An exchange says with Tracy buried and King Edward crowned, there is room on the stage for a new sensation.

A Dallas paper tells us that Houston assessment for 1902 will sum up to $12,000,000, while Dallas assessment will fall below $25,000,000.

Disastrous windstorms, accompanied by only slight rainfall, visited Kansas City, Mo., and Trenton, N. J., last Sunday. The destruction of plate glass and signs is reported great.

The Post hopes that all nations of the earth will accept Germany's invitation to a conference on earthquakes. If the Kaiser has a scheme for sprinkling salt on the tail of an earthquake the world ought to know about it.

Kansas is making complaint that hot winds are undoing the beneficial work of the late rains for her growing crops. Wind is air in motion. Hot wind is therefore hot air. It is not Kansas alone that is a victim of hot air.

Special Ambassador Curry comments on the coincidence of three great European nations—England, France and Spain—wrestling at the same time with the conflict between church and state and points out that while different methods of procedure have been adopted by the different Powers, none of them have accepted the American solution of the problem—the absolute separation of church and state.

It has been a long time since politics in the affairs of the Indian Territory assumed the proportions they have at this time. The contest is not only for the honor of being the last governor of the Nation, for that is too lightly considered, but the power that's pushing things lies in the ratification of rejection rather of the supplementary treaty. If ratified, some will find their tenure of office radically uncertain for any great period, hence their devotion to the anti-treaty party.

FEDERAL OFFICER REMOVED.

A Deputy Marshal Seizes Whisky. Fails to Destroy It. The Fort Smith News-Record says passengers who came in from Quinlan last night report that little town was in a turmoil over the removal of Deputy United States Marshal Asa Wade Thursday.

Wade and his friends make allegations in connection with his removal that do not set well upon Marshal Hackett and Judge Clayton and that has naturally aroused the friends of these officials.

According to Wade's story, he received instructions from the marshal's office that a list of whisky would be brought in to influence the Choctaw election held Wednesday, and for him to seize the McCurtain whisky but not to molest the Hunter article, and that in compliance with orders he seized a barrel Wade claims that he carried out orders and was actually beheld for it.

There is a little side story in connection with it, which Wade does not tell, and which would justify his removal even if he had received the instructions he claims, which no one knowing Judge Clayton or Marshal Hackett believes, and that is that after seizing the whisky Wade did not destroy it as he should do under his oath as a deputy marshal, but distributed it promiscuously and a drunken orgie resulted, in which several men were severely beaten up, though none dangerously.

The cause assigned for the removal of Wade is a brutal treatment of a citizen of McCurtain. It is alleged Wade met a man carrying a box there and demanded it, but was refused, whereupon he hammered the man over the head with a revolver and fractured his skull.

CAUGHT AFTER MANY YEARS.

Bud Pulliam's Murderer Now Safely Behind the Jail Bars.

Yesterday afternoon Deputy Marshal George A. Foster of Perry O. T. arrived in the city, having in charge Jim Dillard, alias Sam Jones, charged with the murder of Bud Pulliam about five years ago out on Caddo.

From what we can find out the killing of Bud Pulliam occurred over the collection of a debt. Bud was collecting for old man Keller of Keller, and had an account against the negro Jim Dillard.

Bud rode up to Dillard's place and found him in the cotton patch weighing cotton. Bud got off his horse and went in, and just how the difficulty came up we did not learn, but certain it is that the negro shot Pulliam with a pistol and got away and was never arrested until a couple of days ago in Perry, Oklahoma.

Deputy George A. Foster told an Ardmoreite reporter yesterday afternoon that the negro was located there, and was taken upstairs into a building where a telegram was read to him, which authorized his arrest for murder in this district.

The negro saw he was trapped and made a break for the window, through which he jumped to the ground some fifteen or eighteen feet below to the sidewalk. He then ran and would have made his escape had it not been for Deputy Foster, who, being attracted by the noise, ran out and intercepted the fugitive. The deputy said he had no gun, but pointed his finger at the negro and told him to stop, and the negro obeyed. His capture was then effected and last evening he was brought down here and placed in jail.

TO BREAK UP CASEY GANG.

Deputy Sheriff Morrison Has Asked for Federal Assistance.

Guthrie, O. T., Aug. 11.—Deputy Sheriff Neal Morrison of Kiowa county is in the city to make arrangements with the Federal authorities to co-operate with the Territorial authorities in trying to break up the gang of outlaws, known as the Casey gang, that infest Southwestern Oklahoma and the northern part of Indian Territory.

Wednesday night Mr. Morrison and his posse located the gang, and threw pickets out around the Hews ranch where the outlaws were stopping. In some manner Casey, the leader, became aware of the presence of the officers and he, with two of his pals, sneaked away from the rest of the gang, leaving them to certain capture. When the officers rushed into the camp Monday morning they succeeded in capturing four of the lesser members of the gang, but the big birds had flown.

The Inspectors Released and Postmistress to Be Prosecuted.

Mangum, O. T., Aug. 11.—The case against Postoffice Inspector J. L. Stice, charged with robbing Mrs. T. W. Yates, the postmistress of this place of $47, has been dismissed and the warrant for the arrest of R. M. Hosford, another postoffice inspector on the same charge, has been called in without being served. Stice was arrested at Columbus, Kan., and came here immediately and related his story to the county attorney. He was promptly discharged. The county attorney also withdrew the warrant for Hosford's arrest. According to Stice registered mail at Mangum has been tampered with and some decoy letters were sent with marked bills. Mrs. Yates, the postmistress, was accused of the theft. She turned over $47 to the inspectors. This was the amount missing when her husband came in to Mangum from the farm she told him that a couple of men claiming to be postoffice inspectors, had held her up at the muzzle of a gun and robbed her of $47. The husband immediately had warrants issued for their arrest. Yates has been removed from the postoffice and the inspectors will prosecute her on the charge of robbing the mails.
