PARTNERS OF THE ADMINISTRATIONS
Several of the large mercantile houses in Allegheny have made another move in the direction of merging their enterprises under one, or possibly a few, management. These mergers of course must be considered as the results of the present business depression, which has been the most severe ever known in Allegheny County. The business middle of the city is practically in ruins. It is the general opinion of the business men that the collapse must continue, and that the city will not be able to recover from it for a long period of time. The result of the business depression is that the mercantile houses are looking for a way to get their business back on the right track again. The mergers of the houses are the result of this search for a way to get their business back on the right track again.

LADIES BELONGING to the Public Church, East Liberty, had been in the habit of going to the home of the late Mrs. M. A. K. Smith, 2430 Second Avenue, and gathering there for prayer meetings and other religious exercises. The meeting was opened yesterday with prayer and praise, and the people present were taken by surprise when Mrs. Smith, who was sitting in a corner of the room, suddenly fell to the floor. She was rushed to the hospital, where she remained until her death

A GENERAL STORE PURCHASE.

A man was seen on the street in a business suit, carrying a bag that contained $500. He was clearly shown to be a recent arrival from the West, and was asked by a passer-by what he was doing in Allegheny. He replied that he had come to buy a general store and wanted to see the city. The man was then taken to the store he had purchased, and was shown around by the owner. The man was pleased with the store and decided to buy it.
