CHURCH MISSION BOARD FOR STATE

Presbyterian Synod Extends Activities in Oklahoma

WOULD TEACH MORALS

Resolution Adopted for Issuance of Textbooks in Public Schools

The Oklahoma synod will not hold its next annual meeting in October for several days, as usual, but instead will meet early in June for an entire week of leisurely sessions mixed with social features. This was decided at the Wednesday afternoon session in College Hill Presbyterian church. Setting of the date and naming of the place, together with formulation of a program, were left to a committee of five.

After detailed discussion, the recommendation of the synodical home mission committee for self-support and self-administration in the work in the state was adopted. This provides for the organization early in 1923 of an Oklahoma synodical home mission organization, to consist of the Presbyterian chairman of home missions and one layman elected from each presbytery, together with the synodical president of the woman's organization. The duties and responsibilities of this body will include: "The development of a common program of mission work for the synod; the preparation of a budget of needs on the basis of a study of its entire field; the distribution among the Presbyterians and fields of the budget annually appropriated for the work within the synod; the administration in co-operation with the board of home missions of work within the synod; a pledge to the board of home missions to raise all money necessary for the support of white work within our bounds; a request that the board of home missions finance the state executives for a period of two years, and the Indian work for a period of five years; a request that each church during 1923 contribute one dollar per member for home mission work."

Alva Man to Conference.

Joseph Hozarth of Alva, state Sunday school missionary, was authorized to represent the Oklahoma synod of the coming national daily vacation Bible school conference. Eighteen schools of this kind were conducted last summer within the synod, according to a report by Rev George S. Watson of Tahlequah. The daily vacation Bible school is not a theory. It is a success, a practical method of increasing and intensifying religious education," he said.

A resolution, setting forth that the statutes of the state make mandatory on the teachers in the public schools the teaching of morals but makes no specific provision for such teaching, was adopted, providing: "That a commission of five appointed for the purpose by the synod request the faculty of the University of Tulsa to prepare, or cause to be prepared, an outline of a textbook or textbooks, on morals, suitable to be taught in the public schools of the state, in the third or fourth grades, covering all ages from the primary to the high school, the text to take all the varied relationships of life from the moral standpoint, this commission to call a conference of the religious bodies of the state and try to obtain a unified petition books in the state curriculum."

Dr. Charles L. Overstreet of St. Louis, New Era secretary, prophesied that church budgets will never decrease in amount and that more and more church members will mine. Emphasis on stewardship is a part of the national church program this year, he reminded. Dr. Seth R. Gordon, reporting for the committee on board of publication and Sabbath school work, concluded: "There are millions of children in the Sunday schools that are not receiving sufficient religious education, and there are millions of children in this country who are not receiving any religious instruction at all. The salvation of America depends on the religious education of the youth."

Increase University Board.

At the morning session the increase of the University of Tulsa board from 27 to 40 members, as recommended by the board, was granted. Members re-elected were Rev. Ralph Lamb, W. M. Baker, Frank Barnes, R. P. Brewer, C. E. Buchner of this city and Rev. H. C. Shisler. New members elected for a term lasting to 1925 were Rev. Phil C. Baird of Oklahoma City, Rev. Thomas Murray of Bristow, who is president of the alumni association, Rev. George C. Fulcher of Okmulgee, Alva J. Niles, J. A. Hull and Charles O'Connor of Tulsa, Rev. F. H. Asgman of Norman. Those retiring are Rev. Frank A. Stone of Ponca City, Sam McBirney, Cyrus S. Avery, L. E. Abbott, W. A. Vandever, Cyrus Sweet, all of Tulsa, while those retiring in 1923 will be Rev. R. von Thurn of Anadarko, Rev. R. W. Estes of Hobart, C. E. Hulbert of Sand Springs, E. W. Hurley of Tulsa, Dr. James E. Clarke, of the general board of education; Dr. Louis Holden, president of James Milliken university at Decatur, and Reverend Baird of Oklahoma City were among the speakers at the morning session.

Following a dinner in the College Hill church Wednesday evening, Dr. Calvin C. Hays of Johnstown, Pa., moderator of the general assembly gave an address in the university auditorium. Doctor Hays arrived here early in the evening. H. T. Langhbaum of the state Anti-Saloon league spoke during the dinner hour.

The synod will hold its closing session at 8:30 Thursday morning. The program includes addresses by Rev. J. Herron Miller on "Men's Work," by George C. Abernathy on "New Era," by U. S. Schaul on "Young People's Work," by T. S. Buchanan on "Church Erection," and reports by special committees. Rev. George S. Watson will conduct chapel services at the university.

The Tulsa, Muskogee and Cimarron presbyteries have each held their annual meeting at odd hours during the meeting. Eight Indian pastors are in attendance.

As the first step toward a superpower system for the entire nation the French parliament has passed a bill requiring electric companies to merge their interests when so directed by the minister of public works.
