The Waco warehouse received twenty-seven loads of wool yesterday and today, with more in sight to arrive this evening.

Mr. Henry Klindt brought in to Mr. Kirby a nice lot of green peas today, which is the finest delivery of that product for the season.

Brother Ireland suggests that the Chinese pheasants be changed in title to Denny pheasant, in honor of the man who introduced them. Second the motion.

A tramp snugly ensconced under the trucks of the Pullman was forced to abandon his precarious position at the depot. Many a tramp has been killed by falling asleep and dropping to the track from this position.

A St. Louis man claims to have discovered that the free consumption of water-cress, at least three times a day, will cure the cigarette habit. The Dalles can supply any quantity of the medicine, as well as the patients.

The Regulator will go to the Cascades on Monday, taking the Oregon Grangers to White Salmon, and the Dalles City will leave Portland at the usual hour, taking passengers from Vancouver and way points, and connecting with the Regulator at the Cascades.

The Juvenile Temple will have a picnic on Saturday next in the grove west of the Catholic cemetery. Everybody is invited. Those who have lunch baskets can leave them at Mrs. T. C. Rice's residence, on Third street, or Mrs. J. C. Baldwin's, on the bluff, where an express wagon will call and carry them to the grounds.

The Jeff Davis funeral, was an ill-advised and inappropriate demonstration. The South might wisely have allowed the confederate leader to rest in peace. No such funeral honors have been conferred on Lee, Stonwall Jackson, or Johnston, who were all abler men than Jefferson Davis.—Astorian.

Judge Blakely received a dispatch Monday from Hood River stating that the body of a man had been found in Baldwin precinct, asking if the justice of the peace should hold an inquest. Mr. Blakely answered yes. Since that time no further particulars have been learned, except that the man's name was Murphy, and that he had his neck broken, presumably by a fall from a horse.

Mrs. E. M. Wilson, of our city, has been honored by being invited to deliver an address at the world's fair in the woman's department. She has accepted and has selected the subject "The Pioneer Women of Oregon." Mrs. Wilson is better able to handle this subject than any other lady on the coast, as she came to Oregon in the winter of 1850 and 1851 and is conversant with all the incidents of pioneer life in the great west.

Sentiment on Boat Traffic.

Mr. A. B. Fairchild has returned from Chehalis River Park, Wash., where he has been with a band of horses. He sold all but three head which he was compelled to bring home. As the Regulator was not running he had to ship by the U. P. and it only cost him $19.50 more to have the three brought up by rail than it did to take them down by the D. P. & A. N. Co. He was very much pleased with his steamboat experience, and says no more railroad for him if it can possibly be avoided. As an instance of the difference between the railroad and the steamboat accommodations, he says that the "Kellogg" was hailed by a rancher who called to the captain to get him a dozen slate pencils for his little girl which was taken good naturedly by the captain as though it were a $20 commission.

Will Wait for High Water.

A house on a flat or wood boat is a common sight, but to see a boat on a house is another thing. Yesterday the wood scow "Mayflower" hoisted sail and headed for the middle of the river, and the man at the helm, not taking the correct point of the compass and forgetting his bearings, sailed his craft inside of the buoy and directly on top of the submerged dock building of the D. P. & A. N. Co. She went on so hard that she was held fast, and nothing save a good rise of water will float her off, from her novel mooring.

CASCADERS HAPPY.

The First Work Specified in the Contract Done Yesterday.

CASCADE LOCKS, Or., May 30.—[Special]—The first train load of stone arrived today in the yards from the Herman creek quarry, being the first work done which comes under the stipulations of the contract and for which the contractors will receive pay. The town is jubilant and the locomotive Early Day and steam whistles of all kinds here are making all the noise possible in honor of the event. The round trip, including the loading of two cars at the steam derricks, was made in forty minutes. Two hundred feet of stone cutter sheds have been constructed, provided with travelers, on which traveling derricks can transfer the rock to the different workmen. There are also here some powerful engines, having compressed air as the motive force, which are to be used in dressing the rock. An instance of the benefit of contract over government work is to be found in the fact that the 300 feet of sheds, two-thirds of which has been built, will cost $2,000 less than 250 feet of the same work cost when Major Handbury was in charge, the machines being much better besides, which are included in the estimate.

G. A. R. Memorial Services.

Services were begun by the reading of the orders for the observance of the day by Adjutant Brown of Nesmith Post, followed by a short address by Post Commander Patterson on the observance of Memorial day by the G. A. R. Next followed a song by the choir and remarks by Commander Patterson, after which an earnest and impressive prayer by Rev. J. Whisler, chaplain of the post. Then came the distribution of flowers to all the comrades, after which was another song by the choir. Then the solemn and beautiful ceremony of the veterans laying tenderly the flowers around the monument erected to the memory of their fallen comrades, each with a tender sentiment for their immediate command. When Comrade Bates was reached, after a few well chosen words, he said: "In memory of 12,000 comrades who lie buried at Andersonville prison I deposit these flowers." The last to deposit the flowers was Rev. Whisler, who, with a few touching words, laid them tenderly there "In memory of all my fallen comrades." The closing song "My Country 'Tis of Thee," was sung by the choir, joined by the comrades and people, after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Whisler, and the assemblage dispersed.

Grand Jury's Report.

We, the grand jury, respectfully report that we have been in session seven days, and have found and returned into court eight indictments and one not true bill, and have also inquired into several matters brought before us that did not warrant indictments, and upon which no report has been made.

We have also examined and inquired into the condition and management of the county jail, and find it in good condition and well managed.

We also inquired into the condition and management of the clerk's, sheriff's and county treasurer's offices, and found them all in good condition and all books neatly kept and all correct, so far as we are able to judge.

We also visited the county poor house and found it in good condition and well kept. We found two inmates, Phillip Smith and William Darragh, who appear to be well cared for and satisfied.

We would respectfully submit that the grand jury believe from evidence that William Darragh receives considerable money each month from his father; also that he is in fairly good health, and are fully satisfied that, under the circumstances, he is fully able to make his own living, and would recommend that he be discharged.

C. E. BAYARD, Foreman. Dalles City, Or., May 29, 1893.

Billy's Lecture.

The lecture last night by R. O. Bates proved as interesting as was claimed, and few there were who did not shed tears at the pathetic recital of the trials undergone during the war in the rebel prisons. Those who did not cry on this account, cried for the sake of a little baby with the whooping cough, who was obviously suffering and whose presence endangered other little ones who were at the meeting. It was later learned that she was the wife of an old soldier, and who had become so intensely interested in the forthcoming lecture that it got the better of her prudence.

Death of Lloyd Brooke.

Mr. Lloyd Brooke, a pioneer of Oregon, and one of Portland's prominent citizens, died last Monday afternoon after a prolonged feebleness. Mr. Brooke was one of the prominent characters in the navigation interest of the northwest in its earlier days, and a man full of sterling qualities and generous impulses. At one time he was connected with the growing interests of Eastern Oregon's developments, and always was a firm believer in the ultimate greatness of his Oregon home. Mr. Brooke was 74 years of age, and was born in Georgetown, D. C. Hall, all hail, brother pioneer.

It is a well-deserved victory for them. The way they throw their entire stock before the public, they cannot help but sell lots of goods, as we saw with our own eyes goods going out at 50 per cent. less than they can be bought elsewhere. We have learned that there is no less than 20 cases on the way of assorted
