A Day's Programme For Literary Men.

The London Hospital thinks the afternoon nap quite unnecessary and prescribes this regimen for literary workers: They should never go for more than eight hours a day. Early rising would be good for most of them. A cup of coffee and a piece of toast at half past 6 might be followed by an hour's work from 7 to 8. The whole hour between 8 and 9 should be devoted to a thoroughly good breakfast and a short walk. Work from 9 to 12. Half an hour should then be spent in gentle sauntering in the fresh air, and a light lunch should follow—say a chop and bread, with a modicum of light pudding, accompanied by a small glass of lager beer. From 1 to 2 a pipe and a saunter, and at 2 a cup of black coffee. From 2 to 4 work. At 4 a cup of afternoon tea and a rest until 5. From 5 to 6 or half past work, and at half past 6 the real labors of the day should be over and completed. At 7 a good, well cooked, appetizing, slowly eaten dinner, followed by one cup of black coffee, but no tea. At a quarter to 11 a small cup of cocoa and one or two pieces of toast. At 11 bed, and sleep until 6 or 6:30. The brain worker should not work more than five days a week in this fashion. He should have two days of leisure in the week. The first of these should be devoted to brisk and thoroughly fatiguing exercise in the open air, and the second to lolling, lounging, a little light reading and the like.

Seeing by Electricity.

Morse taught the world years ago to write at a distance by electricity, the telephone enables us to talk at a distance by electricity, and now scientists are agreed that there is no theoretical reason why the well known principles of light should not be applied in the same way that the principles of sound have been applied in the telephone, and thus allow us to see at a distance by electricity. It is some 10 years since the scientific papers of the world were greatly exercised over a report that I had filed at the Smithsonian institution a sealed packet supposed to contain a method of doing this very thing—that is, transmit the vision of persons and things from one point on the earth to another. As a matter of fact, there was no truth in the report, but it resulted in stirring up a dozen scientific men of eminence to come out with statements to the effect that they too had discovered various methods of seeing by electricity. That shows what I know to be the case, that men are working at this great problem in many laboratories, and I firmly believe it will be solved one day.—Professor Bell in McClure's Magazine.

Marvels of Architecture.

Each time I have visited the White City I have been more impressed with its beauty; each time I have wondered again how anything so beautiful could have sprung up in the neighborhood of that smoke begrimed city of huge, ugly buildings and of long streets of unbecomingly tall buildings. Some one has said that while the buildings of the Paris exposition of 1889 were such as one might expect to find at Chicago those at the World's fair are such as one might expect to find at Paris. There is much truth in the remark, and certainly by far the finest exhibit at the fair is the buildings—those whitened sepulchers of staff which but for a broken corner here and there which reveals their hollowness have all the effect of substantial stonework.—Cor. Dundee Advertiser.

CATARRH IN CHILDREN

For over two years my little girl's life was made miserable by a case of Catarrh. The discharge from the nose was large, constant and very offensive. Her eyes became inflamed, the lids swollen and very painful. After trying various remedies, I gave her the first bottle of S.S.S. The first bottle seemed to aggravate the disease, but the symptoms soon abated, and in a short time she was cured. Dr. L. B. RITCHIE, Mackey, Ind.

Eckels says: "I do not see that any explanation of language is necessary. There is no reflection upon the state or any city except such as have been known and looked upon as cities where speculation was rife. There is no one but believes that in states named a majority of financial institutions are absolutely solvent. On the other hand and in a short time she was cured. Dr. L. B. RITCHIE, Mackey, Ind.

Large Crowds Present and a Grand Concert.

CHICAGO, July 21.—The weather continues bright and cool. This is Swedish day at the world's fair and the immense numbers that marched in the procession made it one of the most successful national demonstrations yet held. The various organizations which participate formed down town and proceeded by boats to the fair and marched through the grounds to the Swedish building, where they were reviewed by the royal commissioners. After the parade a grand concert was held in the festival hall. Among the participants were: C. F. Landquist, of the royal opera of Stockholm, and Mme. THE SIAMESE SITUATION.

England, Russia, and China Taking a Hand.

WHAT WILL GERMANY TOLERATE.

Foreign News From All Four Continents.

PARIS, July 21.—The Russian fleet in Chinese waters is under orders to proceed to the Gulf of Siam for the purpose of supporting and protecting the French residents of Siam. It is expected to arrive there soon.

PARIS, July 21.—A dispatch from Bangkok states that the Siamese court is greatly agitated. Preparations are apparently under way for the departure of the king and court from the capital. Reports of the intentions of the king to leave Bangkok have spread among the populace and caused much excitement. The dispatch adds that it is stated that a popular agitation in favor of France has started in the province of Battambang and troops have been sent to put down the sedition.

The senate today passed unanimously a resolution approving in every respect the attitude of the government in the Siamese affair.

In Siam.

BANGKOK, July 21.—The belligerent attitude of three French gunboats opposite the middle of the city is causing great anxiety among the people. They are cleared for action and are continually beating to quarters and training guns on Siamese gunboats that happen to pass. Siam is doing her best to convince the French minister that her intentions are amicable, but that freedom of action in the negotiations is much restricted by the pressure exercised ostentatiously by the French war vessels.

LONDON, July 21.—A special cabinet meeting was summoned at which there was a full attendance. France's demand on the Siamese was discussed at length and the eventual instructions for the Marquis of Dufferin, the British ambassador to France, formulated and approved.

Immediately after the meeting Earl Roseberry, secretary of state for foreign affairs, communicated with the admiralty in regard to the disposition of the fleet in Asiatic waters. Late in the afternoon special orders were dispatched by the admiralty to Vice Admiral Fremantle, commander-in-chief of the Chinese division. Even if not alarmed by the course of France the government is believed to realize that the Siamese affair is fraught with most serious possibilities, for which immediate preparation must be made by Great Britain.

Peruvian Item.

LIMA, July 21.—General Caeceres, the official and military candidate for president, is having a proclamation concerning the campaign secretly prepared. There is great indignation among the citizens of the United States residing in Peru because the cruiser Alliance has been ordered to proceed to Corinto. They believe that owing to the political situation in Peru the vessel should have been kept in Peruvian waters.
