Yes, sir." "Now, how do you know?" "Cause I can't write."

In the Stone Age. "Here are sign words, professor, on the walls of this cave." "So I see."

"They tell, no doubt, a tale of great historical value." "Not exactly. This is just the lease of the cave. Says the tenant must pay forty clamshells per month in advance and isn't allowed to keep dinosaurs, pterodactyls or sabre-toothed tigers."

Its Character. She—I waive all claim to you miserable, undesirable affections. He—Well, you needn't make it such a hot walve.

Even More Fuss. "Does your husband make a fuss over his new auto?" "Yes, and under it, too."

Doubts About It. "Jimson is rather a negative sort of character, isn't he?" "Well, he is a camera lens."

A woman can beat a man at an argument, but that proves very little.

Left. "My rich uncle is dead." "Did he leave you anything?" "Yes, he left me penniless." Nearly every woman dislikes flattery—when she hears it applied to others.
