THE SUREST ROAD TO WEALTH IS THROUGH LIBERAL ADVERTISING!

TIMELY SUGGESTION.

As the question of increasing the salaries of the teachers of the public schools is being discussed with renewed vigor, and as the School Board will meet to-night to elect teachers, it is proper at this time to make a suggestion in that connection.

There is no more important branch of work in the school than the teaching of drawing and music and method of teaching those studies should be kept as near the standard of perfection as possible.

That department is now under the charge of one teacher and it is recognized that the duties developing upon that one teacher are too arduous.

It is therefore suggested that the School Board, at its meeting to-night, decide to elect two teachers for that branch, one to teach drawing and the other for vocal music.

This is a reasonable suggestion and it is hoped the board will duly consider it.

It is repeated that the combined work is too much for one teacher. There is no doubt that overwork in that department contributed to the death of one of the best teachers of the corps and that her predecessor resigned for like reason. That the present teacher should complain is not surprising. Indeed it is surprising that the teacher has succeeded in accomplishing such good work under the circumstances. But the accomplishments of the past cannot be used as arguments against a division of its work. The teacher may bear up under the strain for a while, but nature will eventually assert itself and then—well, the teacher will be forced to retire and the department will suffer from the disadvantages that attend the appointment of a new teacher.

To expect good work the instructor must be given fair play and not be handicapped by overwork.

An Allentown fire company retained a trumpet won at a fair because it learned there was some dissatisfaction concerning the award.

The company evidently intends to blow its own horn in the future.

SAM. SANFORD, "the only, the genuine Sam," is now travelling with an Indian Medicine Company. Sanford is well known in this county and was a very popular minstrel performer at one time.

DAN RICE, the veteran showman, is making another farewell tour. As a "farewellist" old Dan takes the bakery.

THERE is "blood on the moon" and it may end in some interesting affair when Council meets.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Presbyterian General Assembly at Detroit dissolved last night.

Henry Taylor was convicted at Boston of making counterfeit postage stamps.

Rochester, N. Y., blacksmiths are on strike because they were told to leave the union.

The Massachusetts House passed the bill to repeal the bar law which requires that a drinker must be seated.

A statue of Leonard Calvert, the first Governor of Maryland, was unveiled at St. Mary's City, Md., at 1 p. m., to-day.

Secretary Tracy has ordered the North Atlantic Squadron to rendezvous at Portsmouth, N. H., on the fourth of July.

Trouble between the builders and bricklayers of Boston is brewing over a question of three cents more an hour for front work.

The Czar has returned to St. Petersburg from Moscow. The Czarina and the members of the imperial family will visit the Crimea.

The Grand Jury of McDowell county, West Virginia, after an investigation, says the reports of ill-treatment of Hungarian or other laborers on the Norfolk & Western railroad extension were wholly unfounded.

All the stonecutters employed by the leading contractors at Scranton, Pa., have gone on strike on account of the refusal of the contractors to accede to a nine-hour day, notice for which was given seven months ago.

C. W. Harris, a guest at the Brower House, New York city, committed suicide some time during the night by cutting his throat with a pocket knife. Harris was 60 years old and a resident of Hartford, Conn.

A call will soon be issued at Worcester, Mass., for the organization of a new American Society of Pedagogy. The object is the association of all those who are scientifically studying education and its underlying principles. The organization of the association will take place at Saratoga or some central spot in the early summer.

The Shenandoah Business College will continue its sessions through the summer. Pupils entering now for bookkeeping or shorthand can prepare for positions by fall. Inquire at the college rooms, Robinson's opera house. 6-2-2v

QUITE A SHOCK!

A THUNDERBOLT CREATES EXCITEMENT.

A BOY RENDERED INSENSIBLE.

A Chimney on the Helsenberger House Struck and Demolished. Barbers and Tailors Play Ball—Personal Notes.

During the storm last night there was a thunder-bolt that terrified more than one individual in the town. One lady said, "I thought somebody dropped a box of dynamite on the street." In the vicinity of White and Centre streets the shock was particularly effective. This was due to the fact that the lightning struck and demolished the chimney on the Helsenberger building, at the corner of the streets named. A young son of Charles Palmer, of West Line street, was rendered insensible by the shock and birds owned by several residents were killed. The street electric light system was also affected and the town was in darkness for some time.

