THE BLANKET PRIMARY.

We are not exactly on to this blanket primary. The "warp and wool" are Texas products.

In Mississippi, Arkansas, South Carolina, Louisiana and other States, nominations were made by popular vote.

Other and older states than Texas have dealt with this problem. In Mississippi, Arkansas, South Carolina, Louisiana and other States, nominations were made by popular vote.

In both these States the Democrats are in a hopeless minority, except when the Republican machine gets so bad that the people rebel.

When our constitutional convention meets to frame the fundamental laws of our state, they have before them an undertaking which is worthy of only the noblest characters.

The candidate nominated by every unfairness known to convention methods and elected through fraud and chicanery occupies a false position.

The party that cannot give the people an honest show and a fair count of the votes does not deserve the favor of the people.

How grateful we feel that we have in the new state a political party that is willing to place the political power of the State in the hands of the people.

How inspiring all this! It need not be surprising at all if the Democrats sweep the country!

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Some minds reach a certain point in their development and stop. They become absolutely immovable.

This was shown in the recent platform of the League of Republican Clubs. Finding that their party is in danger of being defeated in the coming congressional elections, they make their old time appeal to sectional prejudices in the hope of stopping the tide toward Democracy.

It is the old errors of the minds that stopped growing in 1890, which think that all the North can be united and solidified by any appeal to attack the South.

Those people want to go back to those shameful days and renew the fires of hatred and try to save their party by uniting it in a new war on the South.

TWO FUSIONS.

Vermont democrats and independent republicans have fused. They hope to carry the state.

For several years Senator Proctor has had full control of the state and this year had his son nominated by the machine for Governor.

In Pennsylvania there is a fusion between the better class of Republicans and the Democrats.

A state constitution is a guarantee to the people from the state of the inherent liberties and freedom, to which they have become accustomed and a check upon the future legislators of that state.

In other words, the bill of rights does the same for state law, as the first thirteen amendments do for the people under national law.

Makes Slight Changes in Plans for the Two New School Buildings. The public school board met in called session yesterday afternoon at the business offices of the First National bank. All members of the board were present, as were several architects and Contractor Fraley, who has been awarded the contract for the erection of the two new brick school buildings which are to be erected, one in the second and one in the fourth ward. The purpose of the meeting was to estimate the cost of making a few changes in the plans of the buildings which had been accepted by the board several days ago. The changes which were to be figured upon were in the basement. The board had decided to extend the basement the entire size of the building instead of half its size, and had called the meeting for that purpose. After some discussion on the subject and a careful going over of the plans, it was decided that the basement could be made the size of the building at the same cost that it could be made the size first specified in the plans. It was thought the contract for the erection of the buildings, which was received by C. E. Fraley, his being the lowest bid, would be signed up at the meeting yesterday afternoon, but this was not done. Another meeting of the board will be held soon and the contract signed up, so that work can begin immediately on the construction of the buildings. It is the intention of the board and they have instructed the contractors to that effect that the buildings be finished by the first of October, at which time the public schools of the city open. W. A. Watts, charged with introducing and selling whisky, was given a preliminary hearing this afternoon in the commissioner's court. After the trial he was bound over under $350 bond, which he gave. The evidence in the case was lengthy and consumed most of the afternoon. Watts lives at Brock and is also under a $500 bond on a grand jury indictment, charging him with the same offense.
