Mr. Williams Answered.

With reference to the letter of J. E. Williams, published yesterday, containing what purports to be the contents of a postal card written by me. I never used the language attributed to me by Mr. Williams in the postal card, and he knows it.

I have a letter from him in which he says: "The first thing with me, in a directory, is to make money, and completeness and accuracy afterward." I have received from him a proposition to combine or draw out of the field. This offer I declined, as I am working for myself.

Mr. Williams' whine about treachery would be more to the point if he had any claim on me or any mortgage on the directory business in this city. It is a fact well known that all the directories published in Williams' name here were really compiled by my father. I claim to have as good a right to go in business for myself as has any other law-abiding American citizen; and I mean to do it.

NEWS OF THE SOUTH SIDE

Rev. August Lange Presented with a Cane by Washington Camp. PRESENTATION BY EMIL BONN

Gift Accepted by Mr. Lange in a Touching and Thankful Speech—Funeral of Patrick J. Barrett—Suspension of Work at South Mills.

As a mark of appreciation and esteem the members of Washington camp, No. 439, Patriotic Order Sons of America, last night presented to Rev. August Lange, pastor of the Hickory Street Presbyterian church, a gold headed cane inscribed as follows: "Presented to Rev. August Lange by Washington camp, No. 439, Patriotic Order Sons of America."

A few weeks ago Rev. Mr. Lange invited the members of the patriotic order to attend divine service and it was accepted. The programme was specially prepared for the event and the sermon was in keeping also. To show their heartfelt gratitude for the thoughtfulness of Rev. Mr. Lange it was decided to make an offering to him which took the shape of the gift already stated. When a committee from the camp called on Rev. Mr. Lange he was not told for what he was required at the rooms of the order. Not until he had been accorded a seat of honor on the platform surrounded by every member of the camp dressed in full uniform, and when Past President Emil Bonn approached with the gift and in a felicitous speech presented it, did the surprised clergyman begin to recollect what the meaning of it all was. He responded in a speech of acceptance that betrayed his feelings, showing how deeply he felt the kindness of the donors. Remarks were made by others present and the evening was very pleasantly spent.

Funeral of Patrick J. Barrett. Not many young men dying left behind as large a measure of regret as Patrick J. Barrett. At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the remains were borne to St. John's church and a high mass of requiem sung. Rev. Father Melley was celebrant of the mass. He preached a very appropriate sermon on death and referred with words of kind praise to the upright life of the deceased. After the mass the funeral proceeded to Minooka cemetery, where interment was made. The pall-bearers were: Martin H. McDonough, Michael G. Cusick and John McAndrew, of Minooka; Daniel J. Vaughan, of Binghamton, and John McGee and John J. Flaherty.

Suspension at the South Works. Once more the pall of gloom hangs over the mill yards at the South works. Just when the employees were cheering themselves with the hopes that work would be resumed without any warning that the mills would not work till further order. The rail shed worked till Saturday night and not until late was the notice posted that the mills were again to suspend. The management does not state when it expected that the mills will resume. The indefinite announcement that as soon as orders are received is all the consolation to be derived from the present outlook.

Shorter Paragraphs. Misses Lizzie Vetter and Katie Blitt, of Homestead, are visiting on this side. This morning Misses Lizzie and Mary Rosar, Rose and Anna Brejding, Mary Spohrer and Lena Phillips will go to Pittston to attend the wedding of Miss Libbie Kroner, recently of this side, who will be married to George Dorbad at St. Mary's German Catholic church, Pittston, today at 9 o'clock with a nuptial mass.
