WARSAW FALLS TO GERMANS. KRUPP TOILERS ON STRIKE SENT TO EASTERN FRONT

trians to inflict smashing blows upon the Russians from this direction. Step by step, the Austro-German hosts pounded their way toward the city from the north and the south, while on the west, activities along the line of entrenchments that had so long held off the Germans in that section were resumed. Before the power of the Teutons engaged in this encircling movement the armies of Grand Duke Nicholas began to fall back.

Przasnysz to the north of Warsaw was occupied and the German armies swept on. By July 19 they had forced the Russians back to the line of the Narew river and pushed their way to within 20 miles of their goal. The fortress of Ostrolenka was taken and the Nowogrodek fortification, the key to Warsaw on the north, was approached. To the south Radom was occupied and the Russian lines of communication in the Lublin region threatened.

Tighten Around Capital Then began a tightening of the German lines around the capital. The Teutons forced their way past the Blonie line, southwest of the city, pushed their way across the river Narew, below Ostrolenka and the battering at the fortified gates of the city started in earnest on Tuesday of this week by Bavarian troops under command of Prince Leopold of Bavaria.

In East Prussia on the north and in Galicia on the south, the Russian armies began to push forward. Twice in East Prussia they were swept back, but before last winter set in, they had succeeded in pressing their way through Galicia and were near Cracow, which is almost directly on a line south of the Polish capital.

Plan of Campaign In the spring, however, after Premysl had fallen into their hands and the victorious Russian armies were threatening the German border and an invasion of Hungary, came the organized Austro-German movement which recaptured the great Austrian fortress and swept the Russian lines back farther east in some sections that they had been in early in the war. The Warsaw salient, thus exposed hazardously from the south, was additionally threatened by the German advance in the Baltic provinces which acted not only as a supporting movement to the flank attack on Warsaw, but threatened to cut off the retreat of the Russian armies.

Previous Drives on City The first determined drive against Warsaw from the west occurred last October. Within a short time the German advance guards penetrated to within 19 miles of the city, over which German aeroplanes and Zeppelins flew. The Russians moved troops hastily from Galicia and Warsaw slipped from his hands of the Germans.

Shortly afterward a second attempt was launched and gathered force until a great battle developed along the rivers Warta and Vistula. The Germans at first were victorious successful but the fighting turned in favor of the Russians. They cut off and apparently surrounded two German corps, who bravely managed to cut their way out.

February Attempt Another attempt at Warsaw occurred in February after the Russians had for the second time been driven out of East Prussia. This time the attack came from the north and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's forces, reached and captured Przasnysz with 10,000 prisoners on February 25. Three days later, however, the Russians recaptured it and put the Germans on the defensive. Hammering along this line and at other sections south and west from the East Prussian frontier continued for months, but not until the inception of the present campaign was there anywhere a serious break in the Russian defenses.

The city which the Teutonic forces have taken, lies on the Vistula, 625 miles southwest of Petrograd and 320 miles east of Berlin. It is an important industrial center and its population is estimated at 900,000.

WATER PURER THAN FOR YEARS AT THIS SEASON

There is less contamination of the water supply of Medford at present than shown in any of the former tests made at this season of the year, according to a statement issued by Water Superintendent O. Arnsperger today.

On the trip to Fish lake recently taken by members of the city council, and City Health Officer F. G. Thayer, samples of water were taken from the upper end of Fish lake, the lower end of Fish lake, the city intake, and from a faucet in the city, and sent to the laboratories of the state board of health at Salem. The report shows a less degree of contamination than former tests made at this season of the year. Signed, O. ARNSPISGER, Water Superintendent.

Superintendent Arnsperger also announced today that irrigation hours would be suspended in the city next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday while the city reservoir was being cleaned. Foreign matter found in the pipes is attributed to this source. Until the reservoir is cleaned it is urged that all water be filtered.

RUSSIAN ARMY ESPACES.

(Continued from Page One.) eastern operations which has passed almost unnoticed is revealed in the announcement from Petrograd of the destruction of almost 900 Turkish craft in the Black Sea by a Russian torpedo boat flotilla. More than 800 of the vessels were sailing ships which had been built to carry supplies from the Anatolia coast. The persistence of the Turks in building the ships, despite their continued destruction, is accepted here as meaning that Constantinople is in desperate need of supplies.

The British board of trade report for July shows that 62 British steamers and sailing craft were sunk by the Germans during the month, with a loss of 63 lives, while four steamers and 19 lives were lost by mines.

the senate committee on military affairs, each voiced the opinion here today that an extra session of congress to provide for the national defense was unnecessary and inadvisable at this time. The question arose when Senator Chamberlain called upon Senator Tillman, who has just returned from a trip to Alaska. They agreed that steps to strengthen measurably the army and navy should be taken by congress at the regular session, but thought need for action prior to that time did not exist. "As chairman of the naval affairs committee" said Senator Tillman, "I shall support a program for making our navy as good as the best. I did not favor more battleships at the last session because recent developments seem to indicate that battleships are liable to become obsolete. I favor plenty of submarines and fast cruisers and whatever else we need to put our navy on the most effective footing." Senator Tillman declared he would favor making the Bremerton, Wash., navy yard the equal in importance and capacity of the Brooklyn navy yard.
