

The election is over. The people of this county voted wisely in defeating the bogus office-seeking Division candidates for the legislature. Now let a petition be circulated between this and the meeting of the legislature, defining the lines, and asking that body to pass an act dividing the county into three counties, subject to ratification of the voters of the county. This can be done harmoniously, and if it is the wish of the people to divide there will be no trouble about the matter. This is the honest and only way to divide this county, and if those who have harped so much about division are honest as they professed to be they will assist in the matter, and what they attempted to do by force or fraud will be done in an honest and legitimate way. Let a mass meeting be called and lets agree upon suitable lines and then go to work as brothers, and not in a manner that will cause any strife and contention. Of course everybody cannot be suited in the location of the county lines, for it is only natural that every man should work for his own interest and want a county seat at his door. We would like to hear from the people in different portions of the county in reference to the matter.—East Oregonian.

The specious pretences in the above, and the very impudent charges therein embodied, we have referred to elsewhere. Where could any well balanced mind find "force or fraud" in the late Division movement? But that is not what we propose to discuss. Division of the county is what we want. We tried one method, and from reasons given elsewhere, it failed. Now any honorable method will secure our hearty cooperation and we accept the above proposition in good faith, and will give our best efforts to secure its accomplishment. Let the E. O. go ahead and call the mass meeting, and Weston will be on hand to participate. Hesperon we think will be suited, and Milton will. Centerville probably wants some such move, as by their vote they did not support the line advocated by the nominees on the Division ticket. Any line suitable to the majority will suit Weston. If Milton gets the county seat, we will be well satisfied. If Centerville get it that will be still more convenient for us. Anything less than three new counties would necessitate further division at an early period, and we have area, population and wealth enough to sustain three good counties. The citizens of Greasewood are fair-minded enough to recognize the pressing necessity for division, and will aid the movement intelligently and courteously. The southwestern portion of the county will turn to Hesperon as being the business and geographical centre of that part, and thus they will have no local struggle for the county seat. This end can arrange the matter by petition, and thus everything can be amicably adjusted. If this is "the honest and only way," let us give it a fair trial, and labor faithfully for it.

The Junction Republican is the wildest and frothiest sheet that our good state tolerates. It screamed in frenzied accent for Grant and Grant only, and now that the Chicago convention in its wisdom has seen fit to drop the much-travelled General, it whoops as loud as ever for Garfield. Just like the man who was chasing the burglar, shouting "stop thief," until the latter hastily turned and lodged his boot in the pursuer's abdomen, who thereupon turned immediately back at full speed, shouting "stop thief," as before. We have only contempt for those who flaunt the "bloody shirt" as their only argument against Democracy, and this journal is one of the most flagrant of the kind. Its articles read like a thunder storm in a theatre, with no rain as an accompaniment.

The Independent said before election "vote for county officers regardless of their tickets," and then a little further on said "but vote against candidates on the Division ticket." However, instead of being taken to task for it, we suppose they should be congratulated for publishing two ideas of their own in the same issue, even if flatly contradictory. They remind us somewhat of a liberal-minded and respectable Republican friend who once said to us in conversation, "Yes I'll always vote for the best man, regardless of policies," then added abstractedly, "but I'll never vote for a Democrat." The Independent seems to have just strength enough to grow after the enemy is defeated, and barely that.

Suppose no election held in Blalock precinct, on the alleged ground that no poll books had been provided. The question now is what becomes of them for they were sent up.—East Oregonian.

Blalock Precinct.

EDS. LEADER: In your last issue I find reference is made to the wrong that was done to the people of this precinct particularly and the blow struck at the fairness and equality of elections in our county and State generally. For want of poll-books no voting was done in Blalock precinct, but according to Sec. 9, chapter 14 of the Code, "it is the duty of the County Clerk to furnish to one of the judges of every election precinct in the county with two poll-books, at least five days previous to the time of holding any election." Has our successful candidate for County Clerk done his sworn duty toward this precinct when he delivered the poll-books to a non-resident of the State? Rather, did he not violate the plain letter of the statute in so doing? The County Clerk was an interested party to this election, and he should have been twice vigilant to guard the people's interests, and in this way escape any just criticism.

The Constitution of Oregon provides that "all elections shall be free and equal." Has not this negligence on the part of the County Clerk been the means of frustrating an election in Blalock precinct? Perhaps the sentiment in this precinct toward the regular ticket was too well-known to make an election in Blalock precinct a desirable event. The people of Umatilla county have another moral in this to stimulate them to reflect before they are driven to support regular tickets. Will Mr. Keeney arise and explain why he did not furnish the poll-books to the proper parties, and above all, why did he carry the poll-books to Walla Walla and leave them with a non-resident of Oregon as he is said to have done? Sec. 40 of chapter 14 provides special instructions to all persons concerned in conducting elections, and if Mr. Keeney has not violated that section it is a strange affair. We hope that the County Court will see the rights of all protected.

GEN. GARFIELD.

It is amusing to watch the Radical Press fall meekly into line and earnestly and sincerely laud their presidential nominees. Not many weeks ago they were all denouncing him as being untrue to the best interests of the country owing to his championship of the high tariff on the pulp of wood; the most important element in the manufacture of paper. As we stated not long ago in the LEADER, it was Mr. Garfield's support of this odious and oppressive tariff, that caused us in common with every newspaper in the land to pay a double price for our paper. Every journal experienced the result of his course and denounced him accordingly. But now he is the Republican candidate for President and the Radical papers support him. Again, of late years it has become the habit of some prominent Radical papers to advocate Free Trade. Those same papers are now adding their strength to attempt a Garfield boom. Why, Gen. Garfield is the prince of protectionists, and for the time being those journals who have been stealing democratic thunder will be obliged to lay their Free Trade doctrines on the shelf until after the election. "Consistency, thou art a jewel."

