

"A Composite Picture by Heath and Hofer."

[Under the above heading, the McMinnville Telephone-Register prints the above cartoon followed by an editorial from THE JOURNAL of September 18, 1894, reproduced complete as follows:]

HARVEY SCOTT. For the first time in many years he visits Salem. He is advertised to speak at the state fair. The people of Oregon will not all go to see Harvey Scott out of excessive love for the man. Hundreds will go out of pure curiosity. Like his building he is supposed to be fireproof. The shaft that pierces his armor of indifference and contempt must be exceedingly well aimed to elicit a reply. He never cries "peccavi" but flounders terribly when a shot does go through his skin, generally demolishing the fellow who fired it at the first blow. Every editor in Oregon has fought Harvey Scott in print. The first thing a new editor does up on arriving in Oregon is to take a flyer at Scott. He sees a big shining mark and the thing is too tempting. He can't resist letting bang at him. The "amoosin little cuss" thinks his opportunity has come, and he improves it. He fires away at Scott. Scott minds it about as much as an elephant would a fly. Scott never quotes from a big daily nearer than a thousand miles away. The small ones he ignores entirely unless they successfully stir him and it is clearly to his interest to do so, to uphold some peculiar view he advocates. To quote anybody who differed from him would not be good journalism. What are opinions for but to confirm his own views? All other opinions are imbecile vapors. Scott is a cross between a Puritan and a fishwife. In fighting for what he holds right he is bigoted and fanatical as the former and abusive as the latter. He may mellow with age, but some now living will be dead before they realize it. Scott was created to be a tyrant and the state of Oregon was admitted to the Union as his domain of operations. His ruling ambition is to own a large block of the earth and ninety thousand square miles has been fenced off between the desert and the Pacific ocean for his special benefit. He hates nine-tenths of all mankind on general principles and despises the other tenth for special reasons. He is the most heartily hated man in the northwest, and no McKinley bill is required to establish reciprocity on his part. A lover of power, he delights in using it. He scorns theology and scoffs at sentiment. If ever a warm impulse was conceived in his bosom he strangled it before it was born. He would make a good executioner. His only god is the money power. He feeds day and night on plutocratic speculations. An item about millionaires is his meat. Men worth only a few thousand he has a poor opinion of. He never thinks about the poor. The very poor he chews up and spits out. A man who writes or speaks contrary to his wish he condemns forever. The man who does not fall in with his political views is a fool to begin with, and unless he shows signs meet for repentance at an early day, he is cast into outer darkness forever. If a public man or an editor persists in views contrary to the Oregon thunderer he is first shut out of its columns and then the oblivion of the rest of the world closes down on him forever. If you don't believe in the single god standard you are a villain. If you think that congress or the legislature or government in general should do anything but legislate for corporations and Wall street you are a socialist. If you think the government should be essentially and specifically helpful to the poorer classes, on the theory that the well-to-do are able to take care of themselves, you are an anarchist. You are either a fool, a socialist or an anarchist, or both or all three if you uphold any theory opposite to Scott. If you cannot be ridiculed off the earth you will be ignored out of existence. The really bright men and women of Oregon remain unknown until they leave Oregon. Nearly all such who do go rise to distinction in an incredible short time. Hundreds of men who would have been bright lights in the history of other states disappeared from view as completely as though lost in the mammoth cave of Kentucky when they entered Scott's literary domain. All around his castle this giant has strewn the bones of public men who have been the victims of his molar processes—ridiculed off the face of the earth by the great webfooted fee-faw-fun. His glance withers. His patronage blights. His praise damns. When Harvey Scott's jaws set on an idea they never relax. The idea may change or disappear but he adheres to it in the original form in which he assimilated it. In thirty days you can get all of Scott's opinions. The Ferris wheel of his intellect has revolved. It simply revolves again. Ring-machine rule in politics suits Scott. It proves the depravity of the race and the incapacity of the people for self government. He has no interest in good government but to save money for the rich. His championship of clean politics last spring was a temporary political aberration. His main object in life is to prove that the people are fools and the fact that so many take his paper and read it demonstrates his assumption!

Just after the adjournment of the convention this morning, a telegram was received by F. P. Murphy, from J. C. Comes Out for Bryan and Free Silver.

SEN. SQUIRE OF WASHINGTON

Declares for the Common Cause of the People.

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—Walter C. Squire, Republican senator from the state of Washington, has declared in favor of free silver and for Bryan. This declaration was made at an immense gathering of advocates of free silver at the armory last night and was welcomed by a tremendous demonstration. The friends of silver, who comprised probably one-half of the audience, cheered the announcement and at the same time a zealous supporter of the cause, on the rostrum, drew back the American flag, disclosing a picture of the senator. Other speakers of the evening were George Turner, of Spokane; Attorney-General Jones, Colonel G. G. Lyon and A. J. Blethen, formerly of Minneapolis. It was Colonel Lyon who read the following dispatch from Senator Squire, dated New York City:

"I take my stand with the friends of silver and heartily endorse the platform adopted at the conference of bimetalists at Tacoma, June 30, and as a necessary sequence I shall support Bryan for president. The money question is the paramount issue of the campaign. All others can be held in abeyance. I believe that the growth of gold monometallism is the chief cause of the continued falling off of prices that is causing so much distress and that if the monometallic policy persisted in, the result will be general bankruptcy and ruin. It will be better for us to suffer some risks and losses at present, rather than inflict much greater losses upon ourselves and our children at a later day, when creditors, debtors and the interests of labor will go down in one common and universal ruin, if we do not proceed wisely before hand to avoid such a great disaster.

"Therefore, I trust that the friends of silver will particularly unite in one common cause, regardless of previous party ties, and work for the speedy remonetization of silver in this country which, if accomplished, will do more than can be done in any other way to effect silver remonetization throughout the world. I have been detained in the East by important business and in attending to the interests of my constituents. It is my intention to proceed to the state of Washington as soon as possible, to bear my share of the burdens of the coming campaign, if not the most important in its history. I bid God-speed to the cause of silver."

Georgia Pops.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 6.—The largest and most enthusiastic state convention of the Populists of Georgia have ever held, assembled here today. The presence of Thomas Watson, the party's nominee for vice president, added interest to the occasion. A preliminary caucus held practically settled the action of the convention on the gubernatorial question. Judge James K. Hines and W. D. Peek, candidates of the middle-of-the-roads, flatly declined to allow the use of their names, leaving the field to Rev. J. B. Gambrell, the prohibition candidate.

Watson called the convention to order. He made no speech, but the dropping of his gavel was the signal for a wild burst of enthusiasm. Watson was requested to continue in the chair until the permanent organization was completed.
