OLIVETTE SCORES SPLENDID SUCCESS

TWO LARGE AUDIENCES HEAR OPERA FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NIGHTS.

Not only the most pretentious but the best performance ever given in Wallowa county is the unanimous opinion of all who saw the opera Olivette. Two large audiences rewarded the splendid work of the singers, and the enterprise of the opera house management. On Saturday night nearly every seat was taken, many who were present Friday night coming again because they enjoyed the performance so much. A large number of Joseph Lostine, Alder Slope and Prairie Creek residents attended.

Not only was the singing fine of both principals and chorus, but the acting was of high class, fully equal to professional performances in large cities. Credit is due to both Prof. Boyer and the members of the cast, one and all, for there was not a flaw to be found.

The beautiful voices of Miss Browning and Mr. Pratt justified the largest measure of local pride. Miss Bryan was a charming Olivette while Mr. Streeter simply outdid himself as Captain De Merrimac.

Mr. Boyer was a most satisfactory Captain of the Guards, and Mr. Miller was a very amusing Coquillicot, foster brother and henchman of the Duc Des Ifs (Mr. Pratt). Dr. Ault sang well the part of Marvejol, Seneschal to the Countess of Roussillon (Miss Browning), Miss Corkins as Veloutine and Mr. Browning as Lar-timon deserve praise while Miss De-Pue was very clever as the cabin boy. The courtiers and nobles, wedding guests, sailors and pages formed a splendid chorus that had its full share in the success. The personnel included Mesdames French, Burnaugh, Clark, Miller and Vest; Misses Zurcher, Olmsted, Makin, Eva Makin, Weaver, Stubblefield, Carter, Wilson, Roberts and Marie Browning; Messrs. Zurcher, Fleener and Putnam. The accompaniments were excellently played by Miss Maggie Roup. The staging and setting of the piece was good and the costumes the best that Chicago could furnish.

While the receipts were large, they barely cover the expenses, which were very heavy especially for the costumes.

NEW SHEEP FIRM. Henry Fletcher and E. B. Knapp have bought a splendid sheep ranch of 320 acres on Swamp Creek of Polk Mays, and Mr. Fletcher 40 acres additional of Mr. Mays. The consideration for the 360 acres was $3600. The deal was effected through the real estate agency of the O. R. & I. company. Mr. Fletcher is the popular salesman in charge of the machinery department at the E. M. & M. while Mr. Knapp, who came here from Michigan a year ago, has already made a success as a wool grower. The new firm has the best wishes of all for its success.

Track Completed To Canyon Bridge

Steel Gang Reached Wallowa River Crossing Saturday—Building Sidetracks There.

The track of the Wallowa county extension was laid to the Bridge Saturday night, and Monday morning work began on the temporary bridge over the Wallowa river at that point. This will delay tracklaying about six days.

Sidetracks are being put in at Minam, as the town at the Bridge is to be called, and it is reported a depot will be built, and the construction supply yard installed for laying the remainder of the track to Joseph.

The work is one week behind the schedule given out about a month ago by the engineer in charge, but unless unforeseen delays occur the track will be finished to Enterprise early in October.

Contractors Patterson and Mitchell are making good progress on the grading and will have their work completed well in advance of the steel gang. Mitchell has established a camp this side of Lostine.

Mrs. Eva Hurd, sister of Mrs. Ben Weathers, left for her home at Payette, Monday, after a visit with her father and other relatives here. An other daughter of Mr. Haggerty, Mrs. Pearl Smith of Corvallis, who also is visiting here, will leave for her home Friday.

EVENTS OF NORTH COUNTRY TRAVELS

JOYS AND WOES OF ACCOMPANYING THE MIGHTY—HOSPITABLE PEOPLE.