The little Independent which thinks it has been working against Division all the while (perhaps it has been, no one noticed), puts its rooster and shouts "victory," because Division has been defeated. It is nice to see the little thing feel good over it anyhow, and imagine it helped to do something. Like the little boy who was blowing his breath in the direction of the great oak tree when it was overthrown by the tornado, and then laughed and chuckled believing he had done it all. It strikes out with its feeble meanness at the defeated, and crawls up the side of the defeated, like the worm over the prostrate sleeper, and laughs its childish glee, when, to its own surprise, it has reached the top. But it is nice to see the weak little thing happy.

TASTE FOR READING.

The pleasure and profit to be derived from the cultivation of a taste for good reading are not easily over-estimated. The man who has this taste, and the means of gratifying it, possesses that which, under every variety of circumstances, will be a source of happiness and cheerfulness to him through life, and a shield against its ills, however things may go amiss or the world frown upon his endeavors. It places him in contact with the best society in every period of history—with the wisest and the wisest—with the bravest and purest characters that have adorned humanity. It makes him a denizen of all nations—a contemporary of all ages—the companion of the good and gifted everywhere. There is a gentle, but irresistible coercion in a habit of well directed reading, over the whole tenor of a man's character and conduct, which is not the less effectual, because it works insensibly, and because it is perhaps the last thing he dreams of. How important then that the plastic mind of youth should be moulded with this end in view—the cultivation of a taste for good reading.

The E. O. speaking of another method of effecting the division of Umatilla Co. says: "This is the honest and only way to divide this county." There are stupid ignorance and insolence both condensed in that one sentence. It is a gratuitous insult to nearly 700 voters who testified their approval of electing a ticket on the issue. It is not the "only" way, and the writer of that article would do well to post himself on the subject before letting himself loose on a long-seffering public.

THE ACTS OF THE WISE MEN OF PENDLETON.

1. There was much talking and planning among the "ring" at Pendleton. 2. The object was to defeat the wishes of the people who desired a division of the county. 3. The father of the ring was Bolting Jim, a mighty man in his way, and filled with much cunning. 4. The remainder thereof were an incongruous crowd chosen from both parties, and renowned chiefly for their adherence to the ring. 5. And fear and trepidation fell heavily upon them, for, said they, lo, if this thing come to pass, our dominion over this foolish people is ended, and the tithes and the spoils are no longer ours. 6. And as they counselled in travail and anguish together, said Bolting Jim in a loud voice, I will send forth Kon Oh Lie and Coquesaksooksox, who are strangers to this people, who will revive the traditions of our fathers among them. 7. Truly they must supply the wants of Kel Ee and Tom Sun, else their knees will quake under them and they wither away, for they know not much. 8. And Coques (which is curtailed much,) fully opened his mouth at you Umatilla, and said many unwise things, which were there returned to him, and gored him exceedingly, inasmuch that, being simple and of light caliber, he fled him back in hot haste and fell panting sorely before Bolting Jim. 9. Saying, "Woe is me, for I am undone. I am a pudding with the stuffing pressed out. The enemy hath punctured me, and lo! your words and lessons failed me in my hour of trial."

10. And he shook pitifully, for he knew his head was empty. 11. And the soul of Bolting Jim went out in compassion toward Coques, and putting forth his finger and thumb he lifted the flattened form to his mouth, and blew into his capacious ears, much words and wind. 12. But Kel Ee entered and said: Kiver thy mouth and stop it; fur how can I kerry him to the Legislator when he's so big? And Bolting Jim ceased thereat, and said: Coques, our faded gosling, stay at home and learn wisdom thyself. 13. And he stayed. 14. Then Kon Oh Lie, habited in the garb and colors of a chameleon, with a Green Back, the picture of King Hayes over his heart, his vizier presented by a Re Publikian Justice of the Peace and the Albany Herald, floating proudly at the summit of the Demo Kratik wand, arose and shrieked aloud at the people, but Williamsteen wounded him nigh unto death in the fields of Cottonwood, with the lance of truth. 15. And likewise at Milton. 16. And broke his helmet at Weston, besides bruising him at Centerville. 17. And when Williamsteen appeared also at Greasewood, the valorous Kon Oh Lie betook himself to his chariot, and sped him away to the bosom of the ring.

18. Then said they, the people, Yes, all the people of Bla Lok must have their armor kept from them, else are we vanquished. It was done. The remainder of the people were slain because of it, and now the ring laughs a loud laugh, yea, from the gosling up to the father of it, all make merry over their mischief.

FLUME.

Some days ago Judge Lassater of Walla Walla and a gentleman of this city took a prospecting tour up Pine Creek with a view to ascertaining the feasibility of building a flume. The result was extremely gratifying. The slope is easy; and the cost of construction would be comparatively trifling. We understand that Mr. Lassater was more than satisfied with the prospects and that he will at once commence the work in good earnest. That there is money in such an enterprise no one doubts, and now that the scheme is known to be a practical one, the means of carrying it out will soon be forthcoming.

THE Independent with characteristic simplicity stated that Democrats and Republicans united to defeat the Division party. Tom Luoy, of our city, can testify to the "trading-off" to elect some on both straight tickets. Democrats of Umatilla County can now see that those Republicans who took hold of Division at Weston and Milton acted in good faith. There were not six straight Republican tickets voted at Weston, while there were over sixty straight Democratic tickets. Most of the latter were favorable of Division, but voted against it because they were "afraid of the Republicans." The result shows where the trouble really was.