PAWNEE BILL AT LAKESIDE.

A Realistic Illustration of Our Country's Progress.

On Monday, June 15th, Pawnee Bill's Historical Wild West Aggregation will begin a one-week engagement at Lakeside Trotting Park (East Mahanoy Junction). Pawnee Bill in private life is Major Gordon W. Lillie. He was born at Bloomington, Ill., and when but a boy he went West. At Wachtia, Kas., he joined a party of trappers and hunters. "Trapper Tom's Outfit." He took naturally to the trail, its hardships and adventures, and before three months had passed he was one of Trapper Tom's most valued assistants. Subsequently he became interpreter to the Pawnees and in the fall of 1888, having in the meantime become White Chief of the Pawnees, he was appointed as guide for the Oklahoma boomers and successfully led them into the great "No-Man's-Land."

Pawnee Bill's show is the largest and grandest of the kind on the American continent. It is an elevating and refined entertainment, visited by the clergy and endorsed by the press everywhere. The show embraces a band of sixty genuine Indians, cow boys, scouts and Mexicans. The Indians are selected from among the leaders of the Pawnee and Sioux bands.

May Lillie, the only lady in the world who has ever attained the feat of breaking glass balls from the back of a running mustang, and Mustang Walter, the prince of all cow boys, are with the combination. Among the others are Don Ze Anno, the greatest Mexican rider and roper Mexico has ever produced, Senor Francisco, famous Mexican leader, Pedro Danni and Antonio Torres, genuine Mexican Vaqueros, Texas Tom, champion pony express rider, Deadwood Dick, guide and scout, Trapper Tom, of the Rockies, Texas Rose, champion trick rider of Texas, Senorita Raus, the only lady living who dares to ride a wild broncho, Broncho Bob, Wild Bert, Hank Hawk, Doc Mann and Kid Royal, genuine western cow boys. There is no other frontier exhibition like it traveling to-day.

PHILADELPHIA'S MUDDLE. The Supreme Court will hear argument to-morrow on the City Treasuryship.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—The first move to test the power of filling a vacancy in the City Treasuryship was taken in Common Pleas Court. The court made a decree in favor of Oellers that the case might be heard at once by the Supreme Court and there decided for all time. The Supreme Court will hear the argument to-morrow.

Ex-City Treasurer Barsley has steadily improved in his physical condition since his confinement in Moyamensing prison. This morning he was so much better that he spent much of his time in putting up and down in his cell in the hospital ward.

Dr. Butcher, the prison physician, who has Mr. Barsley in charge, says that the prisoner is fast increasing in strength, but refuses to discuss his mental condition.

When asked if he had noticed any symptoms of mental trouble, Dr. Butcher declined to express an opinion either way, saying that it was a question which would very likely come before the courts.

CHURCH MEMBERS INDICTED.

To be Tried for Disturbing a Religious Meeting and Riot.

BUTLER, Pa., June 3.—The grand jury returned true bills on 18 indictments against members of the West Sundry M. E. Church, charging them with forcible entry, disturbing a religious meeting and riot. The cases will be tried next week.

Rival factions in the church have for some time been carrying on a bitter contest for the possession of the church property. The suits grew out of the recent attempt of one faction to forcibly eject the other while services were in progress.

ANOTHER TRIAL FOR LINGO.

The Supreme Court sustains Judge Garrison's Decision.

TRENTON, N. J., June 3.—The matter of the certiorari proceedings in the case of Francis Lingo, convicted of murdering Mrs. Miller, was argued before the Supreme Court and ex-prosecutor Richard S. Jenkins spoke against the proceedings, and endeavored to have them set aside.

Judge Wescott, for the defendant, made a logical argument in favor of Judge Garrison's certiorari, and the certiorari was sustained. The case will now be retried.

550,000 Blaise in Boston.

