M'KINLEY CHOSEN

OHIO REPUBLICANS NOMINATE HIM FOR GOVERNOR.

THERE WAS NO OPPOSITION.

Asa Bushnell Permanent Chairman—His Selection Said to be Foraker's Choice and a Defeat for Senator Sherman.

By National Press Association.

COLUMBUS, O., June 17.—The capital of the Buckeye State bubbled over with Republican enthusiasm to-day. The crowd gathered here is the largest that has been drawn together by any political State convention since war times.

When the convention assembled this morning the prominent leaders of the party were enthusiastically cheered.

Asa Bushnell of Springfield was selected permanent chairman. The result is a signal defeat for Senator John Sherman and a corresponding victory for Joseph R. Foraker. The latter had 13 members of the committee out of 21.

Sherman was not even placed in nomination, although it had all along been understood that in coming here as a delegate-at-large he had expected to preside over the gathering. When, however, it was proposed that Bushnell be chosen by acclamation the three objected with one voice and protested against gag law.

One in particular said that he had been sent to the convention as a Sherman man, and proposed to stand by his colors. Finally Bushnell was selected by a majority vote. This means that no resolution endorsing John Sherman for Senator will be submitted to-day. His name, however, may be approved by a perfunctory resolution.

Major William J. McKinley was unanimously nominated for Governor. After the nomination the convention took a recess and Major McKinley received his friends.

The remainder of the ticket will be completed this afternoon, and an open-air meeting will be held this evening, when the nominee for Governor will make a speech and accept the nomination.

The Resolutions.

The resolutions arraign and denounce the present Democratic State administration, and the recent Democratic Legislature is denounced for its falsity to its pledges, its incompetency, its extravagance, and its election to the United States Senate of a "financial speculator," and "a man who is practically a non-resident of Ohio, who had no record of statesmanship and nothing to recommend him for the honor but his money—a man more in sympathy with Wall street than with the people of this Commonwealth." Also for having unseated, without regard to even the forms of law, a legally elected Republican Lieutenant-Governor in obedience to the decree of a party caucus for purely partisan purposes.

The Democratic Legislature is also arraigned for passing the most unfair Congressional gerrymander ever enacted in a Northern State, under which the Republican party, with a majority of 20,000, was given less than one-third of Ohio's representation in the national House.

Ohio Democratic Committee.

COLUMBUS, O., June 17.—Chairman Norton has called the State Democratic Committee to meet here on June 24 to fix a date for the State Democratic convention.

KILRAIN IS BEATEN.

He Falls Before Slavin, the Australian, in Nine Rounds.

New York, June 17.—The glove contest for a purse of $10,000, of which $2,500 goes to the loser, between Frank P. Slavin of Australia, and Jake Kilrain of Baltimore, ended in the ninth round.

Referee Jere Dunn decides that Slavin won the battle. All bets that Slavin would knock out Kilrain, however, the referee decides off.

The result of the contest creates some dissatisfaction, but in the opinion of experts Dunn's rulings are fair.

The trouble arose over the failure of the electric gong to work, necessitating the appointment of a timekeeper, "honorary" John Kelly, who after Kilrain was knocked down in the ninth round counted 10 seconds, whereupon the referee who did not see the Baltimorean's efforts to get up awarded the match to the Australian.

William Muldoon, Kilrain's second, entered a protest, and so did others, who claimed that the sound of the gong indicated only the ending of the round. It is purely a technical point.

From the first half of the third round it was practically certain that the $10,000 would go to Slavin. The contest therefore was a magnificent exhibition of gameness on the part of Kilrain—a quality partly due to the excellence of his condition. The Baltimorean is much the cleverer boxer, but Slavin's strength and reach told the story.

Friends of the champion, John L. Sullivan, among them Dan Murphy, of Boston, declare that the Australian would not last two rounds before the big fellow. Others express high admiration of Slavin's skill and consider him a world-beater.

Before the Fight.

A good crowd of sports observed the principals and their seconds when they entered the ring at 11:15. Both men claimed to be in good condition. Kilrain weighed about 190 pounds, while Slavin tipped the beam at 185.

Slavin's seconds were Charley Mitchell, Pony Moore and Ed Stoddard, while Kilrain's interests were looked after by William Muldoon, Mike Cleary and Dan Murphy.

The betting was decidedly in Slavin's favor.

The Battle.

Kilrain stood up pluckily in the first and second rounds, but after that Slavin got in some terrific blows, and Kilrain was repeatedly knocked down.

The third, fourth and fifth rounds were repetitions of the first and second, and in the fifth Kilrain was only saved from a knockout by the call of time.

The Baltimorean man seemed wonderfully plucky in the sixth and seventh rounds and took considerable punishment, but in the eighth he was evidently done for and could scarcely stand on his feet.

In the ninth round he went to ground at Slavin's first blow, cut struggled to his feet only to be knocked down again.

The Financial Part.

