BUD ANDERSON TO FIGHT RIVERS THANKSGIVING DAY

PORTLAND, Nov. 11.—Bud Anderson and Joe Rivers will probably fight 20 rounds in Los Angeles Thanksgiving day before Tom McCarey's Vernon fight club. This match was practically settled with the easy defeat of Leach Cross by Willie Ritchie in New York last night. Had Cross held the champion even he would have been given the match, the details being practically settled upon. McCarey figured that a defeat would lessen Cross' drawing powers and opened negotiations with Dick Donald, Anderson's manager, in order to be protected.

Manager Donald telegraphed from Medford today to Anderson telling him that he could have the match, and Bud immediately answered that everything was all right so far as he was concerned. He is now awaiting an answer from Donald, who is negotiating with McCarey and Joe Levy, Rivers' manager, over the guarantee and weight. Bud stated today that he did not know what weight Rivers would want, but would take the Mexican on for anything like lightweight.

GUN CLUB SHOOT FOR NOVEMBER 18

Shooters will be in attendance from all southern Oregon points. In addition professional marksmen will also be here, among them Dryden, Morris, Van Arman, Parnott, Reid and Poston.

METHODISTS HOLD INSPIRING SERVICES

Sunday and Monday evenings witnessed two inspiring revival services in the Medford Methodist Episcopal church, corner of Bartlett and Fourth streets. The congregations were large and the singing was enthusiastic and inspiring. The sermons are in the language of the twentieth century and to the point. In these meetings many testify to a renewal of their spiritual life, and nightly souls are being converted and won to Christ. Subject of this evening's sermon, "The Costliness of Indecision." A hearty welcome awaits you.

UNFAIR DISCRIMINATION

BARRING Multnomah, Jackson county is the heaviest contributor to the state fish and game protection fund. It leads all southern Oregon in number of licenses issued. Jackson county has more miles of the Rogue river and its tributaries within its borders than the two lower counties combined.

Jackson county alone of the counties of the Rogue does not ask for commercial fishing. It has co-operated in every possible way for the protection and propagation of fish. Game and fish law violations have been few in Jackson county and convictions prompt, showing active co-operation on the part of the people with the authorities and a public sentiment in favor of law enforcement.

Hunting and angling, especially the latter, are properly regarded as an asset to the people of the county, not only for the recreation and diversion they afford residents, but as an attraction for tourist traffic.

Yet in spite of its spirit of co-operation, in spite of its contributions to the state, in spite of its law-obeying proclivities, Jackson county is the only county punished by federal bureau of fisheries in its propagation work.

The gravel bars of the upper Rogue and its many tributaries are the natural spawning beds of the fish that frequent the Rogue. Yet the fish are shut off from the middle and upper river by the bureau—indeed, the fish at the present time are shut off entirely from reaching all waters in the county.

No objection can be found to fish egg taking in the upper river, at the Elk creek hatchery, or for a long stretch of water below. But about the first of August every year racks are built across the Rogue near the Jackson county line, sometimes a distance above, sometimes below, and all fish shut off from the upper water. The racks consist of a picket fence, the pickets set about an inch and a half apart, so no fish of any size can ascend. The work is done to hold the Chinook salmon until they are "ripe" for egg-taking, but the steelhead are also held.

Experience has proven that egg-taking operations in the lower river in summer and early fall are not successful. Last year the salmon held at the Ament dam nearly all perished, the water being so warm that leaches and parasites killed the fish. This year the fence was built so tight that the leaves floating down stream carried out the racks when egg-taking began. There never has been a large enough egg-taking in the lower river to justify cutting off the fish from Jackson county. Racks placed further upstream would be more successful and less objectionable to the people.

The cutting off of Chinooks and steelhead in midseason from Jackson county is bad enough, but as the spring run has already taken place, it leaves both Chinook and steelhead in the stream—but the cutting off of silverside salmon is without excuse. For the last two years not a silverside has reached Jackson county—nor is the late fall run of steelheads permitted to.

The silverside is one of the choicest of salmon, and has always been a great favorite with the farmer as well as sportsman. They ascend all of the small streams with the first high water and are in prime condition for the table. The run reaches Jackson county about the first of November. The fish average from 8 to 12 pounds, take a spoon readily and offer the angler about the only sport at this season of the year.

The fish ways at the Ament dam, constructed only after years of agitation by sportsmen, which provide adequate passageways for the fish to pass over the dam, are now being put to a new use. Instead of being exits for the fish, they have been fenced and not a fish of any kind can pass over. They have become closed doors. The result is that no silversides have reached Jackson county during the two years the fish ways have been put to this inverted use.

