RACE WAR RAGES FOR HOURS AFTER OUTBREAK AT COURTHOUSE; TROOPS AND ARMED MEN PATROLLING STREETS

Negroes Finally Driven Into "Little Africa" Where 1,000 Armed Blacks Are Reported at Bay With More Than 500 Armed Whites Facing Them Opposite Frisco Tracks; Move to Lynch Bootblack Starts Trouble.

BULLETIN: There are two dead negroes at the Frisco depot.

After six hours of race rioting, extending over the entire city, two white men are known to be dead and about a score are known to be injured.

There are no known negro fatalities, though reports are that several were killed. One injured negro is at the police station and is expected momentarily to die.

Thousands of shots were fired during the rioting, crowds swarmed up and down the streets brandishing weapons and the greatest excitement prevailed.

Both of the white men known to have been killed were shot through the head.

The city, patrolled by 45 automobiles filled with armed men, while 500 armed men with their center on the Frisco railway station within a stone's throw of an armed mob of 1,000 negroes, form the nucleus of the gathering white forces.

There was a furious outburst of firing in the vicinity of the Frisco tracks and Cincinnati about 2:30 this morning, but whether there were any casualties could not be ascertained.

Some negro shacks on the north side of the Frisco tracks at Boston were fired by white men at 2 o'clock. The blaze was spectacular and it was at first reported that "Little Africa's" business district was burning.

Firing which for two hours was general over the city and centered in the north part of the business district following the first outbreak at the courthouse about 10:15 o'clock last night declined at 1 o'clock after a crowd of 30 negroes were driven from Second street and Cincinnati avenue.

In response to a call from Muskego, indicating several hundred negroes were on their way to the city to assist Tulsa negroes should the fighting continue, a machine gun squad loaded on a truck, west east of the city with orders to stop at all hazards these armed men.

For three hours city officials, under direction of J. F. Adkison, police commissioner, and Charles Daley, inspector of police, with the assistance of part of the home guard company, formed armed white men into companies and these companies were marched to advantageous positions.

Hundreds of cars were volunteered for use by the armed patrol of the city, and these were speedily detailed to prevent armed negroes from taking action except in the negro district of the city.

About 12:30 a. m., when an armed party of whites, scouring the vicinity of the Frisco station after an attack by blacks, at the corner of second and Cincinnati, mistook a lone white man for a negro, and fired a round of at least 25 shots at the white pedestrian. Death was instantaneous and he was hit so many times his body was mangled almost past identification.

World reporter about four hours after the riot had broken out at which time he signed a telegram asking Governor Robertson for outside help to cope with the situation. The telegram was already signed by Chief Justice Johnston and Mayor T. B. Evans. While I do not feel the situation warrants help from the outside yet it is always best to place safety first, McCallough said.

The sheriff was well entrenched in the jail and the elevator was put out of commission early in the evening. The only entrance to the jail was up a winding stairway which terminated in great steel bars. It was behind these that the county sheriff and more than eight deputies were firmly entrenched.

Great difficulty was experienced in getting the telegram to the sheriff for his signature and the bearer was a stranger. It was at this time that a World reporter who was well acquainted with McCallough succeeded in getting the telegram to him for his signature.

Soon after the first few shots were fired around the courthouse in which one negro was wounded and one white killed the great crowd which had collected in front of the county building dispersed. The negroes running toward "Little Africa" and the whites scattering in all directions. A few knots of armed whites formed on all sides of the courthouse soon afterward and planned a reprisal on the negroes. These formed the most threatening crowd that collected at the county building.

At 10:30 o'clock a report was received at the police station that the hundreds of armed blacks were gathered at Frisco and Cincinnati and another invasion of the business district.

The demand for arms became clamorous. While the police were endeavoring to secure the opening of the hardware stores by legal means crowds began to batter in the doors of the Magee sporting goods store, almost across the street from the station. The first guns began to arrive from the Barton store on South Main. Armed men seemed to spring from everywhere.

Within half an hour an army of about 500 men was being drilled for duty and coached for emergency. Practically all hardware stores were emptied of guns and ammunition. Some opened their doors voluntarily.

The army of whites, Rooney and a bunch of national guard men on an army truck was a signal for others.

Now let the negroes come if they dare," the crowd shouted.

Armed groups were placed in cars and sent out on patrol duty. Companies of about 50 men each were organized and marched through the streets. A very few shots and a very fortunate result that no one was hurt.

Policeman's Life Is Saved. While the negroes were congregating at Second and Cincinnati about 10 o'clock, J. L. Wilson, a day patrolman, came into town in a Stoney not knowing what the trouble was.

The negroes saw him and in an instant he found himself in the hands of the mob. "That's one of them. Let's lynch him," they shouted.

But a negro preacher who has been shining shoes in a stand near the police station threw his arms around Wilson and pleaded so earnestly for his life that the blacks let him go.

Wilson kept admonishing the crowd during the evening to "let their guns show in their hands." Brakeman Shot Twice. A brakeman on an east bound freight train was shot twice by a negro at Madison and Frisco tracks according to reports.

Well in Hand Says Sheriff. "We believe we have the situation well in hand without further help from the national guards or state militia," Sheriff McCallough told a