The managers said that they had no doubt that the financial part of the business was a success. Kilrain will receive $2,500, but it will scarcely be a salve to his wounded body and spirit.

Gibbons Knocks Out Varral.

LONDON, June 17.—Austin Gibbons knocked out Jim Varral in four rounds at the Pelican Club last night. Gibbons had it all his own way from the start.

DEATH OF A PAPOOSE.

Grief Among Pawnee Bill's Wild West Indians.

Death marked the concluding performance of Pawnee Bill's Wild West show on Saturday at Pottstown. Hardly had the show started its performance when Ku Ne Ka, the pretty little papoose, which had been ailing for some days, breathed its last.

The grief of the father, Green Feather, and the mother, Pretty Face, was pitiful in the extreme. While the band was playing a galop, the anguished mother knelt by the side of her dead child and wept aloud. Such Indians as were not at the time exhibiting gathered around and in their guttural native accents professed their condolence.

Becoming finally composed the young squaw permitted the dead infant to be taken to the sleeping car where it was embalmed by undertaker Maxwell. Afterward it was sent to the office of the United States express company and forwarded to Harley, Wisconsin, the home of the bereaved parents. Ku Ne Ka was ten months old and a Winnebago.

EXCELLENT SHOW

LAKESIDE PARK THROGGED YESTERDAY.

THE PERFORMANCE INTERESTING

Pawnee Bill and His Indian Cowboys Entertain Large Crowds at Schuykill's Favorite Summer Resort.

Notwithstanding the heavy thunder storm yesterday afternoon Pawnee Bill and his cowboys and Indians gave an excellent show at Lakeside Park. The opening was postponed for a half an hour and then the combination appeared before the audience, which was a large one. The track and grounds were very heavy, but the horses and men got over them in good style.

W. W. Lewis, Mahanoy City's famous sport, took advantage of Pawnee Bill's invitation for the audience to take a ride in the Deadwood coach. He stepped into the vehicle smiling like a basket of chips, but when he alighted, after the coach passed through the battle of the cowboys and Indians he looked as if he had nothing to live for in this world.

After the performance one of the steers got away from the herd and escaped into the woods near the lakes. The Indians and cowboys started on a hunt after him, driving the herd in front of them and finally succeeded in recapturing the fugitive. But this was only accomplished after a good hunt and chase, the victors to the park having meantime enjoyed a genuine steer chase.

Tamiqua's negro celebrity, Skimmerhorn, is filling an engagement at the park. He puts his head through a hole in a piece of canvas and allows men and boys to try and hit it with base balls.

A handsome new steamer was hoisted to the top of the pole in front of the hotel yesterday. In red letters on the white background, between the blue and red stripes, are the words "Lakeside Park."

accompanied by an interpreter. During their stay they excited great curiosity.

Probably no Chief living to-day has had such an extraordinary life as (Ku-suck-jein) Left Hand, the undisputed Chief of the Kit-ka-kack band of the Pawnees. He is a true ideal of an Indian Chief, being as straight as an arrow, high cheek bones, very dark skin, long hair, with scalp lock braided; is very fond of the Indian dress, such as painting, buckskin leggings, wearing his head dress of eagle feathers, and scalp taken from his enemy in the younger days.

His father, being Chief of the Pawnees, would have thrown Left Hand naturally a chief at his death; but his father, being a shrewd man, called his son to him and addressed him thus: "Before another moon my warriors will be on the trail of the Sioux. I want you to join the war party and gain favor with your fellow warriors by taking many scalps of your enemy, and thereby you may be chosen chief, for I am getting too old to follow the trail, and before I go to the hunting ground I would wish to see you, Chief of the Pawnees."

Left Hand, although a very young man, did as his father wished, and upon his return to the camp laid before his father the scalps of seven Sioux, this being two more than that of any other.

He was then appointed as Chief of the Kit-ka-kack band of Pawnees, and has continued as such ever since. His popularity and renown thus gained continued to increase. As a warrior and commander he has no equal, as is proved and endorsed by the officers of the United States army who were in command of the expedition sent against the Sioux, in which Left Hand and a band of his warriors were enlisted. The terrible massacre of Sioux by the Pawnees is of too recent a date to require mention here. He still is a hunter, trapper and trader is unsurpassed, and in the councils of his tribe he exhibited much native diplomatic and oratorical ability. During the Sioux outbreak where Left Hand and his band of Pawnees were enlisted as soldiers, and armed and received pay as such under Major Frank J. North, they underwent many hair-breadth escapes, and to-day, Left Hand, as well as many of his daring warriors, carry wounds and scars

THE LIGHTNING!

DAMAGE DURING THE STORM LAST NIGHT.

A GHURGH STEEPLE SHATTERED.

The German Lutheran Church on Cherry Street the Sufferer—House set on Fire at Ellengowan—Several Shocks.

During the heavy thunder storm last evening the steeple of the German Lutheran church was struck by lightning and almost demolished.

