AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

The poultry fancier is at a great disadvantage with the common farmer at raising fine specimens of birds. It is just as easy to breed pure bloods as it is mongrels and as a rule he will have some very fine specimens in his flock and without any particular care can come in direct competition with the regular poultryman without a poultry farm. Many a farmer launches out into fine cattle and sheep and other blooded stock and gives the poultry the clear go-by. The family should not be shorn of the pleasures of enjoying the right of fine poultry.

The ravages of dogs to the sheep industry of the United States is far greater in the aggregate than one would suppose. According to the department of agriculture the onslaught made by his canine majesty amounts to many hundred dollars a day, and that the dogs of our country are more or less responsible for a loss of $37,000,000 in sheep in a single year.

Senator John Beard, of Alameda county, California, planted one acre of locust trees. Last season he sold all the trees thereon measuring six inches in diameter to a sea captain for ship timber. The senator says: "The captain found plenty of trees of the dimension needed, and I made $648 by the transaction, besides thirty cords of wood for use." Does it pay to plant forests of timber trees?

The Pacific coast should be able to supply the vast amount of eggs that are each year shipped into the United States from Canada. The duty the Canadians pay ought to pay the transportation and commissions from here to the eastern markets. The Canadian farmer seems to think the business profitable. Why should not we who live in a climate natural to the business.

Be sure that your poultry journal is adapted to your particular location before you subscribe. A subscription to an eastern paper gives you matter that is valueless to this coast.

If you wish to embark in the poultry business one of the first requisites, besides a goodly store of common sense is to see that you are one of the family of readers of a first-class poultry journal.

If underconsumption is the cause of low prices instead of surplus or overproduction, what is the reason? It is certainly not a disposition to live poorly, dress poorly nor is it dyspepsia or other indispositions.

In clipping your hens so they cannot fly over the poultry fence do not clip the entire wing, but a few of the feathers at the end is all that is necessary.

It is a well demonstrated fact that eggs packed in salt and kept in a cool, dry place are nearer perfectly fresh than any other way.

The usual large acreage that is sown to wheat in the Red River valley will be somewhat curtailed, owing to the very late and backward spring. Spring being about three weeks later than usual.

Germany gives a bounty of $\frac{1}{2}$ of a cent per pound on all sugar exported and it is expected there that an increase to $\frac{3}{4}$ cent per pound will be made.

The fact that $880 was recently paid for one brood sow in Lawrence county, Ill., does not look as though everybody was going out of hog raising.

Do not give the potato the go-by this year because they were cheap last year. If there is anything in extremes following each other you may hit it.

Once a creamery is in operation in a neighborhood you have always a good market for cows and heifers.

In Iowa there are 546 creameries and nearly all are reported in a flourishing condition.

Pearl millet is one of the forage plants highly recommended by seed men.

To turn ordinary cream into good butter requires a skillful buttermaker, but the world is full of people who make poor butter out of No. 1 cream.

If a cow's udder is hard just before dropping her calf milk her out well. A cow's udder should never be allowed to cake. In this matter an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Many a good cow has been entirely spoiled by neglecting this.

All the dairy cows in and around San Francisco are being tested as to tuberculosis and many of them have been found to be in advanced stages of the disease.

The agricultural appropriation bill of the present year amounts to $3,302,702. How much will the farmer get?

It is reported that not one hop-yard in ten will be cropped this year in Polk county.

The Chicago market was overstocked with western sheep last week and prices ruled very low.

Canada exported in 1895, $14,153,000 worth of cheese while the United States exported but $5,497,000 worth. America killed her own cheese business by the dishonest filled cheese, while Canada sold straight goods and gained a reputation. When American cheese was pure, in 1880, America exported 127,554,000 pounds, while Canada exported but 40,000,000 pounds. This can be solely attributed to the manufacture of filled cheese.

The next meeting of the State Horticultural Society will be held at Corvallis, June 16 and 17. A good program is arranged. Among the numbers on it are a competitive test of power and hand spraying apparatus. All interested fruit growers should attend.

There is a great deal of complaint among the farmers about the cold and sluggish spring and many have great fears that their fruit is all ruined and other say there is no need to worry that there has always been plenty. It is a fact, however, that in the vicinity of Salem much of the early fruit has been badly frozen.

In Southern Oregon the fruit prospect is reported as very good with the exception of peaches.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD CHEESE.

In order to make good cheese of any of the sweet curd varieties, such as Swiss, brick, Limburger, edam and gouda, the cows should be kept scrupulously clean, the udders carefully brushed off before milking, and the milk removed from the stable as soon as possible. The milk should be worked fresh from the cow as there must not be the least fermentation, for if there is an acid in the milk the cheese will spoil. If evening's milk is used it should be made up in the evening immediately after milking. Strain the milk into a vat and set it before the temperature falls below 86 degrees, add enough rennet extract to coagulate it in from twenty to thirty minutes, which will require about four ounces to a thousand pounds of milk.