BOSTON, June 3.—At 8 a. m. fire started in the fifth story of the building 99 to 105 Broad street. The building was occupied by West and Jenny, wholesale drug dealers. Flames spread quickly to adjoining stores and caused a loss to Allen & Berry, label printers, and Eldridge & Butler, job printers, which will aggregate $8,000. West & Jenny estimate their loss at $40,000. Captain Perkins and two firemen were taken from the building unconscious from the fumes of the chemicals.

The Reformed Church General Synod.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 3.—The 55th regular annual session of the General Synod of the Reformed Church of America convenes here this afternoon. In the evening the retiring president, J. Asmoy Berry of Rhinebeck, N. Y., will preach the synodical sermon. A new appeal in the case of the Third Reformed Church of Philadelphia, which was disbanded six years ago by the Classis of Philadelphia, will be heard at one of the sessions of the convention.

A Prominent Lawyer Found Dead.

ERIE, Pa., June 3.—Hon. William Benson, one of the oldest and most widely known members of the Erie county bar, was found dead in his room in the Olds block last night. He was in court yesterday in apparently good health. He was known throughout the State as the "Poor Man's Lawyer." Heart failure was the supposed cause of death.

An Old Veteran Dead.

COHASSETT, Mass., June 3.—Col. James Quick, a former Boston business man, died last night, aged 63. He was born in Milton, N. Y., and during the war served with distinction as colonel of the 95th New York regiment. He was a 3rd degree Free Mason and was a member of Polar Star lodge of New York. He leaves a widow and one daughter.

A County Treasury Bankrupt.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 3.—Owing to the abolishment of the office of county tax collectors and there being no way to collect back taxes the treasury of Newcastle county is practically bankrupt and county warrants have gone to protest. There are over $60,000 taxes due the county, but it has been necessary to borrow $10,000 to meet current expenses.

Decided in Favor of the Duchess.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The motion to prevent the Duchess of Marlborough from setting as trustee under the will of her husband, Louis C. Hamersley, on the ground that she has taken up her residence abroad, was decided by the Surrogate in favor of the Duchess.

A Cyclist Held Up by Road Agents.

REHOBOTH, Conn., June 3.—Allie Glenn, a 17-year-old lad of this town, who is making a bicycle tour of the Southern States, sends word to his parents that he was recently held up by highwaymen on a lonely Virginia road and robbed of all his valuables.

City Fathers Held for Bribery.

SCHUYLER, Pa., June 3.—City Councilmen Golden, Kelly, Weisich and McDaniel have been indicted for bribery in connection with the recent election of the city engineer. After the indictments were found captives were issued and the accused councilmen were held in $2,500.

THE THIRD DAY!

PROCEEDINGS OF THE FAMOUS BACCARAT TRIAL.

UNPLEASANT FACTS DEVELOPED.

The Prince of Wales Testifies That He Saw no Crooked Play—The Case Against Cumming Believed to be Settled.

LONDON, June 3.—The Baccarat case has thus far developed the following facts: That Gordon Cumming signed a document for the purpose of securing himself against the charge being publicly made known, and that he did not demand to be confronted with his accusers, but signed the damaging document and left the house next morning, as he was told to do by Gen. Williams and Lord Coventry. This conduct he explains by saying that at the time he had lost his head.

That the Prince of Wales did not ask him to sign the paper, nor was it even mentioned in the course of the interview which he had with the Prince.

That Lord Coventry and Gen. Owen Williams, who advised him to sign, were very old friends, and he had no reason to doubt that they believed him to be guilty. That he took no steps to assert his innocence until the scandal leaked out, and then because he was justified in the thought that the affair would be taken up by his club, his regiment and his friends. So the case stands to-day, the evidence given by the Prince of Wales not materially affecting the main issue.

The Prince in the Box.

The Prince of Wales went into the box looking very much annoyed. He spoke with a German accent, showing his embarrassment. He continually wiped his bald head with his left hand and crossed one leg over the other. His testimony showed plainly that he still has a fellow feeling for his old friend Cumming.

Gossip About the Trial.

The Prince of Wales made a decidedly favorable impression as a witness. His testimony was given with a frankness that seemed to command the belief of all present, at the same time the Prince was unable to conceal that he felt himself in an unpleasant position. His popularity was shown by the spontaneous respect which everybody displayed.

