The New York Stock Exchange is preparing to erect a 22 story building. It is to be hoped that cotton on that market will go higher than the building.

A GOOD BILL

Wonder if Congressman Fuller has been reading the Chesterfield Advertiser? This paper recently suggested the waste of news print be stopped by cutting out the big Sunday supplements. Congressman Fuller, of Illinois has introduced a bill in Congress to limit the size of Sunday papers and also to prohibit the export of wood pulp, of which paper is made.

Mr. Fuller is a Republican but you can say in this case "Hurrah for Fuller!"

WOMEN IN POLITICS

Recognizing the fact that women under the suffrage amendment will take a more prominent part in the politics than heretofore, Chairman Cummings, of the Democratic National Committee, will appoint seven teen women as members of the executive committee. He has already appointed eleven and will appoint six more. Those from the South are:

Mrs. John B. Castleman, Louisville; Mrs. Pattie-Ruffner Jacobs, Birmingham; Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Raleigh; Mrs. John K. Otley, Atlanta and Mrs. Beverly B. Mumford, Richmond. The selection of women will not have the bad effect that the post received to woman in Ancient times, when he wrote:

"Who was the cause of a long ten years war,
And laid at rest 941 kings,
In ashes a woman?"

WILL HELP COTTON FARMERS
Congressman Byrnes, of this State, got in some good work when he amended the agricultural bill by adding $25,000 to it for exterminating the boll weevil. It is very creditable to Mr. Byrnes that he succeeded in getting this amendment adopted as it was the only amendment offered by the Democrats that was adopted. The Republicans voted against the efforts of Southern Democrats to get legislation that would benefit this section.

With this money it is intended to establish a station in the Carolinas to experiment with the arsenic treatment for boll weevil.

THE FARMER AND THE BANKER

A North Carolina farmer and ex-banker, Mr. J. L. Skinner, gives his brother farmers some good advice in an article in the American Cotton News. He gives some of his experiences as follows:

Ever since I have been farming, I have deposited all cash received from the sale of hogs, cattle or anything sold or paid in. I pay all bills of whatever kind by check on the bank. This gives me a complete record of every transaction and prevents my having any money in the house in case of fire or burglars. When I run out of cash I borrow as little as I can tide over with, and deposit that to be checked on until there is some cash coming in.

Don't think that because you can't carry a balance banks don't want your business; they do. When I borrow say $100 and check it out gradually, covering a period of probably six months, I will have an average of $150 to $175 for the whole time. The bank loans this to some other depositor and he keeps an average of so much, so it is an endless chain. A bank is the farmer's best friend if he only knows it, but the farmer in general does not. Don't expect to borrow when you need cash if you never deposit when you have cash.

The business man must meet his bill when due; business farmers must do the same or their credit is gone. Don't abuse your credit, it is worth more than money. Let your banker and agent know that an honorable farmer's word is as good as another man's promissory note.

Half of the of the additional ten million dollars in loans. They are Postmaster General Burleson, Secretary of War, and Secretary of Treasury. The only sensational resignation of the Secretary of State was that of Mr. Clegg.

It quickly relieves Colds and Laryngitis, and is the best remedy for Hayfever and Headaches.

N. C. MAN SUES HEAD OF STATE INSANE ASYLUM

A damage suit, alleging mental anguish, has been started in Union County Superior court against John McCampbell, superintendent of the state insane asylum, and Kirksey & Company, embalmers of Morganton, by Mr. E. L. Melton of Buford township. He asks for a verdict of $4200. The action is based on indifference and negligence displayed by the two defendants in the preparation and shipment of the body of the plaintiff's wife, who died at the asylum on November 24, according to Mr. Melton's attorneys Messrs. J. C. M. Vann and W. O. Lemmond.

The corpse of the deceased did not reach Monroe until the morning of Nov. 26th. It was expected to arrive on the morning of Nov. 25th, and Mr. Melton had made preparations for the funeral services to be conducted that day. As a result of this delay, the plaintiff was greatly harassed in mind, his feelings were hurt, his family was greatly humiliated and mortified, and embarrassment and grief of his family and friends which resulted from the negligence of the defendants, contributed to plaintiff's anguish," says the complaint.

When Mrs. Melton was placed in the institution, the plaintiff claims he instructed the defendant, Mr. McCampbell, to notify the Clerk of the Court of Union County, in case of death, and to ship the body to Monroe. Expense of the performance of this request was guaranteed by Mr. Melton.

Section five of the complaint states: "The defendant telegraphed the plaintiff on the death of his wife, but carelessly and negligently failed to ship the body, as he had agreed to do."

Continuing, the complaint alleges: "The defendant, after having the body turned over to Kirksey & Co., undertakers, to be prepared for burial, failed to give sufficient instructions to them for its shipment to Monroe. They did not undertake to secure the necessary expense money from the plaintiff, and the body laid in Kirksey & Company's undertaking parlors for two or three days."

"The plaintiff, worried over the delay in the arrival of the body, called Mr. McCampbell over the telephone who informed him in a rude insulting manner, that he knew nothing of the body. He then called up Kirksey & Co., through Mr. T. P. Dillon, and found that they had willfully and negligently failed or refused for a period of two or three days to prepare said body for burial. The body did not arrive until the morning of November 26th."—Monroe Enquirer

YEAR PASSES AND SHE NOW IS SURE

DECLARES TIME CONVINCED HER TANLAC'S AID IS LASTING

"IS FINE MEDICINE"

Mrs. Ella Davis, of Spartanburg, Says Health And Strength Were Restored

"A year has passed since I first took Tanlac, and now I can say with confidence that Tanlac certainly is a fine medicine, for I know what it will do. I am glad to give this statement in endorsement of Tanlac," said Mrs. Ella C. Davis, of Drayton, S. C., a suburb of Spartanburg.

"I took Tanlac for stomach trouble of a bad and painful form, and I also suffered attacks of appendicitis. I was very weak, and overwork had almost broken down my health."

"The Tanlac stopped the indigestion, though, and soon I was not troubled any more with appendicitis. Those pains in my side left too. The medicine gave me back my appetite, strengthened my nerves and restored me to health and strength."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is sold by The Chesterfield Drug Co., Chesterfield, S. C.; T. E. Wanamaker & Mt. Croghan, S. C.; McBees Drug Co., Sons, Cheraw, S. C.; Pageland Drug Co., Pageland, S. C.; J. T. Jowers & Sons, Jefferson, S. C. Adv.

WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness and distressing urinary ills? People around here recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

Mrs. J. A. Cox, of Cheraw, S. C., says: "I suffered terribly from kidney trouble and the pains were so severe I was in constant misery. They started in the small of my back and would shoot up and down as if a knife was piercing me. I had terrible headaches and I was so nervous, I couldn't stay quiet a minute. I couldn't sleep because the pain was so bad. My kidneys acted irregularly, too, and certainly caused me a lot of annoyance. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and I took a few doses. I could feel myself getting relief. I continued taking them and used five boxes. Doan's completely cured me. Doan's and I are fine friends."

There's a lot of difference between the two methods. The car that is put together from the products of a score or more of parts-makers represents just that many standards of construction, no two of which are likely to be exactly the same.
