

Long Hair "One year ago my hair came out very fast, so I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. It stopped the falling and made my hair grow, until now it is 45 inches long."

RIGHT ATTITUDE OF LABOR UNIONS.

The Journal employs union labor and believes in the organization of labor for its own protection and promotion of its true interests.

The Journal believes in employing the most competent labor at fair wages and favorable conditions as to hours and compensation.

It is one of the few institutions in the city that has never demanded more than nine hours of its employes, with rare exceptions.

So it believes it can discuss the question of what is the right attitude which labor unions should take and occupy toward the community.

It cannot be successfully charged that The Journal is discussing the subject from any unfriendly attitude now or hereafter.

It is for the purpose of securing a discussion of this question that we give space to the following communication from a Salem business man and an employer of labor and capitalist:

"Ed. Journal: While many people may have the impression that the cost of building has been increased by reason of the labor unions and the advance in wages and shorter hours, the factor which has had greater influence in causing building operations to be deferred and abandoned is the fact that where labor unions prevail there are a great many strikes, boycotts, etc., etc., so that people desiring to make improvements and erect buildings are afraid of endless annoyance, vexation and trouble through the well-known methods of labor union. This together with the small margins that offer on real estate and building investments in Salem and the high taxes here on all property causes the postponing and abandonment of much improvement that under ordinary circumstances would have been carried forward this season. The small returns on investments in this city makes the present state of things peculiarly unfortunate as it is needful to give investors every encouragement and remove all discouragements to place and keep Salem on the upward march."

If it were possible to have a friendly discussion of the above subject in these columns, we would be glad to give it some space.

There must be a right attitude for every individual and for every organization of human beings to take toward other human beings, and toward the community.

The Journal does not believe there is a disposition among Salem labor unions to engage in strikes and boycotts.

We have lived in hopes that this should be the one city where all relations between capital and labor should be friendly and amicably adjusted in case of differences.

As a matter of fact there is a great deal more labor here than capital.

Labor unions know this as well as anyone and the true policy would seem to be to make it possible for the largest amount of employment to go on with what limited capital there is here that will employ labor.

There is an easier and more friendly feeling coming about in the labor situation at Salem, and many buildings are being erected.

We believe a fuller discussion and a better understanding will result in still more enterprises being undertaken in the future.

THE BICYCLE ORDINANCE.
It would be impossible to frame such an ordinance that will give perfect satisfaction to all parties, now or hereafter.

By the construction of cycle paths, that are evidently contemplated by this ordinance, the conditions will be somewhat improved.

The ordinance has a great deal of merit in further protecting the foot passengers, and older people from injury, and will, in the end, be a protection to the wheelsters themselves.

There are some features of the ordinance that are ridiculous. For instance, why is the south end of Church street more sacred than the north end?

The broadest fairness and a square deal for all citizens is all that any one can ask. The poorest citizen has as much right to protection as the biggest corporation or the richest citizen.

No regulation at all is better than legislation by city or state that savors of favoritism to any person or interest. American fair play cannot be downed, even on a matter like a bicycle ordinance.

TO BE FAULTLESS IS TO BE FRIENDLESS.
Did you ever realize that to be faultless is to be friendless?
It is hard to believe that he who is perfect, is one of us.

One of the greatest faults one can conceive in another is trying to make the world believe that he is without faults.

As a rule people are loved for their weaknesses, shortcomings and faults acknowledged and not for their proclaimed virtues.

When consideration is had of the temptations lying thick and of the weakness of human nature to withstand, liberal demands should be made on charity. Each one is entitled to live his own life, solve his own problems keeping ever in view the rights and immunities of his fellows and so long as we demand this for ourselves we should concede it to others and make the recognition thereof part and parcel of our lives.

The gossip says "there is no smoke without fire," a false epigram that has brought clouds into and driven the sunshine and happiness out of many a life.

He who is broad minded and charitable says "hate, envy and jealousy loveth a shining mark" and his is infinitely a better platform upon which to stand, a sounder foundation upon which to build.

We can all speculate with safety on the good within one another, but silence is truly golden when the shortcomings of another are being discussed.

You don't know. You can't know. You can guess but you have no right to guess when character and reputation are at stake.

One who loves mankind puts it thus—
"Careful with fire is good advice, we know
Careful with words, is ten times doubly so.
Thoughts unexpressed will sometimes fall back dead.
But God himself, can't kill them,
when they're said."
—New Hampshire Patriot.

RESULTS OF FALSE EDUCATION.
Congressman Cannon said to the graduates of the University of Illinois on Wednesday:

"You young men and women who are going out into the world have the greatest of centuries before you. You have the greatest chance a people ever had."

To the same class President Tawling of Western Reserve University said:

"The university must train men to think the truth; it must make men who think in large relations. Men must be found who can be masters. It is good to create scholars; it is better to create thinkers."

On the same day, before the graduating class at Columbian university, President Butler said:

"Education is an instrumentality, not an end. Cultivated as an end, it produces aridity, sterility, and is wholly worthless. Pursued as a means for service, it is an instrumentality that acts in sympathy with the code of morals."

In this connection President Butler urged the graduates not to shun the drill and discipline of public affairs, but to take their learning and training into the active life of the nation—to be indifferent to no public interest or movement.

All of these speakers recognize the overshadowing part played in our national progress by the men of affairs, by the man of deeds as contrasted with the man of mere words. The same thought was voiced by President Draper in his address on Sunday when he said:

"The steady persistent doing of things upon a workable plan, independent rectitude, virile thinking, love of work, will accomplish the largest results."

