

FOURTH WAS BIG DAY FOR TULSANS

Parade, Athletic Stunts, Fireworks and Oratory Was Day's Program.

MANY OUTING PARTIES

Dancing and Picnics Helped Pass an Enjoyable Day for Young and Old.

Tulsa celebrated the Fourth. Perhaps not as noisily as some Fourth's have been celebrated in the city, but just as enthusiastically. The celebration commenced shortly after midnight Sunday night and lasted until midnight last night. The bang of exploding firecrackers was heard in all parts of the city—from the busy business district to the remote edges of the city.

The "official" celebration, in charge of the Tulsa chapter, National Veterans of America, began yesterday morning with a surprisingly successful parade, headed by officers of the police force and city officials. Veterans of the world war as well as veterans of other wars participated in the parade, wearing their service uniforms which had been given careful pressing for the occasion.

A dozen trucks of the Tulsa fire department filled a block of the parade. Splendid music was furnished by the D. O. K. K. military band and the Salvation Army band, both of which occupied prominent positions in the parade.

Hundreds of doughnuts, wrapped in dust-proof paper, were thrown to bystanders by Salvation Army lassies. Spanish war veterans, nattily-attired marines, the rifle and drum corps of the Pythian Sisters, Knights of Pythias and other fraternal organizations, helped to make up an inspiring parade. From Police Inspector Charles W. Daley to the last automobile, the parade presented a wonderful picture, entirely in keeping with the day which the parade commemorated.

With the Tulsa ball team out of the city, McNulty park was thrown open for the many games and contests held there as part of the day's celebration.

Tulsa Elks, "chaperoned" by William West, exalted ruler, started their part of the celebration early with a sunrise dance at Electric park. Tulsa literally "closed up shop" yesterday while the city turned out to celebrate the Fourth. Drug stores, cold drink stands and restaurants remained open—but that was about all. Practically every general and grocery store was closed so tight one couldn't have bought a toothpick. Those who hadn't laid in a supply of groceries Saturday night had to be content with stale bread and coffee without cream for their meals Monday. Clear stores were plentifully supplied with checks but little cash by Monday noon. They were the city's bankers.

Yesterday was a great day for picnics. Parkonia park, Sand Springs, Electric park—practically every place within a 10-mile radius of Tulsa where there were trees was the scene of merriment and eating by good natured picnickers. Roads from Tulsa to nearby towns were well traveled by motorists.

The day was singularly free from disorders which usually accompany a Fourth of July celebration. At Owen park last night there was a brilliant display of fireworks. A number of novelties were introduced which thrilled the tremendous crowd that thronged the park. The fireworks display was preceded by an informal program of speaking.

INCREASE CRIMINAL BOND

Youth Who Violated Bond Condition Must Obtain Larger Bond

Increasing the criminal appearance bond of Max Wilkerson from $2,000 to $5,000. Judge Gwen Owen's district court yesterday committed the defendant yesterday to await trial on the charge of conjoint robbery. Wilkerson was arrested in Vicksburg, Miss. Last week and turned over to local county officers as a violator of his appearance bond by violating the state of Oklahoma before the trial of his case. N. H. Langley, deputy sheriff, returned Wilkerson to this city Monday. The prisoner is wanted here for trial on an information charging him with robbing T. C. Williams and E. S. Fisher of $31.00 in money, a watch and ring at the former's grocery store, 1534 East Second street on December 6. Wilkerson made bond in district court and his case was continued last term, but because he left the state and violated the terms of his bond, the court ordered the defendant arrested and returned to Tulsa.

ELECTRIC PARK HAS RECORD DAY

Happy Throng Is Well Cared For at Popular New Red Fork Resort.

Electric park, Tulsa's newest amusement place, located on the Oklahoma Union Interurban, just south of Red Fork, was extremely popular with celebrators yesterday.

The park was well filled during the entire day.

A number of new concessions had just been installed, including an up-to-date merry-go-round and a skating rink. The merry-go-round is just from the factory at Leavenworth, Kans., and is one of the best equipped devices of its kind in this section of the country.

Last night the skating pavilion was crowded until midnight. Every boat was pressed into service, and Manager Will T. Davis declared he could easily have found use for two dozen more boats.

Parking space was provided for cars. Motorists came from Tulsa, Sapulpa, and the smaller towns in Tulsa and nearby counties. Every incoming interurban train helped swell the crowd.

"We had a lot of difficulty in getting ready to entertain the crowd today," Mr. Davis said last night. "What we accomplished is only temporary, at that. The tent over the skating rink will soon be discarded for a permanent building. The merry-go-round was put up in a hurry. There are a number of parts yet to be added before it is complete. It is perfectly safe and substantial now, but it will look better when it is finished."

HUGE CROWD AT SUNRISE DANCE

Strains of Music Rival Song Birds at Elks' Morning Caper.

The local lodge of Elks celebrated the Fourth with a sunrise dance at Red Fork. A special car carried a large crowd out and many motored in private conveyance. Jack Street's orchestra played the program, featuring patriotic music throughout. There were seventy-five couples present, among whom were a large number of visiting Elks and ladies. Doughnuts and coffee were served at breakfast time and were much enjoyed.

This dance was given instead of the usual Thursday night dance that was scheduled for last week. The merry crowd were lost in raptures of the full enjoyment of this outdoor pleasure, associated with its full complement of informality. It was voted that the dance be repeated at an early date. Not until long after eight o'clock did the carcasses of old sod make the dancers realize that good old summer time was here. Up to that time, the air was cool and delightful. The strains of the orchestra had its pretense in the songs of the woodland birds who were piping their shrill notes and who soon realized there were rivals nearby.
