YOUR NEWSPAPER

Bristow Adams, professor of Journalism in Cornell University, in an address on the community newspaper to the students of the Kansas State Agricultural College, says:

"The best newspaper has possibilities of being as good as any in the country, and remember that it reflects the community in which it is published, and is the one product that goes to far places bearing the town trademark. It deserves the best you can give of active support and sympathetic understanding.

"Give the editor news, whether it benefits you or not.

"Don't ask him to print it on the front page and just the exact way you headed it in.

"Don't worry lest the editor makes too much money. If he's prosperous, he'll be foolish enough to give the community a better paper than his editor's ambition. That's why he engages in the publicity business.

"Tell him when he has a good paper. You are willing to congratulate your preacher on a good sermon, and your merchant on an attractive window display. The editor is no less grateful for a word of praise.

"Make it a point to visit the print shop and learn of its difficulties and complexities. The paper should not be interested in it as friends, contributors, readers, or advertisers.

"Then shall come the ideal country weekly which can say with pride:

"I am the friend of the family, the bringer of tidings from other friends; I speak to the home in the evening light of summer's vine and porch the glow of winter's lamp.

"I'll help to make this evening hour; I record the great and the small, the varied acts of the days and weeks that go to make up life.

"I am for and of the home; I follow those who leave humble beginnings whether they go to greatness or to the gutter, I take to them the thrill of old days with wholesome messages.

"I speak the language of the common man, my words are fitted to his understanding. My congratulation is larger than that of any church in my town; my readers are more than those in the school. Young and old alike find in me stimulation, instruction, entertainment, inspiration, solace, comfort. I am the chronicler of birth, and love, and death—the three great facts of man's existence.

"I bring together buyer and seller, to the benefit of both; I am part of the market place of the world. Into the home I carry word of the goods which feed and clothe and shelter, which minister to comfort, ease, health and happiness.

"I'm the word of the week, the history of the year, the record of my community in the archives of the state and nation."

"I am the Community newspaper."
