CLUB NOTES The Greater Medford club now numbers 131 active members—a good nucleus to start next year's work with.

Don't fail to come out to hear Dr. Stuart on next Wednesday. She will have some message for each of us.

The Year Book outlining the program for next year's work is in the hands of the committee and promises to be most unique and interesting. Among other things it will contain a list of the club membership. Are your dues paid so that your name will be there? The last meeting of the club year will be held on Monday, May 26. This is the annual meeting of the Greater Medford club and should be of unusual interest to each member of the club. Here will be given the annual reports of all officers and departments, the books and gavel will be turned over to the new officers, and the standing committees for next year will be announced. Show your interest and support by being present.

Do you realize that the rest-room is filling a long felt want? One day this week seven mothers were there with seven babies and seven baby carriages—at the same time.

Dr. Bertha Stuart, physical director of Women at the University of Oregon, will meet the high school girls at the library Wednesday at 11:00 o'clock, to talk over the feasibility of a branch in Medford, of a league, to promote systematic gymnastic exercise and sports among the girls. It is urged that all high school girls make an special effort to be present. The eight grade girls just entering high school are particularly welcome.

The Women's meeting at the Commonwealth Conference in Eugene last week proved most interesting and instructive, sufficiently so, much so, in fact, as to draw a large number of men from their meetings that were being held on other parts of the campus at the same time. Among other matters discussed was the crying need, urged by Miss Guppy, dean of women of the university, of a woman's building. This appeal was followed later by Mrs. Hidden of Portland, who suggested that the clubs throughout the state devote one day each club year to the discussion of state college affairs, this day to be called University day. It was enthusiastically received. A most timely suggestion, was made by Mrs. Vincent Cook, also of Portland, for methods for arousing civic pride, the lack of which seems to prevent Oregon's progress. The conference was followed by a banquet given by Mrs. Campbell and the faculty women to the visiting women.

The household economics department of the Greater Medford club has been very fortunate in securing Dr. Bertha Stuart of the University of Oregon to lecture for them next Wednesday afternoon. The subject of her talk will be Food and Diet—more particular emphasis being placed on the food stuffs as food. While the doctor will devote some time to this subject she will also talk upon her special hobby, hygiene. The world moves swiftly—we are confronted by many new ideas each day—and to be abreast of the times every woman must know both sides of the subject she attempts to discuss. A reception in the library building for Dr. Stuart and her assistant, Miss Johnston, will follow immediately after the lecture. Punch will be served and a general good fellowship hour indulged in.

The E. P. A. club give an entertainment this evening.

The Women of Woodcraft will meet in Medford June 3, for the annual district convention. This district includes all of the territory in Oregon from Eugene south, so that over 100 are expected. Already the Medford branch of the order are making preparations to entertain the visitors.

Miss Genevieve Wortman entertained Thursday evening at her home on South Oakdale in honor of Miss Gladys Hinman.

Miss Helen Hammond left Thursday for her home in Curry county.

Miss Mary Grigby and Miss Jeunessie Butler left Friday evening for Portland, Miss Butler will visit in Portland, Miss Grigby going on to her home at Pendleton.

A new and unique establishment seems to be located on North Orange street, the near-by streets also being used to some extent. The establishment is a school for the amateur driver of the automobile. The pupils are all of the fair sex and are fast becoming very skillful and competent.

Miss Mildred Ware and Mr. Cecil Ware will leave soon for Upland, Cal., where they will reside in the future, Mr. A. K. Ware joining them shortly.

Mrs. E. H. Reely has been visiting some time in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davis, Mrs. Maddern and daughter, all of Ashland were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hubbard the forepart of the week, attending the opening of the Page Theater Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Davis have gone to Oakland, Cal., where they will remain for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Krueger and daughter of Chicago are recent arrivals. They will reside at their newly purchased orchard home on the mountain road, northeast of Medford.

Miss Alice Streets has been greeting a large circle of friends since her return from Berkeley, Miss Streets was accompanied home by Mrs. F. W. Streets who attended the commencement week functions.

MUSIC

Mr. David Campbell of the University of Oregon faculty, who will be here next Wednesday, is a brother of President P. L. Campbell. He is at present dean of the piano department of the university school of music and is a player with great power and finish. He will give several numbers preceding the lecture by Dr. Bertha Stuart Wednesday, of which extended notice is given in another column. Mr. Campbell has studied abroad and leaves early in June for Berlin to carry on his studies. This will be the only opportunity for Medford people to hear Mr. Campbell and the fact that he can be with us at all is due only to an unusual combination of circumstances as his time is fully occupied with concert playing and teaching at the university.

