IT HURTS THEIR FEELINGS.

So alert is our neighbor, "the only democratic daily in the valley," in throwing slurs at Union soldiers, and especially those who have lived to become objects of their country's gratitude, that it will stoop to the lowest and most silly comparisons for that purpose. The latest appeared last evening, when it picked up a crippled street beggar and read a homily upon him, which ended as follows:

"There is no pension roll for such Congressional flounders make a wide distinction between political patriotism and Christian charity."

It is very evident that the Vilette editor's "Christian charity" did not take him close enough to the poor mendicant to contribute toward his relief or he would scarcely have so little common American manhood as to compare him to a pensioned Union soldier, for right in front of the cripple sat his own fellow who was run over by an express train in England in 1876, while on his return from the horse races, and the injury necessitated the amputation of both his legs above the knees. What do you think, Union soldiers, of being compared to such objects of charity as that? What must be the feelings toward the Union of an editor who can exult such vile trash? And yet republicans are blamed for waving the bloody shirt!

And, right here Messrs. Republicans, did you ever stop to think how many of you are misled into sickening sentimentality over this "bloody shirt" business? Many of you are afraid to say a word about the war or its results, lest some rebel copperhead might feel that his feelings were hurt, while on the other hand the most rampant of those rebels and copperheads can with perfect impunity, in print or on the street corner, give free vent to their stock of vituperation and abuse of union soldiers and loyal statesmen. In fact it is beginning to look as though all the apologies must come from you fellows who fought in blue uniforms and you must simply commiserate with the fellows who wore the gray and their northern disfigure face allies on account of their blighted hopes.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS.
 Another Oklahoma meeting, to be held in Wichita, is agitating southwestern Kansas.
 A bill allowing women to vote on the license question has passed the third reading in the Massachusetts House.
 Louisiana is preparing to organize an immigration bureau. A committee just appointed will submit an act to the legislature in May.

The Globe-Democrat ticket: For president in 1888, Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana; for vice president, John D. Long, of Massachusetts.

The Canadian federal appropriations for the next fiscal year will aggregate between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000.
 Kansas has 32,767 pensioners. Five hundred new claimants were placed on the rolls during the month of February.

THE ADMINISTRATION BILL.

Cotton ties are simply strips of sheet iron used to bind together bales of cotton. They are substantially the same as the iron strips used in the North upon many kinds of packages in which goods are shipped, but the demand for them is confined, of course, to the cotton growing States, which are sold for the Democracy, and are represented in part in Congress by the junta that controls the ways and means committee. For this reason the new tariff bill which Seamless-Stocking Mills has sweat out of his immense brain puts cotton ties upon the free list and leaves all other iron ties to pay a heavy duty. This illustrates the principle that limps and stumbles through the tariff bill which goes into congress and to the country as the administration measure. Constructed by avowed free traders it is of course a free-trade measure, but in drafting it the free-trade doctrine has been applied to punish sections of the country, which are republican, and retain for democratic and doubtful sections all the advantages of the protection they now enjoy. They told us the business they had in hand was to get rid of the surplus by abolishing the taxes on the necessities of life. What they have attempted to do is to paralyze the industries of the North for the benefit of the South. Coal, sugar and salt are all necessities of life, but a man's bill for salt, whether it be taxed or untaxed, is a mere bagatelle compared with the cost of the sugar and coal he uses, if he heats his home with coal, and if the theory of the free traders that a duty is always added to the cost of an article be true, the way to relieve the people and abolish the surplus was to let in coal and sugar free. Mr. Mills, however, leaves the duty on coal untouched because there are immense deposits of coal in the South, cuts the heavy tax on sugar less than a fourth because sugar is a southern product, and offsets this by relieving consumers of the duty on salt, which is produced only in a few Northern States, and so on through the list. "Be it enacted that what democratic states buy and do not produce shall be admitted free, and that what they produce shall pay the same duty as now," would have been much more brief, and amounted to the same thing. But there is one good thing about the bill. It stands no chance of becoming a law, and as a campaign document will do excellent service for the Republicans.

A GRATUITOUS INSULT.
 Bill Anderson, quite a notorious saloon keeper of this city, takes occasion to do something he may think "funny," by announcing himself in the Statesman this morning as a candidate for sheriff before the prohibition convention. It is just such brazen breaks as Anderson's (the result of conscious power) that makes even the most liberal citizens disgusted with the saloon and its influences, and which is sure in time to bring its own destruction. Those men should be mighty thankful they are let along and keep a quiet demeanor.

The Recorder is now owned by two practical printers, J. M. Upton and B. F. Tupper, who announce that it will be a prominent institution, independent in politics but not neutral, and will make a strong fight in the interest of Coos and Curry counties. The Recorder looks neat and we wish it success.

Dr. August C. Kenney, well known in this city is said to be the probable nominee of the prohibition party for Congress. He was candidate for secretary of state on that ticket in 1886.

New York Sun: "Begin with the internal revenue. Experiment with the custom duties afterwards, if necessary."

The late Mr. Aleott was a vegetarian, but not a bigoted one. "Animal food may be good for you," he would say to his daughter, "but it is not for me."

The two elections held in Massachusetts Monday resulted very satisfactory to the temperance people. Out of fifty-five towns in the eastern part of the state only eight voted for license.

The New York Legislative committee which has been investigating the telephone companies, reports a bill to regulate charges, but says it is powerless to recognize the state royalties.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Judge Gresham is the favorite of the people as distinguished from the politicians. This would be a good year to try the experiment of compelling the politicians to stand aside and of permitting the people to select the candidate.
