CREW OF LOST SHIP SAFE

Captain and Seven Men Afloat in Small Boat Three Weeks

Turks Island, B. W. I., Nov. 6.—The captain and seven men of the Norwegian bark Stifinder, who had been missing since their vessel was stopped by a German submarine and they were forced to take to a small boat on October 13, have arrived here after more than three weeks' exposure and in an almost starved condition.

The captain said his small boat made for Halifax, but soon capsized and most of their provisions were lost. They managed to right the craft, and then, because of the extremely cold weather, they decided to try for Bermuda.

Instead they rowed all the way to Turks Island, from a point approximately 1000 miles east of New York. They suffered intensely and were in a pitiable condition when they reached here. They knew nothing of the fate of their companions who were in the other small boat.

New York, Nov. 6.—The arrival of the captain and seven men of the Norwegian bark Stifinder at Turks Island accounts for the entire crew of the vessel. The others reached New York last week after being picked up by a United States naval ship. They reported that the crew of a German submarine had abandoned the Stifinder's men to their fate after boarding the bark and placing bombs on her.

GOSSIP OF THE STREET

BANKERS AT SEA OVER WAR'S END

Guesses as to Probable Duration Range From Few Days to Two Months

Bankers were slow to express opinions today on the probable duration of the war, now that Austria-Hungary has definitely joined Bulgaria and Turkey; but some hazarded guesses which ranged from the end of the present week till two months from now. There seemed to be in the minds of several financiers a fear of the mob in the belligerent countries breaking all bounds and for a time producing chaotic conditions such as prevail in Russia. One banker said he dreaded war before the United States went in, and now he dreads peace more, or, rather, what may happen until peace and stable governments have been established.

After Loan Flotations

"What has become of all this flood of new financing which was promised or threatened as soon as the Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign would be over?" asked a banker.

"With the exception of the American Tobacco notes and a few other smaller issues," he continued, "we have not seen any great activity along that line, and certainly from the unqualified success of those which have been issued one would think would make those interested use every means to launch them at once before we begin to talk about another Liberty Loan."

Another banker said that the new issues are coming along all right. They have been passed upon by the capital issues committee, he said but the bankers who intend floating them successfully, had been prevailed upon by the corporations needing the money to postpone action till after the election and to wait a little longer till the international situation clears up a little, when, in all probability, they can be floated on better terms.

Decision on Acceptances

A banker who returned from New York yesterday, and who is an enthusiastic advocate of both trade and bank acceptances as a means toward extending the country's credit, said that on Monday last a committee of the New York Chamber of Commerce, with Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank, as chairman, held a meeting regarding ways and means to promote the use of acceptances and the growth of discount companies.

It was understood, he said, that this committee had arrived at an important decision which is to be communicated to the chamber at an early date. He said he did not know what this decision was, but he understood it applied to the after-war adjustments, which international developments have brought around.

After-War Fuel Oil Needs

On the subject of "Oil After the War," Henry L. Doherty & Co. say:

"The oil companies are striving now to supply enough crude oil to drive the ships of the navies and of the new merchant fleets. Nearly every new ship launched now burns oil as a fuel. The building of merchant ships will not cease with the signing of peace. It will go on just as though there were no peace, because the demands of commerce will be unprecedented. With all the activities of the Allied shipyards, the tonnage of the Allies in merchant shipping is less than it was in August, 1914. Where one ship is needed now three will be needed to meet the needs of the world's commerce in peace. The ships of the whole world are stripped of commodities which enter into general commerce, why such a condition prevailed, bankers and brokers could assign no other cause than the prevailing peace news and rumors. In fact the bond market taken altogether was strong. Railroad bonds showed a buoyant tone. Foreign Government bonds were active and strong with a larger turnover than for some time past.

Southern Pacific convertible 5s were in good demand, and some bankers maintained that further substantial advance in this issue would follow in the near future. This, no doubt, was based on the assumption that the stock also will enjoy a further advance during the coming weeks.

Bond houses say that indications are that the bond market will do better, as important interests are not inclined to part with their present holdings, feeling confident that with a restoration of peace, railroad and industrial issues alike will experience a decided turn for the better.

After Liberty Bonds

"We must be prepared to sacrifice still more to see that these ideals shape the future course of the nations of the world and not allow a commercialism which is alien to the fundamental ideals of our form of government to come between us and the end we have in view."

Interest in Fourth Liberty Bonds

There was a good deal of interest in the strength shown on Monday by the fourth Liberty 4¼ per cent bonds which were traded on the exchange for the first time. The price which they commanded—98—was somewhat higher than had been generally predicted by bond experts, and is a higher price than commanded by other outstanding 4¼ per cent war bonds.

FIGHTING FRENCH BAND HERE

Musicians Who Dropped Instruments for Guns Guests of Camden

Sixty bronzed warriors, all members of the French army band, arrived at West Philadelphia station today and proceeded to Camden, where they were the guests of the athletic association of the New York Shipbuilding Company.

During the war these musicians laid aside their instruments for guns, which they used to good advantage in many battles against the boche. Every member of the band has been wounded. Some bear several wounds as a result of their aggressiveness in the fight "over there." All have been decorated by the French Government for their deeds of valor. The band is in command of Captain Gabriel Pares.

They received an ovation at the shipyard and this afternoon they will be tendered a public reception at Camden Court House and be welcomed by Mayor Ellis.

Tonight the musicians will be the guests of the Camden Elks and will give a concert at the Third Regiment Armory. The band was brought here to arouse interest in the coming war work drive which will open in a few days.
