The politicians of the Independent party say the R. (on the oats blades) stands for Berry. - Clarion Democrat. Sure thing. Goose Berry.

The advertisement of the four constitutional amendments that are to be considered for the second time by the Legislature in 1911 were sent out last week from the State Department at Harrisburg to be printed in 200 newspapers 13 times between now and the November election, as required by law. Should the next Legislature approve the amendments they will be voted on by the people, but not until November, 1911. One allows the Legislature to create new courts and increase the number of judges. Another consolidates the courts in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties. The fourth permits Philadelphia to increase its bonded indebtedness to ten per cent of its assessed property valuation, instead of seven per cent, as at present.

New School Code.

At the last session of the legislature a new school code, drafted by a commission, was finally passed by both branches, but it had been so changed and amended and contained so many objectionable features that Governor Stuart felt compelled to veto it. The same commission, though acting now without authority, has drafted a new code which it is believed will be acceptable to the friends of education in all parts of the state.

The new code makes exhaustive provision for all features of the school system, among the most significant being the careful attention that is paid to the sanitary condition of the school houses and the strictness of the application of the compulsory attendance laws. Many of the objectionable features in the code as adopted by the last legislature have been eliminated.

Under the provisions of the proposed new code the state is to be divided into four classes of school districts. The first class is to contain a population of 500,000 or more; the second class not more than 500,000 nor less than 30,000; the third class not more than 30,000 nor less than 5,000; and the fourth class under 5,000.

In districts of the first class the school directors are to be appointed by the judges of the courts of common pleas. In the second, third and fourth classes the directors are to be elected by the people of the entire school district, one each year for a term of five years.

A state board of education will be created by the new code. It will have supervision of the educational life and facilities of all sections. One of its main functions will be to equalize the educational advantages of each section, so that the children in a remote rural section will have the best possible means to get a common school education.

The sanitary and moral environment of the children in all parts of the state will be looked after by this board. It will have arbitrary power to close down any school which it deems to be unfit in a sanitary way. The board is to be composed of six members appointed by the governor for a term of six years.

The new code will require that plans for school buildings provide safety, health, fresh air and comfort to the pupils. A system of rural inspection is provided. The smallest country school will have the same attention that the large city schools are given. School houses and grounds are to be used as recreation centers and as places of public assemblies for proper purposes to be determined by the board.

If the new code is adopted county superintendents will be elected every four years by a convention of the school directors of the county. They are to be responsible to the state superintendent of public instruction and they are to have general supervision of all the schools in the county, with power to recommend changes to the school directors.

Considerable ado has been made during the past few weeks and many of the editors around over the state are working themselves into a froth over the appearance on some 80 per cent. of the oats blades of a distinct letter "B." These editors were not taken to a farm and evidently have not had the pleasure of riding on the grain wagon in harvest time or tramping through the oats field to the early apple tree in the orchard or they would have discovered long ago that the so-called phenomenon is an annual figure on the oats blade and, to prove the assertion, we would direct those who have interpreted it as some dread omen to any obedient farmer. One gentleman has stated to us that he remembers of its presence some sixty years ago. - Brookville Republican. Nevertheless these same "country editors" will be around next year with predictions of dire calamity to come because of the big "B" on the oats blades.

RECENT DEATHS.

FRILL. John Frill, aged 85 years, one of the pioneer farmers of Clarion county, and well and favorably known in the community in which most of his long life was spent, died at his home near Lickingsville, on the 29th ult., after a short illness. He was born near Berlin, Germany, and came to this country with his parents when he was 14 years old. On Christmas day, 1856, he was married to Miss Anna Sandrock, whose death occurred 16 years ago. They were the parents of 12 children, of whom eight daughters and one son survive. They are Mrs. Lizzie, wife of Geo. S. Chadman, a former resident of Tionesta, now residing at Lamartine, Pa.; Mrs. Maggie Hodel of Fryburg, Pa.; Mrs. Sadie, wife of Henry Zuendel of Starr, Pa.; Mrs. Mary, widow of the late John Dieckraeger of Starr; Mrs. Adda Mills of Newmansville, Pa.; Mrs. Kate Beers, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Rosa McKissick, Marble, Pa.; Mrs. Alice Sigworth, Oil City, and John Frill, at home. The funeral took place at 2 p. m. Sunday, Aug. 31, at the M. E. church, where the deceased was a member and were conducted by Rev. M. B. Riley. The interment was in the Washington cemetery beside his wife.

