

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1883

A. G. Allen and family are up from Fort Stevens.

The Dayton smallpox patients are convalescent. The disease is under control.

Master Eben Rogers came down from Portland on a visit yesterday afternoon.

The Portland city council has ordered that the chief of police shall be "investigated."

Joe Hume, J. G. Huestler and wife and E. Leonard are on the incoming steamer.

There will be a special auction sale at Holden's addition tomorrow morning. See adv.

Clams, large, fat and juicy, are in the market and, together with their praises, fill many mouths.

W. Gallick, of Portland, father of the late M. W. Gallick, of this city, is registered at the Occident.

It is thought that 5,000,000 feet of lumber will be required for the Kalama bridge. A big contract for somebody.

The barge Autocrat is having a large cargo stored aboard, 4,000 cases coal oil went on yesterday, part of the Young America's cargo.

An angler's camp will be one of the features of the American department of the International Fisheries Exhibition to be held in London this present year.

The Galatea and Lanarkshire crossed out yesterday. The Janic Landless came down with 63,926 bushels wheat. The Henry Willard and Berwick Law are on the way.

Piles are being driven to the number of 100 in the vacant lots between Ike Foster's and the Campi Restaurant. A building 50 x 75 and similar in appearance to the one now occupied by J. E. Thomas will be erected forthwith.

The Fleetwood steamed down to LaFayette street dock yesterday afternoon to have a new propeller put in. This propeller was recently sent out from Ohio, and is a peculiar pattern. Capt Scott is going to give it a trial.

The News suggests to the Portland authorities that the streets be put in good sanitary condition, lest small pox appear. With the large travel from that city here, it is a matter that interests us, and should be acted upon.

From the Forpostin a resident of this city compiles that during 1882 there were received at the fish market in Gottenburg, Sweden, 326,500 fresh codfish, 2,285,400 haddock, 1,234,300 flounders, 77,000 pounds halibut; and 110,200 barrels herring.

The Dispatch goes down this morning with the cable for a portion of the line. There is thought to be enough on hand for Young's river, Lewis & Clarke, Skipanon, and on the Washington Territory side the Wallcut and Chinook rivers. The cable for the Columbia has not yet left New York. That which is here will be put in place.

Twenty years after Washington was born, England and her colonies adopted the Gregorian calendar, which was eleven days in advance of the Julian series. Hence all events prior to 1752 are counted eleven days ahead of the date they actually occurred. Washington was born on February 11th, O. S., but his birthday went ahead eleven days along with the rest of the transfer.

Griswold's trout cannery at Wadsworth is doing a good business this winter. All large fish are canned, the smaller ones being reserved to supply family market demands. This business may become a great industry. The supply of fish in the great lakes of Nevada is practically unlimited. The success of the business depends wholly upon how the market is cultivated. - Reno Gazette.

In some unaccountable way a mistake occurred in yesterday morning's issue, wherein it was stated that the Queen left San Francisco on that date. It was an error. The Queen left on Wednesday, and will arrive here to-day. As this is the first time in seventeen months that anything of the kind occurred we trust the unintentional transposition of dates will be overlooked. The mistake was not discovered until the entire edition had been printed and a portion of the outside forms distributed.

Justice Court

An interested and interesting crowd filled the court room yesterday afternoon to hear and see the case of the State of Oregon vs. the parties charged with the crime of feloniously seizing and abstracting sundry property. Bender turned state's evidence, and "gave the whole business away," as one disgusted auditor remarked. Judge Fox decided that the testimony did not warrant the detention of the men, but held the two girls in the sum of $250 each, which was furnished.

The case of Robert Seymour was then called. This individual whose frontal development was considerably battered was arrested by Officer Hunter yesterday morning, and while being arrested drew a revolver on the policeman. His kind intentions were happily frustrated, and Judge Fox upon hearing the testimony concluded that $1,000 bail was none too high for his case. It isn't probable that he will get out amount of surety. Beasley and Hunter deserve credit for promptly preventing the individual in question from carrying out his declared intention to shoot.

A Relic. Our collection of curiosities has been still further enriched by the receipt from Mr. J. G. Ross, of a stone implement which he recently plowed up at a depth of six inches. It is of granite and was evidently used for bruising and grinding the simple grains from which the ancient residents of this coast, the first families as it were, derived their nourishment. It is about a foot long, and three inches thick, and when the interest that its novelty arouses has died away, will come handy as a weapon of defense, should occasion unfortunately require. It bears the marks of use, and one can readily imagine the Neolithic man who desirous of his fuorating sump or vesperian cassava induced the partner of his joys and purveyor of the cuisine to prepare the toothsome morsel. It will remain on exhibition one week only (not including Sunday) and may then be forwarded for entry at the collection of antiques in Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Y. M. C. A. Regular business meeting this Friday evening at 7 o'clock, a full attendance is desired.

CARL A. HANSON, Sec'y. -Yesterday was a beautiful day; the flags were hung to the breeze from every prominent point in the city, their starry folds gleaming brightly in the afternoon sunlight. There was no celebration of the day. At five o'clock a large party of ladies and gentlemen went on board the Westport to go to the dance at Knappa.

John Ornes, employed at Hume's saw mill, met with a painful accident yesterday morning. While working around the slab saw he unfortunately got his right hand over the edge of a piece of lumber. The second finger was cut off and the index finger so badly lacerated that it had to be amputated. Surgical attendance was procured and the wound bound up.

Miss Frances E. Willard, of the Woman's National Christian Temperance Union will visit Oregon and Washington Territory sometime in March or April. She is said to be a woman of rare natural endowments, superior mental culture, and an eloquent lecturer. She was formerly a successful educator, exerting an influence in literary circles excelled by few. She subsequently spent three years in foreign lands, visiting nearly every European capital.

At a special meeting of the board of directors of the pioneer and historical society of Oregon held at E. C. Holden's office yesterday afternoon, the proposition of Messrs. Harkness & Patterson in reference to the construction of the Whitman monument was considered. Their estimate is $11,275, not including cost of transportation. We will at all times publish reports of deaths, marriages or births, but must know of the matter before making any mention of it. If a birth, the appearance of the doctor, or the statement of the father is sufficient; if a marriage, the word of the officiating functionary, or the assurance of the groom will be good evidence, but unless the parties directly concerned take the trouble to cause it to be published we are not supposed to know anything about it. We are of the opinion, however, that the greatest publicity should be given these events. They are the three principal occurrences of life; with birth and death the average individual has but little to do; these events occur independently of his wish or intent; (it may be said that he has but little control over the other either, but that is not the present argument.) As a matter of record it is well to publish such an important event in the life of an individual as his birth; as a matter of news, the marriage notice is in the line of useful knowledge; and as a matter of reference, the date of his demise may be of interest to the community. Of course it is purely a matter of taste, and we do no more than suggest the propriety of proclaiming the facts. As in the course of a long and useful life we have never charged for a notice of the kind, we cannot be accused of soliciting business.

New York society, so it is written, has decided that when a gentleman and lady meet on the street the one who first sees the other should bow. The old rule, that the gentleman should wait for the recognition of the lady, is declared obsolete. The lady, however, still retains the privilege of not noticing the gentleman if she feels so inclined, that is, after he has taken off his hat, she may cut him if she wants to. Well, perhaps it is the best plan. Under the old usage, a gentleman could never be satisfied when a lady passed him without recognition whether she intended a cut or merely did not see him. By the improvement he will be left in no sort of doubt.
