SELECT A COMMITTEE FOR RECRUITING WORK

Monday evening Act State Secretary W. E. Wright and Recruiting Officer Frank E. Sickles, of the Y. M. C. A., were in the city and with a number of our citizens selected a committee for the purpose of helping in the recruiting of the Y. M. C. A. for work overseas, and also in this country.

There is a need of 1,000 men monthly for Y. M. C. A. work in the following four classes: Auto drivers, mechanics and repair men, athletic directors, educational men and hut secretaries. For men for overseas service the age limit is set at 50, and not younger than 37 years.

Even should the war cease suddenly, there will be immense reconstruction work to be done and the Y. M. C. A. will be in urgent demand for two years or more.

A local committee has been formed consisting of Theo. P. Cramer, chairman; Dr. E. C. Macy, secretary, and Sam H. Baker, R. K. Hackett and Rev. Melville T. Wire. Anyone desiring information can obtain the necessary blanks from the secretary, Dr. E. C. Macy.

Messrs. Wright and Sickles left for Roseburg this morning.

Justice of Supreme Court Conrad P. Olson is able, aggressive and square. Write his name on ballot November 5th to succeed himself in vacancy caused by death of Frank A. Moore. (Adv.)

MISS BUELL WRITES OF CAPITOL EXPERIENCES

Miss Buell Writes Home
The many friends of Miss Florence Buell, 22 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Buell, 122 D street, will be pleased to learn of her promotion as chief or "head lady" in her branch of "the chief of ordnance U. S. A. army, Washington, D. C."

At a direct call last spring Miss Buell resigned her position as teacher from a country school and hurried to Washington, where with true western vim and an ambition to win, she has forged steadily ahead until she has attained her present enviable position.

Her long letters home, picture her busy, active, war time life. Work hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. with a rest period of 15 minutes morning and evening, out of doors, noon period from 1 to 1:45.

Everything is done in the city to protect the public health, yet on October 15 there were 44 deaths, with 10,000 cases of Spanish influenza in the city.

She writes that everything there is "war, liberty loan and Spanish influenza." In returning from the Red Cross rooms one evening, "I walked by the White House. It was beautiful, but you can't stop and admire, or some one will step out from nowhere and politely tell you to 'move on.'"

Accepting an invitation to visit a near by military camp, "I watched the boys answer an 'all outside' call and make formations, afterward they formed in groups and sang. They were having a religious meeting at the 'Y.' Everything was calm but underneath ran a current of excitement for they knew they were starting across." The next day the camp was filled with cavalry all "strapping big fellows from the west," and on her return saw a train load of wounded soldiers returning to the Walter Reed military hospital in Washington.

Waiting for a train at Richmond, Va., she visited the capitol "to see what it looked like." She thinks Oregon has something to be proud of in comparison. She says Virginia is a wonderful country, but cannot compare with Oregon and the west, and finds it amusing to hear people say they have "heard such great stories of the west that after the war is over they are all planning a trip to Chicago and Iowa."

The Courier is a most welcome guest each week. She wants all inquirers to know she is not coming home until "after the war."

GERMANS STEAL WHOLE FORESTS FROM HELPLESS

Amsterdam, Oct. 29.—Irretrievable damage has been wrought by the Germans in the forests of Poland, asserts Professor Mazosevitch at Cracow. In Warsaw province alone, the German governor has confiscated one third of the forest lands within his jurisdiction, or more than 500,000 acres. Lithuania and White Russia have suffered even more, especially the virgin forests of Bialoviez, which covers an area of 320,000 acres and are estimated to be worth $200,000,000. These forests have now been cut up by the Germans.

BRITISH NAVAL FLEET IS MORE THAN DOUBLED

London, Oct. 29.—Figures made public on the growth of the British navy during the war show the fleet, including auxiliaries, increased from 2,500,000 tons displacement to 6,500,000 tons and the personnel from 148,000 to 406,000.

Since the outbreak of the war 21,500,000 soldiers have been transported by sea. Of this number 4,391 were lost.

For the requirements of the British army and naval forces more than 86,000,000 tons of stores were transported and more than 24,000,000 tons were taken overseas for Great Britain's allies.

Transportation was also provided for 2,000,000 animals.

S. A. T. C. BARRACKS ARE ABOUT READY AT U. OF O.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 29.—The new S. A. T. C. barracks will probably be ready for occupancy within a week. The work has been delayed to some extent by the illness of some of the workmen with influenza, and the inability to replace them with other men. The contract is now being rushed, and the finishing work is in progress.

The barracks is two stories in height and will accommodate about 200 men. The ground floor is divided into two large rooms. In the rear of the barracks, a separate building is being erected containing shower baths.

Hawk Works Hard for Living.
The hawk is a successful fisherman, and were its task done with the catching of a fish its lot would be an enviable one. But a live fish is not desirable as the piece de resistance of a hawk dinner, so the bird that catches one always flies around until the fish is dead. This, we are told, is the invariable practice.

Sometimes a fish expires quickly, while at other times a hawk must fly around for hours before it can return home to the waiting family. There have been times when the fish have displayed stamina greater than the birds. This may explain why hawks seldom pounce on the croaker, most tenacious of life of all fish in the waters roundabout.

There is a well-attested instance of a hawk which started to fly around with a croaker it had caught and, after flapping about a whole afternoon and half a night, fell exhausted on the beach. Fishermen who were attracted by the unusual occurrence found the hawk dead while the croaker, fast in the lifeless talons, had not croaked.

SHELL THE KAISER WITH NUT SHELLS

The war department needs pits and nut shells enough to make 142,357 gas masks a day. It takes 200 peach stones or 7 pounds of other pits and nut shells to make one mask.

The boys "over there" are making wonderful progress in their war work. Can we do as well with our "over here?" They need gas masks now more than ever before. After the war is over they wont need them. Save your pits and nut shells now. Send them in as soon as possible to Demaray's Drug store, Mrs. H. H. Allyn, 818 Lawridge Ave., or put them in one of the barrels which have been placed on the street corners for this purpose.

QUEER SIGHTS ARE SEEN AT EXAMINATION DEPOT

Camp Kearny, San Diego, Cal., Oct. 27.—Some queer sights are seen here when recruits are given physical examination on the occasion of their induction into the army. Obviously, complete examination requires that the men strip, but some of them interpret this with reservations.

It is nothing to see a 200 pound recruit ambling briskly along the line of medical officers wearing a pair of eye glasses and nothing more. Recently one man, obedient to the order given him at the entrance of the examination building, took off all his clothes but disobeyed the order insofar as it applied to hose supporters. Another construed a wrist watch as not being "clothes" and wore it and nothing else throughout the examination.

One recruit, an Indian, stepped along, showing such elasticity he seemed built of steel springs, while immediately behind him was a fat recruit with knock knees, a picture of awkwardness.

Some of the men look lean and fit, others are gross and overweight. Very often, especially among California recruits, men are found with arms and legs tanned a rich brown while the remainder of their bodies are quite fair, due to the protection of their bathing suits.

REFUSED TO WEAR GAUZE MASK—IS SHOT DOWN

San Francisco, Oct. 29.—While scores of passersby scurried for cover, H. D. Miller, a deputy health officer, shot and severely wounded James Wisser, a horsehoer, in front of a downtown drug store early today, following Wisser's refusal to don an influenza mask.

According to the police Miller shot in the air when Wisser first refused his request. Wisser closed in on him and in the succeeding affray was shot in the arm and the leg. Wisser was taken to the central emergency hospital where he was placed under arrest for failure to comply with Miller's order.
