

THE ROSENBERG MERCANTILE CO.

Copyright 1907
The House of Kuppenheimer
Chicago

The Queen of Sheba had heard, and no doubt read of King Solomon's Temple—doubtless she had imagined its magnificence and its splendor in its many appointments and rich decorations, but still so great was her surprise when she beheld the King in all his glory and palatial surroundings that she exclaimed in astonishment—

“The Half Had Not Been Told.”

Our place of business is no Solomon's Temple, neither is it ruled by a King, but we do claim the right for it to be called

“A Palace of Merchandise”

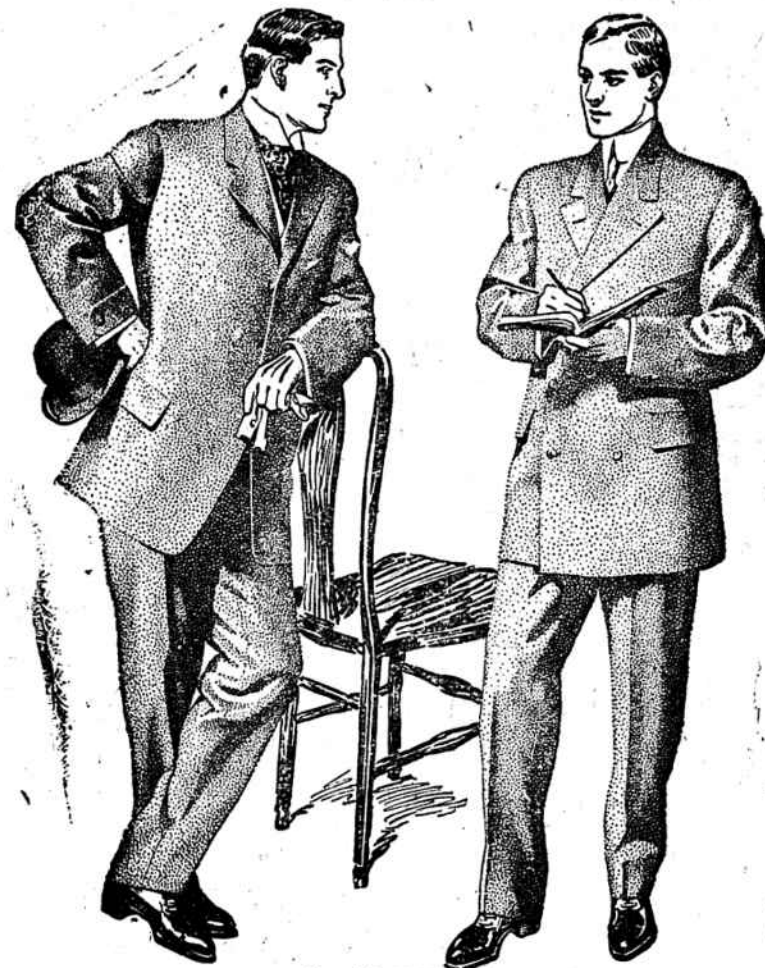

Copyright 1907
The House of Kuppenheimer
Chicago

and the home for Honest Values, Fair Dealing and Low Prices. These are the attractions which make it the popular resort for the buyer.

CLOTHING ! CLOTHING !

Copyright 1907
The House of Kuppenheimer
Chicago

Copyright 1907
The House of Kuppenheimer
Chicago

Our Mammoth Stock of Clothing is ruled by Hackett-Carhart and Kuppenheimer's leading styles and artistic tailoring, and for the Old Man, Young Man, Youth or Boy, we surely have what will please.

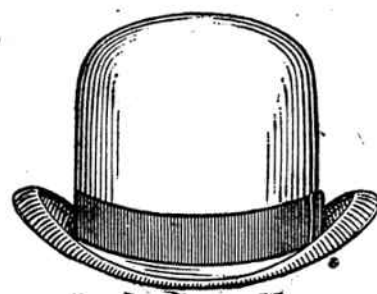

SHOES! SHOES!

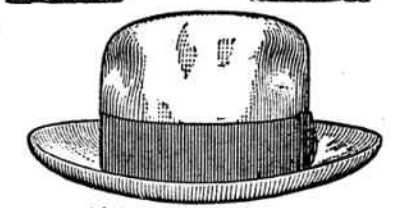

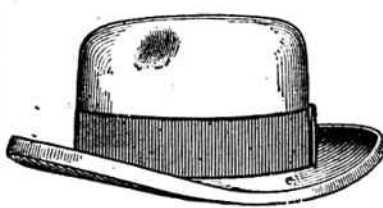

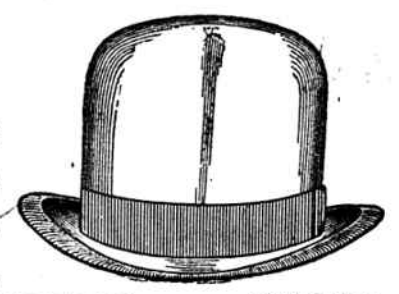

In the Shoe line we head our leaders with Hanan's best goods for men. We have all his styles, and for those who do not wish to buy quite so expensive Shoes we show the Howard and Foster line. For the ladies we have Krippendorf-Ditman's Shoes.

HATS! HATS!

It is claimed that the Stetson Hat is sold in every clime. We are sure it well merits the reputation it has for style and wear. We make it one of our Leaders.

Our Stock of Gents' Furnishings is the delight of the Dressy Young Man. Remember the new Columbia Shirt. Call for it.

The Rosenberg Mercantile Company.