In fact, the towering thought among the educators of the day is not the learning that makes men learned, but the learning that equips men for the affairs of life.

The ideal citizen is the man who achieves. He may achieve without a college education, but with a college education he ought to achieve more—ought to be able to take full advantage of "the greatest chance a people ever had."

The question still remains to be answered, whether men are rendered fit or unfit for usefulness by much that passes for college education.

In proportion as college education inflates vanity and gives its beneficiary the swell-head it unfits him for usefulness.

Modesty, desire to perform the humbler tasks of life well, an aspiration to become a self-sustaining citizen instead of a barnacle upon others, should be the result of education.

Too often the opposite qualities are the product of college education—immodesty, a desire to do anything but work for an honest living, and a willingness to live off society in some artificial manner.

DEMAND FOR THE POPULAR LOAN
The present city council does wrong in deferring action in taking up the $30,000 of accruing city bonds on the popular loan plan.

The city should have every dollar of interest on its bonded debt, and the popular loan plan has worked so well in the past it should not be abandoned.

Why the city council deferred ordering a special election for authorizing the popular loan, is beyond ordinary comprehension.

This is a public matter, and it was supposed that the popular loan policy was firmly established in this community.

The old way of monopolizing all city finances in the interest of a few persons ought to be played out in Salem.

The people have an abundance of money lying idle that will go readily into the popular loan, when one can be had.

The people have the first right to take up the debts of the city, and the city council has no business to surrender that right.

The whole $30,000 will be taken in small sums of $50 to $5000, if the people are given the opportunity, and the committee deserves credit for acting promptly and submitting the resolutions published elsewhere.

They should be taken up and promptly acted upon. Let not this right be juggled with or taken from the people.

What a Heap of Happiness It Would Bring to Salem Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back
Hours of misery at leisure or at work

Backache pains come from sick kidneys
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure it.
Salem people endorse this:
Mrs. F. Long, wife of F. Long saddler and harness maker, of Roseburg, says: "For a long time I was seldom without backache and any exertion or the slightest cold contracted brought on an aggravated attack. I took medicine trying to check it, but until advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I met with very indifferent success. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me such prompt relief that I have no hesitation in recommending them to others. My son also used a box and I heard him express himself in high words of praise for them."

Plenty more proofs like this from Salem people. Call at Dr. Stone's drug store and ask what his customers report.

Carson's Nerve.
What's finer than cool, thoughtful nerve? Everybody will be glad to hear that the glittering nerve of the man who held the Missouri Pacific railway bridge across the Kaw river at Kansas City was not in vain, says the Denver Post.

The man's name is W. S. Carson, superintendent of terminals in Kansas City.

When the Kaw flood swept down on Kansas City, Carson ordered eight of the company's most ponderous locomotives upon the bridge to weight it down against the flood.

The locomotives were worth $120,000—as much as would cost to replace the superstructure of the bridge.

But it was worth a million dollars to the railway to hold the bridge across the river, and a sum beyond computation to the two Kansas cities to maintain even a slender railway connection.

Carson had to act instantly or the water would cover the fire boxes of the engines and they could not be moved.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS
You cannot enjoy good health if you allow the bowels to become constipated. Dizziness, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion are sure to follow. The Bitters will open up the clogged bowels, without griping the system. Try it.

"Fill the bridge with engines!" ordered Carson, cool as ice.

A crash was heard in that vicinity on Tuesday evening, but daylight showed the Missouri Pacific bridge still there.

Buffeted, trembling, struck by a floating oil tank, which almost lifted it into the air, rammed by the wreckage of other bridges, the fate of Carson's nerve trembled in the balance.

No wonder the watching thousands cheered wildly on Wednesday morning when the bridge, with its engines, loomed up in the haze over the yellow flood.

Sixteen other bridges—every one except the Missouri Pacific—went down before the flood.

Carson's nerve won.

And, if his nerve had not won, depend upon it, the Missouri Pacific Railway company would not have honored the man less.

The chance was worth the taking, but no railway superintendent in Kansas City had the nerve, save Carson.

Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies, but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol, I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength, and can eat whatever I like. DR. J. F. COOK
Has come to the conclusion that all profession of the healing art outside of the vegetable kingdom is a failure. When your system is run out without pure blood. You will only find vitality in the vegetable kingdom. Poisonous drugs nor doctors' knives nor thunder or lightning will not remove the cause, but lay the foundation for all kinds of disease. Those poisons go into your bones, and kill the life of time and create all kinds of diseases, cancerous tumors, consumption, drop bone diseases, etc. You must bear in mind that his medicine is not a poisonous tonic, nor a stimulant, nor temporary relief which you get from poisonous drugs, where the results are sure death sooner or later. Do not blame the medicine, when it takes an effect and stirs up the poison or disease in the system. You must not expect to be cured in a few days, for your sickness or disease has been a long time coming on, and it will take a long time to get it out of your system. It will take months or a year to build a new body from the bones up. This is what the people do not understand. They are used to being humbugged. His medicines are composed of Nature's Herbs—what the human system requires. When the ailments get sick they will help themselves to those herbs, for they have the instinct, and the people have not, so we have to make a study of it. It has been a life study with Dr. Cook. Do not get weary; this life is too short and too sweet to worry out of this world.
