Clarion County Girl Prefers Jail Rather Than Leave Her Lover.

A Butler, Pa., dispatch under date of March 12, says:

Because she loved a man 25 years older than herself, who has a wife and family living in an adjoining county, Julia Emminger, a pretty Clarion county girl, is in jail here awaiting sentence. Her gray-haired lover is also waiting sentence. The romantic part of the story is that the girl refuses bail; refuses to return to a comfortable home, and says if her lover goes to jail she will go with him. M. S. Emminger is the daughter of a prosperous farmer who resides near Crown, Clarion county, and about a year ago she became acquainted with E. L. Parsons, who went to the Emminger home to do a job of painting. Last June, soon after Parsons' departure from the neighborhood, the girl came to Butler and was introduced here by Parsons as his niece. Since December she has been living at Lyndora, in a shack with Parsons and it was there her father found her. When arrested the girl insisted on going to jail with her lover. The cases were tried in the criminal court to-day and both Parsons and the girl were convicted on the charge for which they were indicted. The jury recommended the extreme mercy of the court in the case of Miss Emminger.

The girl has filed a civil suit in assumption against her adopted father, J. E. Emminger, for wages due since she was 18 years of age. She alleges she is not the legally adopted daughter of Emminger, but was placed with him under an agreement that he release her when she reached her 18th year.

Arrive in Washington.

OSTRANDER, Wash., March 9, 1903.

Ed. Republican:

I will endeavor to keep my promise by writing these few lines:

We arrived here Sunday forenoon and found the weather very nice. There were a great many acquaintances patiently awaiting our arrival. In coming across the mountains we found the weather very changeable. On the east side the dust was flying, in the mountains there was from 4 to 8 feet of snow. On the west side we found the fields quite green (and we likewise). We saw some very beautiful scenery in crossing both the Rocky and Cascade mountains. Between the Rocky and Cascades all you could see was sand covered with sage brush, on which cattle and horses grazed in large herds. Along the Missouri and Yellowstone River we saw large flocks of ducks and geese.

I thought I had seen large timber in old Forest, but find it very small compared with what is here. In cutting this large timber they scaffold from 6 to 16 feet. The logs are cut from 25 to 140 feet long, and are carried to the Columbia river by steamer up to Portland, Ore., where they are manufactured into lumber.

Everybody in our party is enjoying the best of health and is in good spirits. Not caring to take up much space in your paper at this time I will close, hoping this will satisfy your many readers that wished to hear from us. Yours truly,

A. W. STRUP.

Mrs. C. P. Potter visited friends at Tidlo over Friday night.

G. W. Rea visited friends at his home in Barnett township before leaving for the west. George left for Long Mont, Colorado, where he will engage in the beet sugar industry. He also expects the change of climate to benefit his health.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Kiffer were visiting friends at their old home near East Hickory during the week. Mrs. Kiffer's brother, Orion Clark, returned with them, and expects to be employed here during the summer.

Postage Stamp Flirtation Revised.

Writing the address in alleged poetry or rhyme is an evidence of feeble-mindedness that should never be displayed in public.

A postage stamp upon the upper left hand corner of an envelope means, "I am not quite right," in the estimation of postal employees.

Attempting to use a stamp that has been used before is a sure sign of trouble for the guilty party, if it falls into the hands of a post office inspector or the third assistant P. M. G.

Stamps on the reverse side of the envelope means that letter may be thrown aside in the rush of making up a mail before the freak is discovered, and the letter delayed from one to twenty-four hours, as a result of such nonsense.

The address at the top of the envelope on a line with the stamp, indicates that it is liable to be obliterated by a canceling machine, and the letter go to the dead letter office for resurrection.

Writing "in haste," or similar inscriptions upon a letter is a sign of great danger. No doubt many serious wrecks have been occasioned by fast running of trains when the engineer knew that such a letter was in the mail car. Don't do it any more. Some mail clerk is liable to hurt himself laughing at your silliness. Mail matter is always sent by the quickest possible route after being deposited in the postoffice, frequently going hundreds of miles around to gain a few minutes over a shorter direct route on which connections are not so good. Nothing but a special delivery stamp will hurry anything by mail, and then only after it has reached the office of destination, where it will be specially delivered.

Examination for Naval Cadetship.

Congressman Joseph C. Sibley has been notified that a vacancy now exists in the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, from the 28th Congressional district, and he has been requested to nominate a principal and three alternates for examination for appointment to fill the same. Having received so many applications for this appointment, Mr. Sibley considers it necessary that a preliminary competitive examination be held in his district, which will probably be at Warren, Pa., on April 15th, but due notice of time and place will be given later. Mr. Sibley will select as principal the young man who stands the highest in said examination; as first alternate the one who stands second; as second alternate the one who stands third, and as third alternate the one who stands fourth. The minimum age for admission to the academy is fifteen years and maximum age is twenty years. Young men who are desirous of taking this examination can doubtless obtain further information by writing to Mr. Sibley at Washington, D. C.

Here is an opportunity for some bright Forest county boy to try the examinations, which are quite rigid, but we believe we have some that would stand pretty close to the top in such a contest.

Letter to Geo. I. Davis.

Tionesta, Pa.

Dear sir: We hear you're doing a good business, and we know already without your telling us, that you use good paint and do good work. We've got a big business too—been at it 149 years—making good paint, best paint in the world, Devoe Lead and Zinc.

"Fewer gallons and wears longer"—that's the reason in short. It takes fewer gallons of Devoe Lead and Zinc than of mixed paints to cover a house, and it wears longer than lead and oil or any mixed paint.

Smith & Wilbur Cambridge Springs, Pa., write:

One of our painters says Devoe is the best paint for a painter to use when taking work by the job, as it goes further and covers better than any paint he ever used.

Here's the experience everybody has with it. The dealer who sells Devoe gets the bulk of the paint business of his town. The painter who paints Devoe gets the painting of his town.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & CO.,