A musicale by pupils of Mr. Fred Alton Haight will be given at 2:30 next Saturday afternoon, May 31, at the Haight music studio, 116 South Laurel street. Miss Geraldine Theiss, Miss Florence Hazelrigg and Miss Catherine Murphy, vocal pupils of Mrs. Florence-Halliday Haight will assist in solos and trios. Mr. Haight has been in Medford only four months, but has been very successful in his work as a piano teacher. Invitations upon request. The following programme will be rendered: Merry Bobolink, Krognann Ruby Loomis Morning Prayer, Streabog May Loomis

BOOK REVIEWS

(Helen C. Gale.) "Mrs. Lancelot," by Maurice Hewlitt. Pub. by Century Co.

Some one has said that there is no greater pleasure than that of carrying on a conversation with a good listener. Hewlitt in "Mrs. Lancelot" gives us a story of a woman who greatly influenced the lives of three men and she was a woman who began life as a nobody, who had no wondrous beauty or a brilliant intellect; yet she became a social queen, kept her husband's respect and love under the most unusual, trying circumstances; won the admiration, the love and lasting friendship of the greatest statesman in England and inspired the poetical effusions and love of a young poet. Her chief charm was an art of being an intelligent, sympathetic listener.

As usual, in "Mrs. Lancelot," Hewlitt leads his characters from the straight, conventional road of propriety to the alluring by-path of unconventional things and as is ever his custom they meet no ugly ogre of remorse who causes them to shudder with fear and retrace their steps back to the highway of duty and society's demands. A wedding ring is a superfluous badge of honor, evidently to Hewlitt's way of thinking and his cleverness lies in the fact that his arguments do not shock his readers. In fact they are almost convincing.

No one but Hewlitt with his half-veiled sarcastic touch, his biting style, his earnest endeavor to bring out the lovable traits of his characters could handle the situations that are in this story so that the reader would lay the book down at the end satisfied with the outcome of Mrs. Lancelot's adventures.

"Abraham Lincoln—The Man of the People," by Norman Hapgood. Pub. by Macmillan. Price 50 cents.

Hapgood in his preface says: "The biography of such a man can afford honesty. Some have omitted what was not pretty. Others have apologized for it. Many would like to improve the rugged and homely face with a touch of rouge or magnesia. Surely this is trivial. Let us not try to make our great men like other great men. Let us allow him to reach as high as the salata in one direction, and as high as Rabelais in another. Let him be the prairie male as well as the sage and martyr, the deft politician as well as the generous statesman. Paint him as he is. He will still be great, nobler than ever, because more real. Better the truth and strength and beauty that are, than any fiction less human and less profound." Praise and blame have small place, and suppression none, in the story of a large soul. And this gives the reader the best idea of what he is to meet in this book. We all have a natural curiosity to know the personal, trifling things as well as the big things that go to make up a great man's life. This curiosity about Lincoln is satisfied in Hapgood's history. We have the pleasure of meeting this great noble president as it were in his own home. We go to the shanty where he lived with his shiftless father, we see him splitting rails, wrestling, lounging about the tavern bar, and we follow him through the various changes that came into his life, and find that he is human and not divine, one of us, and not a hero set apart, and we live with him, knowing and appreciating him as we would a personal friend. This excellent history is in its fifth edition and is now given to the public at a price within the reach of all. It is full of unprejudiced information and is one of the most readable histories ever written.

"The Rise of Roscoe Paine," by Joseph C. Lincoln. Pub. Appleton. Joseph Lincoln can write good short stories and he tells a long story well. However, the plot in "Roscoe Paine" is neither an interesting nor an original one. If it is possible to truthfully make a statement and contradict it in one sentence I would say that "Roscoe Paine" is an interesting book with an uninteresting plot. The story is too much like a materialized day dream of a very young person who is suffering from his first unrequited love affair. Too many unexpected things happen in the book that never happen in real life. Roscoe Paine was a poor but proud young man, and Mabel Colton was a rich, proud young woman. Roscoe decided to keep out of her way, but happily or unhappily he was called upon to save her life at least four times. Mabel was usually in a treacherous canoe or behind frightened horses or drifting about on the bay with an earless boat just at the proper time when Roscoe was the only person within call of her frantic cry and need for help. As propinquity is the most common cause for love, Mabel and Roscoe, being thrown

The program was under the direction of Dr. J. D. Rickert, chairman of the entertainment committee. Miss Inez Coffin, assistant principal of the Washington school, entertained the pupils of the eighth grade and the teachers of the Washington school at her rooms in the school building Monday afternoon. A short program was followed by the serving of ice cream and cake.