The bolt ripped the shingles and other covering from one side of the steeple, split one of the steeple supports into match wood, tore the base of the support with its six-inch spikes from its fastenings, and splintered one of the main supports of the bellry. The metal ball of the weather-vane was split in halves, one of which is held by "Billy" Donohue, the driver for the Columbia Hose Company, as a memento.

The iron rod of the weather-vane was thrown to the pavement and a citizen who was passing the church at the time narrowly escaped being struck. The damage to the steeple amounts to about $200.

Lightning also struck the residence of Thomas Amour, at Ellengowan, and set it on fire, but the flames were extinguished before much damage was done. The members of Mr. Amour's family and members of Charles Bach's family were stunned by the shock.

Thomas Amour was scorched on the arm, his son, Joseph, on the face, and his daughter and son, Polle and James were stunned and slightly scorched.

During the storm three boys named Edward Hughes, Anthony Monaghan and Martin McGrath were near the dam on the mountain. The lightning struck a large rock near the place where they stood and the three were thrown to the ground, partially stunned. They suffered no ill-effect after their recovery.

NEW FAST LINE

The Columbian Express, via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The new fast train to Chicago by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which entered the service on June 7th as the Chicago special, has been rechristened "The Columbian Express" in honor of the great fair. In bestowing this title on the new train, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has taken the initiative among the railroads in recognizing the merits of the World's Exposition by providing special facilities for the comfortable and speedy movement of visitors. The train is particularly worthy of bearing the honored title. It is the ripest example of train construction, as it contains accommodations for those who desire luxurious apartments as well as for those who seek the comforts of a well-appointed passenger coach. The Pullman drawing-room sleeping and dining cars, and its cherry passenger coaches, are all vestibuled. The Columbian Express leaves New York 4:00 a. m., Philadelphia 6:25 p. m., Harrisburg 9:30 p. m. every day, arriving at Chicago 5:15 p. m. the next day.

AT KEITER'S.

To-day the Citizens Cornet Band, of Tamaqua, ran an excursion to the grounds. It was a large one.

To-morrow Washington Camp, No. 206 P. O. S. of A., of town, will have an excursion. One of the committee stated to-day that the sale of tickets indicated that at least 500 people will join in the excursion.

Last night's Pottsville Chronicle published the following:

"While the herd of buffalo belonging to the Pawnee Bill Wild West Show were being loaded on the cars at Lakeside Park on Sunday, one of the buffaloes became enraged and gored several of the handsome spotted ponies, killing two outright. After some narrow escapes the buffalo was finally killed to save the stock."

The above is not correct. The mishap was not at Lakeside.

While the animals belonging to the show were being loaded on the cars at Pottstown on Saturday evening a bull buffalo went on a rampage and after scattering the cowboys and Indians it plunged at a handsome broncho tied in a corner, and tore a deep gash in the animal's rump. The blood spurted out in a stream as big as a man's wrist. The animal will probably die.

Pawnee Bill was quite unfortunate during his stay at Pottstown. As referred to elsewhere in this paper, the papoose of Great Feather and Pretty Face, two Indian members of the show, died and shortly after a cow buffalo dropped over dead. The animal was valued at $100. Then, on Saturday, the pony was gored.

Says the Pottstown News: Although the Wild West show took away from Pottstown $1,550, while not as large as at Allentown, it was one of the best we ever had. Should the pony die his losses on Saturday will amount to $500.

This morning Pawnee Bill's Indians arrived in town. They remained here until noon, after which they returned to Lakeside to take part in the show. They were received at the hands of the blood-thirsty Sioux. Major North had intended to make a night march and surprise the Sioux who were encamped on the head waters of the Republican. They came upon the Sioux at near daybreak, and Major North ordered an advance and a quick fire. Left Hand gave the war whoop, and in an instant every warrior was at his heels and blood in every eye. They went down over the side hill into the Sioux camp, but the wary Sioux, who had long been expecting this, were on their horses, weapons in hand, ready to meet them; the fight was most desperate. While Left Hand was attempting to kill the Chief of the Sioux, a musket ball struck his horse in the neck and broke it, thus throwing him with renewed force against mother-earth and rendering him for the time insensible. The Sioux, thinking their opponent's chief dead, made an assault, but were repulsed and put to flight; after gaining the crest of the hill they made a stand, but upon looking around and seeing Left Hand (whom they thought dead) at the head of his warriors, coming as fast as horse flesh could carry them, they put to flight, and after a running fight of three miles the Pawnees returned with a loss of only four men, while the Pawnees' scalp belts were increased by forty-seven Sioux scalps. As they neared the deserted village, cries of babies were heard in a clump of mesquit brush near at hand. Upon going there, five small Sioux babies were found, having been thrown there by the fleeing mothers in their hasty flight, thinking they would return after the battle and regain them; but the Pawnees put them to death, thus saving them from the ravages of the wolves and coyotes.
