The mere names of some people spell death to anything with which they are identified.

Some people seem to forget that they, too, have a measure of sin that will some day find them out.

He is a MAN who acts frankly and honorably with friends and foes. He's an infernal knave who acts otherwise.

The Star may not stand tidal waves of adversity always, but while it lasts it will champion the cause of the common people.

Have you noticed how quickly your best friend will denounce you when you ceased to allow yourself to be a good thing for him?

Monday was an ideal day and Tuesday promised to be a companion but a cold blizzard blew up in the afternoon which the old timers say beat anything seen in this country for at least 25 years.

What is said to be the coldest fall seen in the Indian country in a number of years was experienced in Tulsa and Oklahoma generally this week. Sunday, a snow storm raged in northern Oklahoma preceded by falling of rain and sleet.

"The Negro Journal," published at Langston, has reached the editor's office. It is a neatly gotten up publication, full of valuable information to teachers, farmers, housewives, or anyone else interested in the Negro schools of this state. It is well worth the subscription price and promises to become the leading Negro educational journal of the Southwest.

The Dry-Farming congress is nearing a close of its setting in Tulsa with a record breaker in point of exhibits and attendance considering the inclement weather which has prevented many thousands from attending.

Owing to this fact the affairs of the International Dry Farming congress have agreed to extend the time of closing the big show until Sunday night instead of tonight.