MICHLEN. Solomon Michlen passed away at his home near Nebraska, Green township, yesterday morning, after an illness extending over a period of about eight months, of Bright's disease. He was aged 65 years. About 19 years ago Mr. Michlen came to Nebraska from Pittsburg and engaged in barge building for Collins, Darrah & Co., in which capacity he continued for a number of years, finally entering into the manufacture of lumber and coal flat building on his own account in which he was quite successful, his plant being located on Tionesta creek about a mile below Nebraska village. In the latter years of his life he was also engaged in oil operations on the Hopkins farm above Tionesta on the Allegheny river. As a citizen, employer of labor or neighbor, no man stood higher or bore the respect and esteem of the community in a greater degree than Solomon Michlen. Plain and perfectly frank in his everyday walk and conversation, with a heart as tender as a child's, he was admired and respected by all for his rugged honesty and straightforward dealings with his fellowmen. During his residence in Green township he had been repeatedly elected to offices of trust, all of which he discharged with fidelity and credit to himself and his people.

Surviving him is his wife, whose maiden name was Amelia Kessner, four daughters and four sons, namely: Emma, wife of Simon P. Whitman, Anna, wife of Robert Hunter, Lucy, wife of Warren Curll, all of Green township; Lydia, wife of Percy Host, of Newmansville, Pa., and John, Howard, Wilbur and Edward Michlen, at home. Funeral services in memory of the deceased will be held at the Zionel church, German Hill, tomorrow, Thursday, with interment in the cemetery connected with the church.

ELLIOT. Margaret J. Elliot, daughter of the late Captain C. W. and Margaret Clark, was born at Fort Clinton, Schuylkill county, Pa., July 16, 1858, and died at her home at Stewart Run, Pa., August 6, 1910, at 5:30 p. m., after an illness extending over a period of nearly two years.

When but a child of 8 years her parents moved to Oil City where they resided a few years, and then came to this vicinity to live on a farm on Hunter Run, which Capt. Clark purchased about the year 1898, and where the subject of this sketch grew to young womanhood. May 13, 1879, she was united in marriage with James Elliot, the Rev. Wm. Elliot, then pastor of the Tionesta Presbyterian church, performing the ceremony. Immediately following this union, which was a most happy one, the well-mated couple began housekeeping on the farm at Stewart Run owned by Mr. Elliot, and which was their home from that time forward. The union was blessed with the birth of the following children, all of whom, with the stricken husband, survive and are living at home: Miss Pearl, Arthur, Miss Mae, Matthew and Charles. One sister and four brothers also survive her, Mrs. Mary L. Thomson, of Tionesta, Wm. S. Clark of Pineville, Warren county, James, Charles and Joseph Clark, of Tionesta.

The death of this excellent woman has saddened the hearts of all in the community in which her life was spent, and where she was so universally loved and respected for her many good qualities of mind and heart. Mrs. Elliot was a member for a number of years prior to her death of the Tionesta Presbyterian church, and her faith in its tenets never for a moment wavered. A neighbor held in highest esteem, a devoted wife and loving mother, her memory will be cherished in the hearts of all who loved her. To the bereaved husband and family the tenderest sympathies go out in this hour of great sorrow.

Funeral services in memory of the deceased were held at the home Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. A. Bailey, followed by interment in Riverside cemetery. The pall bearers were Archie, William, Fred, James, Robert, Frank and John Clark and Joseph Thomson, all nephews of the deceased.