What does it benefit Jackson county to hatch and liberate the fish at Elk Creek, when they go to salt water the first year and are barred from the county when they return? It makes a hollow mockery of propagation work as far as silversides are concerned for Jackson county.

This unjust and unfair discrimination is a subject for the anglers and fishermen of Jackson county to take immediate action upon. The superintendent of hatcheries should be requested at once to move further upstream for his operation,—at least half way up the county. The state game and fish commission, which represents the people, should be asked to protect Jackson county and if necessary, the Oregon delegation in congress must be requested to take the subject up with the bureau of fisheries.

The present condition is an intolerable one, for the rights of the people of Jackson county are entitled to as much consideration as those of the few commercial interests below. The state commission and the bureau of hatcheries have done and are doing fine work in restocking the streams, but in the matter of silversides they are working an injustice.

DEFEATED, CROSS ADMITS RITCHIE REAL CHAMPION

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—All doubt concerning the class of Willie Ritchie light-weight champion of the world, was removed today following his ten-round decision here last night over Leach Cross, generally recognized in the east as New York's best light-weight. Not once during the contest was the San Francisco champion in danger, while Cross was on the verge of being knocked out several times.

Ritchie's work was a revelation to the New York fight fans and it was certain today that they would install the champion a heavy favorite here over Harlem Tommy Murphy when the two clash in their scheduled 20 round bout in San Francisco on December 10.

Whirlwind Battle The fight was one of the most sensational ever staged in Manhattan. It was a whirlwind battle from the opening round and although the San Franciscan was hampered by the New York boxing commission's rules preventing him from hitting in the clinches, he put up a wonderful battle.

Only the bell saved Cross from a knockout in the third round. In this session, Ritchie caught Leach flush on the jaw with a terrific right hand swing and the New Yorker went down. He took advantage of the full count and when he arose to his feet he was groggy. Ritchie rushed, and the majority of the spectators believed Cross was going to be put to sleep. Leach went to the floor again from another right swing and remained in the canvas for another nine seconds. Although he arose in a weakened condition, he managed to weather the gale until the few remaining seconds were up.

After the third round the fight was all Ritchie. He kept Cross entirely on the defensive and pounded the New Yorker's face at will. Early in the fight Willie fell over Cross and landed on his back. He sustained a bad bruise at the base of the spine but it had no noticeable effect on his fighting.

As usual Ritchie was slow in starting and the first two rounds belonged to Cross. After the third round Cross never had a chance. Willie easily avoided the dentist's right swings and fought a heady battle, beating his man down systematically.

Ritchie Real Champion "I shall never fight again with soft bandages," said Ritchie today. "My hands are sore from the mauling I gave them on Cross' head, face and body."

Cross appeared on the streets today with both eyes nearly closed and his face badly puffed.

"Ritchie is a better man than I thought he was," said Leach. "He is a real champion."

Ritchie and his manager, Harry Foley, will start for San Francisco Thursday to prepare for the Ritchie-Murphy match.

Muffins

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

When muffins are on the breakfast table, nobody cares for next or eggs and they would be served more often if this meal were not prepared so hurriedly that there is no time to make them. If K. C. the double-raise baking powder is used, the batter may be stirred up the night before, put in the pan ready for baking and nothing to do in the morning but bake them.

One-Egg Muffins 2 eggs flour; 2 slightly rounded teaspoons K. C. Baking Powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 cup sugar; 1 cup melted butter or lard; 1 egg; 1 cup water or milk. Sift dry ingredients together three times. Add to this the unbeaten egg, melted shortening and water or milk. Then beat all together until perfectly smooth. Oil muffin or gem pans and leave open above until the muffins come to the top of the pan, then increase the heat to bake and brown the muffins. This recipe makes 12 large muffins. Raisins or currants may be added if desired.

Graham Muffins

1 cup graham flour; 1 cup pastry flour; 2 level teaspoons K. C. Baking Powder; 1 to 2 level teaspoons sugar; 4 level teaspoons salt; 1 egg; 1 cup milk or water; 2 to 3 tablespoons melted butter; mix and bake as One-Egg Muffins. Graham batter should always be quite soft to insure light and moist muffins. To get 22 other recipes as good as these, send us the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K. C. Baking Powder, and we will send you "The Cook's Book" by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill. Handsomely illustrated. Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

Mother's Friend thoroughly lubricates every nerve, tendon and muscle involved and is a sure preventive for caking of the breasts.

And particularly to young mothers is this famous remedy of inestimable value. It enables them to preserve their health and strength, and they remain pretty by having avoided all the suffering and danger that would otherwise accompany such an ordeal.

You will find this splendid remedy on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle. Write Broadell, Inventor Co., 214 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their instructive book for expectant mothers.
