

GENERAL NEWS OF INDUSTRIES

The new electrical works of the Westinghouse company, east of Brinton station, will be dedicated next September. Preparations are being made for a red-letter day, as the company will not spare energy or money for its success.

A falling off of 25 per cent. has already been noted by the large carriage factories since the trade during the winter and now comes a London inventor who wants you to believe that he has devised a scheme which will make horse back numbers altogether.

It is the general impression that no coal is mined in Mexico. This is a mistake; the fact is that Mexico sends coal to the United States. It is not sent in large quantities, but a considerable portion of the output of the mines at Salinas, San Felipe, Hondo and Alamo is sent to the United States.

One reason for the loyalty of the Pennsylvania Railroad company's employees, as shown by the fact that in seven years there has not been a strike of any magnitude on that system, is explained by John F. Miller, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania system.

There is a general impression that the big scheme of an electric trolley system between New York and Philadelphia is a move on the part of the Pennsylvania railroad to head off competition from electric lines which might be established to the company.