This thing of a poor and lowly editor riding around over the country and especially partaking of the kindly hospitality of the people, in company with a high and mighty county commissioner has an awfully depressing effect on one's bump of self-esteem. We are content to play second fiddle, the position nature and our extreme modesty intend us to occupy, but to have our insignificance rubbed in is going too far. We gave Sam Litch fair warning that his misdeeds would be made public; that we would tell how he monopolized the spot-light; how he insisted on all the choicest tid-bits for himself and then would accuse us at the next place we stopped of doing the bulk of the eating; how he would recklessly trot the horses down Troy hill when we were on the down-side and how careful he walked them when HE was on the down-side. All this he did and much more, but we forgave him the half of it when we got through the splendid dinner at Peter Ficker's. You will understand why when we tell you that Peter Ficker, the Troy postmaster, hasn't any use for editors. Why we don't know but we found it out last winter when we visited Mr. Ficker just after Jack Kerns and Ben Weather had stayed all night with him. He pretends to think that editors seldom tell the truth, but just why Ficker objects to that is not clear unless it is he objects to competition. And Sam Litch, aided and abetted by W. G. Locke, was responsible for that grand dinner at Ficker's, and a poor editor would never have partaken of it if he had not been in distinguished company.

Everything considered, it was worth playing second fiddle to bask in the reflected glory of Litch and partake in our humble and spinning way of the meals prepared for him. For we were treated something gorgeous, as old man Enright would say. We stopped to see the fine, big new barn Dale Estes is building and he took us out into his peach orchard where we could get a better view of his cornfield, and he didn't have to urge us overmuch to sample his luscious peaches, nor to fill our pockets with them. Estes sure has a nice place along the Grande Ronde river just below Troy, and he raises every thing the heart could desire—fruit of all kinds, grapes, peaches, pears, apples, melons, apricots, even almonds and walnuts. The latter are all right for those who like them but as for us we think they are over rich for the ordinary stomach. A least we found them so after sampling a quart or two. They were the first we had seen since we left the East—is our only excuse.

People who never were at Grouse can form no idea of the beautiful farms up on the benches, like Ever Richman's and George D. Boston's. There are no cosier, prettier farm homes in all this big county, and as for crops—well it won't do to tell; it would sound too much like Peter Ficker story. All the grains that thrive in this valley grow to perfection there, and in addition there is corn that would make an Iowa homesick. And the fruit—well the day is coming when the fame of Hood River and Wenatchee will be as a candle in the glory of the Grouse sun. Now, except for home use, the fruit is hardly known. Mr. Boston, after supplying the family wants, those of many neighbors and filling Sam Litch's sack, had from 1200 to 1500 pounds of the largest and finest Bing cherries we ever saw, left on his young trees. How ever Mr. Boston is a forehanded man and has a drier, in which his surplus prunes, cherries, etc., will be prepared for market. For you must know, market to all that fine country is 60 miles away over mountain roads. But it will not always be so. Even now there are road petitions preparing that would bring Grouse within 45 miles of this valley over a good road. And some day there's going to be a railroad down the Grande Ronde, or the Little Salmon, or both, and then that country will come into her own. And every owner of 40 acres of it will be independent.

Forty-eight new lock boxes are being installed in the postoffice.

BUYS PRAIRIE CREEK FARM.

J. S. Crockett of Marshall, Mo. brother of Rev. W. S. Crockett, pastor of the Christian church, has bought a 120 acre ranch near the Pratt school house, of Jay Lewis for $5000. Mr. Crockett has returned home for his family. He received a sample copy of the News Record sent by Thomas Morgan a few months ago, subscribed for it and naturally became interested in the splendid opportunities here.

PLANS NOT ACCEPTED.

Plans for the courthouse, submitted by Robert Miller, were not accepted by the county court as they called for a building exceeding the cost limit set by the court. Other plans are being considered Wednesday.

Deserted Husband And Two Children

Mrs. B. Moore of Kaiama Runs Away But is Arrested at Portland.