Cut the curd into cubes the size of large kernels of corn as soon as it is firm enough to cut. Stir gently for about ten minutes. At this stage about half of the whey may be dipped off. Then gradually heat to 102 degrees and hold at this temperature from ten to fifteen minutes, constantly stirring it gently. It is impossible to tell in words just when the whey should be drawn, as some curds require more cooking than others. The cubes should be just medium firm, and contain no free whey when broken apart. Draw off the whey and pack the curd into the wooden molds, which are four inches high, and partitioned off so the cheese will be four inches wide and eight inches long.

Have a board follower on each cheese, weighted by two smooth-surfaced brick, leave under this pressure for twelve hours. Then take out of the molds, rub all over with salt for three successive days, and turn each day, rubbing them carefully with a fresh, clean cloth and lay close together for a few days to keep moist. If there is a tendency to hough, pile them three or four deep, turning them every day. Keep the shelves clean and wash occasionally with hot water. The curing room must be kept damp and at a temperature not far from 60 degrees. The degree of cooking and the amount of salting controls the time it will require for the cheese to get ripe. The more the curd is cooked and the more the cheese is salted the firmer it will be and the more time required for ripening. If cheese is made from absolutely clean milk, and worked fresh from the cow there is no danger of spoiling, and if there is a mistake made in cutting into uneven sized cubes, too little or too much cooking or salting, the time required for ripening will vary. It would take too much space to give every detail in full, detail which, after all must be learned by experience.

A Popular Candidate.

John H. Lewis, candidate for assessor, is an old pioneer, has lived in Oregon for forty-five years, and during all that time he has had the confidence of his neighbors. For many years he was a dealer in real estate and is probably as good a judge of the value of land as any man in Marion county, and if elected he will fill the office without fear or favor, and at the smallest expense possible to the taxpayers. Mr. Lewis should be elected; a vote for him is a vote for reform.—Stayton Times.

LINN COUNTY POLITICS.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—The political pot in Linn County is beginning to boil at a lively rate.

The nominees of the different parties are visiting various parts of the county trying to ascertain what their chances of being elected are.

The Pops have put out a rather poor ticket, but they will make a desperate effort to elect them. They are following the old rule, that is, finding fault with the extravagance of the Republican party, but forget to explain why the Populist members in the last legislature voted for so many large appropriations. They have but little to say about the Democrats for they are too near the same thing for them to fight each other.

I understand the Pops will make no regular canvass but will slip around and try and take all the advantages they can. They claim to be perfection itself but they are no better than any other lot of politicians. If they were in office they would simply take what there is in it as altho their motto.

The Democrats claim they will elect a part of their ticket but the chances are against them.

The Republicans have a good ticket and if they only co-operate together, as they should, and as I think they will, we are sure of success. Is it not wonderful how the Simon gang of Portland is exerting itself?

It seems that their motto is rule or ruin, for they could not be content until they got a man to put himself up as a sacrifice against Ellis for congress. They claim there is so many who could not support the regular nominee, that it was essentially necessary to put up another man. Time will tell what the result will be.

The people demand the re-election of Mitchell for senator, and I think they will see that men are elected who will support him.

I think the people will be smart enough to vote as they please and not allow themselves to be influenced by the Oregonian or any of the Portland politicians.

It is useless for the Oregonian to try to run the politics of this state, for it is only a very small part of Oregon, and I think it would be well for the people to treat its advice with silent contempt, for we as voters are likely as intelligent as the wise editor of that paper, and we would do well to follow a course directly opposite to which it takes.

DO JUSTICE.

Do justice to the debtor class, which includes a large majority of the taxpayers, by re-enacting the law allowing deductions for indebtedness. Many of our people are rated on the tax list as large taxpayers, who if their affairs were closed up, would not have a dollar left.—Eugene Guard.

Two Lives Saved.

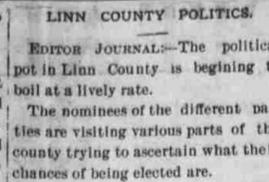

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida street, San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at Fred P. Legg's drugstore. Regular size 50c and $1.

Aiding the Cubans.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—In the supreme court today the soliciting-general moved an advance of the hearing at this term of Welberg, convicted of aiding a military expedition in aid of Cuba, in violation of the neutrality laws, stating that the expedition of the case was desired by the president and secretary of state. The motion was resisted by Mr. Phillips for Welberg. The case went over until tomorrow.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