The opening of the Page Theater Monday evening was auspicious socially as well as an event destined to be an important item of city history. That the pretty little theater will be the scene of many happy times goes without saying. Dr. Page should really have responded to the many calls for his presence before the footlights, in order to receive some token of the appreciation of the theater-loving element of Medford, also of those who rejoice in this manifestation of progress. In a brief "curtain raiser" Mr. B. F. Mulkey expressed the gratitude of the public in regard to the efforts of Dr. Page and Messrs. Fuson and Gordon, lessees and managers. Among those entertaining with box parties were Mr. R. A. McCurdy, whose guests were Miss Fern Hitehison and Mr. and Mrs. Elton McCurdy; Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Mrs. Lowell Tupper and Mrs. T. G. Bunch entertained Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. R. P. Shriber, who soon leaves for her home at Mansfield, Ore. The evening was spent in playing games. Music was also enjoyed. Mesdames Tupper and Bunch were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Riley, D. Hanson, Mrs. Corburn Lewis, Mrs. Bentz, and Misses Pearl Daugherty and Fay Lewis. Those present were: Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Painter, Mrs. S. E. Thompson, Mrs. Ebe, Mrs. Grace Thompson, Mrs. Meenan, Mrs. Shriber, Misses Maybelle Henson, Fay Lewis, Gladys Lewis, Mabel Tupper, Genevieve Bunch, Mabel Meahan, Mildred Boyd, October Ebb, Madeline Lewis, Mabel Daugherty, Ruth and Irene Painter.

Miss Irene Norris of North Bartlett street extended invitations to the ladies of the W. R. C. to help celebrate the birthday of her mother, Mrs. I. M. Norris, Tuesday afternoon. A most enjoyable time was the verdict of those present. A "Tree Story" and the "Songs we used to sing when we were girls" made the afternoon pass only too quickly. A fine lunch was served, after which the ladies presented Mrs. Norris with a beautiful W. R. C. pin, and good wishes for many happy birthdays.

Miss Harriet Cox entertained at dinner and auction bridge at Hotel Medford on Friday evening, May 16. Those enjoying the hospitality of the hostess were Mesdames Holmes, Perry, Kidd, Moe, McGowan, Baraburg, Schmerhorn, Hargrave, Milton Jones, Harris Jones, French, Antie, Harmon, Carlou, the Misses Towne, Banks, Haskins, Meares, Catherine Meares, Weeks and Santee.

The graduating class of the high school after weeks of strenuous, socially and mentally and with diplomas tucked safely away in the lower drawer of the chiffonier or dressing table, abandoned all cares today and had a picnic. The party went to the foot of Table Rock in automobiles, and climbed to the top, where a tempting "spread" vanished quickly from sight.

Mrs. Helen Gale entertained at a fancy dress party Wednesday evening for Mrs. Clarence Reames. The guests were close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Reames and included some from Jacksonville. The costumes represented a wide variety of choice from a tattered clown to a wilken dancing girl. An informal dance followed the costume festivities.

Mrs. Allison V. Jordan was hostess to an "At Home" to several of her friends Thursday afternoon at her home on Almond street, East Medford. A dainty luncheon was served. Those present were: Mesdames Jonas Wold, W. F. Quisenberry, A. B. Cunningham, O. O. Alenderfer, F. O. Burgess, B. F. Mulkey, B. Kirby. The graduating class of the Medford high school met together at luncheon at the Hotel Medford Friday noon.

PERSONAL MENTION Mr. E. J. Penburthy, a guest for several days at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Trowbridge and Mr. Everett Trowbridge, left Wednesday for his home at Hancock, Mich. Mrs. Evan Reames left Thursday for Portland to visit a number of weeks. Mrs. C. L. Reames, wife of United States District Attorney Reames, was the guest of Mrs. W. A. Jones of Ross lane on Monday of this week.

Miss Ruth Coryell, after a short stay in this city, has left for her home in Seattle. Miss Coryell was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Kidd. Colonel and Mrs. J. F. Mundy returned Tuesday from Portland. Mrs. E. E. Gore returned Sunday evening from Eugene, where she attended the commonwealth conference. Miss Flora Grey leaves soon for Eugene to be present for commencement week.

Mrs. Allison Jordan leaves shortly for Portland to visit her parents and attend the graduation exercises of the Portland High school, her brother being one of the graduates. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hafer have returned from an extended visit at Council Bluffs, Iowa. Mr. Wylie Hafer, a brother, is their guest.

TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told. Reatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I bought a bottle of it with the result that I have not been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. B. CHINA, Reatrice, Neb.

The Other Case. Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and I was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move, or do a bit of work, and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but my husband thought I had better write to you and I did so, stating my symptoms. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.