The general talk in clubs and lobbies is that the testimony of the Prince has settled the case against Cumming. His avowal that he had cut Sir William since last September is accepted as stronger evidence of the Prince's belief in Cumming's guilt than if he had plainly expressed his conviction of such guilt. In matters of the kind the Prince is known to be merciless.

Cumming generally scout the story that a woman's revenge was at the bottom of the Cumming exposure. One of the leading men of the Marlborough—the Prince of Wales' own—said last night that it was a story impossible to keep, and that it was wrong for society and the army it could not be kept. The Prince, he said, had erred only in attempting to keep the matter secret through his sympathy for Cumming.

One of the rumors floating about is that Cumming had doubly offended the Prince by his free remarks regarding the Prince and Lady Brooke, and that had Cumming kept his tongue still as to the Prince and the lady, he would have had influence enough behind him to save him from the present disgrace.

PARNELL ACCUSED.

He is Charged by a Newspaper With Misapplying Funds.

DUBLIN, June 3.—A sensation has been sprung by an article in the National Press, accusing Mr. Parnell of misapplying certain funds.

The paper announces its intention of reiterating the charge in order to compel Parnell to take legal proceedings against the publishers, and the editor says: "Our secretary waits in his office to receive service of a writ from Mr. Parnell."

Davitt's Paper a Failure.

LONDON, June 3.—It appears that Michael Davitt's paper, the Labor World, which he had proudly hoped to make the organ of English labor and the champion of English speaking workmen, has been a complete failure financially. The paper had $50,000 behind it, and nearly $45,000 having been exhausted, without any apparent prospect of success, the company concluded to give up the struggle and it has ceased publication. It is said that the fact is unknown to Davitt, who is now abroad.

A Difficult Problem Solved.

LONDON, June 3.—Gen. Stewart Stanley of South California announces that he has discovered the law of variation of the maximum tension of aqueous vapor, a principle hitherto regarded as impossible of discovery. It would thus appear that after a hundred years of research, science has finally solved one of the most difficult problems of terrestrial physics, and that we can now legislate for the control of the atmosphere and of the steam engine.

Queen Victoria Afraid of the Grip.

LONDON, June 3.—A number of the domestics attached to the Queen's household at Balmoral are ill with influenza. The malady is of an acute type. Her Majesty is said to be fearful of contracting the disease and is ordering the utmost precautions to be observed.

GLADSTONE'S KIND HEART.

He Orders Tombstones for Five Little Children Buried in Ohio.

SPRINGFIELD, O., June 3.—The following story shows the sympathy and kindness of heart of England's Grand Old Man, W. E. Gladstone.

At Waverly, O., live a family named Gladstone, who have always been understood to be related to Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, the great ex-Premier of England.

Between September 28 and November 2, 1882, there was an epidemic of diphtheria in Waverly, and little Esther Gladstone was taken ill with the disease. Every effort was made to save her life, but in vain. She died after sowing the seeds of the disease among her little brothers and sisters.

One after the other little John James, Jane and Joseph Gladstone succumbed and were laid beside their sister Esther in the cemetery at Waverly.

For twenty-nine years the graves of the little children have been but slightly marked, but a few days ago an order came from England from Mr. Gladstone to have five marble tombstones erected in the cemetery to mark the graves of his little kinsmen in America. The tombstones will be erected at once.

The Tilden Will Contest.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 3.—The Tilden will contest has begun in the second division of the Court of Appeals. It is an action of George H. Tilden against Andrew H. Green, George W. Smith and John Higelow, the executors and trustees under the last will and testament of Samuel J. Tilden and others, being an appeal from the Supreme Court in favor of the plaintiff. About $5,000,000 are involved in the suit.

Regarded as a Spy.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 3.—A special from North Sydney, C. B., says great excitement prevails at St. Pierre over the continued presence of Hon. James Fox, member of the Legislature for St. John's, N. F., who is regarded as a spy. Mr. Fox denies that he is there in any official capacity, but refuses to say why he remains. The Governor has been asked to expel him, but this he refuses to do on account of the complications it may lead to.