A news story in the Portland Journal of August 7, tells of the arrest in that city of "Mrs. B. Moore of Kaiama, Wash.," who had left her husband and two children, to elope with C. O. Imus, also of Kaiama and who has a wife and three children. Mrs. Moore took her baby with her to the house in Portland where she was to meet Imus. The police arrested her on a telegram from Kaiama before Imus appeared. It was stated in the article that "Mr. Moore formerly taught school in Enterprise, Ore."

In Saturday's Journal the sequel was given as follows:

Mrs. B. Moore, the woman from Kaiama, Wash., who was arrested yesterday on complaint of her husband, was freed in the justice court today on motion of the district attorney, the husband consenting.

C. O. Imus, the married man of Kaiama, whom Mrs. Moore was to meet here, so the husband said, could not be found, and the officials did not wish to prosecute the woman with the man in the case going scot-free.

Mr. Moore, the injured husband, let it be known that he will provide a home for his wife, though he did not promise that she would be at once taken back to his home and he two children whom she left. The third child, a baby, was brought to Portland by Mrs. Moore and was kept by her in the county jail last night.

TWO BALL GAMES.

Two big ball games are scheduled at the Enterprise grounds for next Saturday and Sunday when the Wallowa team will clash with the local boys. The two clubs have broken even on games played so far this season. The Wallowa team is stronger than ever with two crack players like Clemens and Clark in the line-up. The home team is strengthened too as Edgar Marvin, one of the best players in the county, will probably handle Blyeu's puzzling delivery. Pace, Billy Bauer, Fleener Savage, Crumpacker, and Zurcher are others that will probably be in the game.

BALLOONISTS READY FOR STREET FAIR

WILL MAKE ASCENSIONS BOTH FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—CARNIVAL NOTES.

Professors Hicks and Reed, the balloonists, arrived in Enterprise Tuesday evening and are ready for the ascensions and parachute jumps that will be made Friday and Saturday of this week, at the big street fair and carnival. Prof. Hicks has about recovered from his injuries and says if the weather stays nice he will ascend to a great height and use his racing parachute for the drop.

Great preparations are being made for the carnival. Already the public square resembles a miniature world's fair in process of building. The big tent of the dancing pavilion, houses and tents for the shows and marvels, many booths, the Midway, and the mysterious "On the Range" crowd the big square. Over all will be the strings of electric lights reaching from the flag pole to the streets and a cluster of four big arc lights in the center. The illuminations alone will be worth coming miles to see, and will be on the most magnificent scale ever attempted in the county.

Another big free feature is the parade each day at 11 o'clock headed by the Queen of the Carnival in her chariot. Both beautiful and comic floats will be in the pageant and a company of cavalry commanded by United States troopers, will give a drill. The line of march for the parade is as follows: From Grant and East First streets, on Grant to East Third, north to Greenwood, west to West Second, north to Main, east to East Second, north to North, west to River, south to Public Square and carnival grounds.

There is a long list of sports, racing of all kinds, for which handsome prizes are offered by Enterprise merchants.

The fun begins at midnight Thursday night when Mayor Mayfield delivets over the golden key (3 feet long) to the band, and it is guaranteed that there will be no more sleep in Enterprise from that hour until the clock strikes twelve on Saturday night.

Queen of Carnival.

Voting is in progress at Burnaugh & Mayfield's for Queen of the Carnival. Polls will close at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The standing at 2 p. m. Wednesday was as follows:

- Eula Forsythe 652.
- Katherine Kay 350.
- Nettie Stubblefield, 130.
- Amy Olmsted 35.
- Mary Zurcher 20.
- Ethel Weaver 20.
- Edna Browning 436.
- Katherine DuFur 150.
- Etha Kooch 50.
- Lucille Corkins 35.
- Inez Makin 20.

FILED ON HOMESTEADS.

Wm. R. Warnock of Imnaha, Emery A. Mace and James Wisenor of Whitebird made entries Saturday at the La Grande land office on forest reserves, and Albert Metelich of Troy made a homestead entry.
