A young and pretty school teacher had the honor of being chosen by her pupils to give the young lady of the school a wedding present. She presented the lady with a beautiful case of precious stones. The case was very attractive, and the young lady was very pleased with it.

A Virtuous Stranger
Judge Goff's Floor with a Swinging Fencing Master
A fencing apparatus was invented by a remarkable young man who was able to strike with his sword at the rate of two hundred and fifty cuts per minute. He was able to strike his adversary's sword with such force that he was able to cut through it in one blow. The young man was very popular among the schoolboys, and they were all eager to learn from him how to fence.

A Reasonable Request
A young girl was standing outside the front door of her house, looking very sad. She was wearing a beautiful dress, but she was very poor. She was asking the passersby for money to help her buy a new dress. The passersby were all very kind, and they gave her some money.

A Just Reward
The young girl was very grateful for the money she had received, and she decided to use it to buy a beautiful dress. She went to a dressmaker and told him what she wanted. The dressmaker was very pleased, and he made her a beautiful dress. The young girl was very happy with the dress, and she decided to wear it to the school play.

A Sensitive Struggle
Judge Goff's Floor with a Swinging Fencing Master
A fencing apparatus was invented by a remarkable young man who was able to strike with his sword at the rate of two hundred and fifty cuts per minute. He was able to strike his adversary's sword with such force that he was able to cut through it in one blow. The young man was very popular among the schoolboys, and they were all eager to learn from him how to fence.

A Reasonable Request
A young girl was standing outside the front door of her house, looking very sad. She was wearing a beautiful dress, but she was very poor. She was asking the passersby for money to help her buy a new dress. The passersby were all very kind, and they gave her some money.

A Just Reward
The young girl was very grateful for the money she had received, and she decided to use it to buy a beautiful dress. She went to a dressmaker and told him what she wanted. The dressmaker was very pleased, and he made her a beautiful dress. The young girl was very happy with the dress, and she decided to wear it to the school play.

A Sensitive Struggle
Judge Goff's Floor with a Swinging Fencing Master
A fencing apparatus was invented by a remarkable young man who was able to strike with his sword at the rate of two hundred and fifty cuts per minute. He was able to strike his adversary's sword with such force that he was able to cut through it in one blow. The young man was very popular among the schoolboys, and they were all eager to learn from him how to fence.

A Reasonable Request
A young girl was standing outside the front door of her house, looking very sad. She was wearing a beautiful dress, but she was very poor. She was asking the passersby for money to help her buy a new dress. The passersby were all very kind, and they gave her some money.

A Just Reward
The young girl was very grateful for the money she had received, and she decided to use it to buy a beautiful dress. She went to a dressmaker and told him what she wanted. The dressmaker was very pleased, and he made her a beautiful dress. The young girl was very happy with the dress, and she decided to wear it to the school play.

A Sensitive Struggle
Judge Goff's Floor with a Swinging Fencing Master
A fencing apparatus was invented by a remarkable young man who was able to strike with his sword at the rate of two hundred and fifty cuts per minute. He was able to strike his adversary's sword with such force that he was able to cut through it in one blow. The young man was very popular among the schoolboys, and they were all eager to learn from him how to fence.