EXECUTION OF PEACE TERMS GIVE CONCERN UNITED STATES SURE TO RATIFY TREATY.

Recent Maneuvers of Crafty Huns Draws Victors in Closer Alliance. (By David Lawrence.) Washington, June 28.—(Copyright N. Y. Evening Post.)—Scuttling of the German warships and the shifty maneuvers of the Germans in connection with the signing of the peace treaty have had a perceptible effect on the controversy over the creation of a league of nations. Those who have imagined the United States could say good-bye to European affairs with the mere signature of a peace treaty are beginning to realize the tremendous responsibilities involved in making Germany keep her word. Enforcement or execution of the peace treaty is giving concern to those who have been contending from the outset that some machinery must be quickly devised to keep an international concert capable of enforcing the treaty and guaranteeing peace, declare their argument for a league of nations to have been vindicated. Out of the confusion which has enveloped the terms of the covenant and the American congress, several things are very plain today. No longer is it contended by opponents of the league of nations that they can successfully postpone the establishment of a league of powers. Extreme and irreconcilable opponents like Senators Johnson, of California, republican, and Reed, of Missouri, democrat, may fight to the last ditch, but the remainder of the republican opponents seem to be rallying behind the suggestions made by Elihu Root in his recent letter to Senator Lodge. That letter was framed after conferences between Will Hays, republican national chairman, and the senate leaders. Mr. Knox himself is said to have had a part in the actual drafting of the letter. It represents republican viewpoint today or rather the position which the party leaders are urging their congress to assume.

Hope to Secure Limitations. In a nutshell, republicans will tell you privately that, as Mr. Root indicated, the treaty should be and will be ratified. This means the league of nations included. But with respect to the obligations and responsibilities of the United States as a signatory to the peace treaty and covenant, the republicans hope to secure limitations. How successful they will be depends to some extent on the willingness of the other powers to accept the reservations to be made by the American senate. Republican senators insist that the United States can prevail upon Great Britain and France to eliminate article 10 of the covenant, which would oblige America to guarantee the boundaries of the present war and the territorial integrity of the powers signatory to the treaty and covenant. The best result would be to secure the powers themselves. One republican senator told me today that he believed an expression would be forthcoming or officially sought by senate ratification. The other is, regarding the other powers would object to the elimination of article 10 or in lieu of that its limitation for a period of five years. Thus the senate would at least become a sort of party to the peace negotiations themselves though its action would not be inconsistent with precedent for on many occasions does the executive department of our government transmit to a foreign country the views of the senate on a completed treaty, in endeavor to bring about ratification.

Can't Shirk Responsibilities. The senate, indeed, would want to know what the European powers would accept with respect to article 10 before taking final and decisive action on the ratifying resolution. Conceivably if the European governments argue that America cannot shirk her obligations and that she is in duty bound to help preserve the status quo in Europe, especially against the Germans, the argument over the retention of article 10 will become very acute. If the senators insisted they might throw the whole treaty and covenant back into the peace conference. But what is most likely in such a contingency as a simple reservation by the United States senate to the ratifying resolution, peace treaty or covenant shall in any way be construed as amending the constitution of the United States with respect to the rights of congress to authorize the use of our military and naval forces. This would mean that congress would have the right to say whether the United States would contribute naval or military force to guarantee the European boundaries or the territorial integrity of nations in other parts of the globe. Action by the executive branch of the government in suspending commercial relations and imposing economic boycotts or resalient powers might in some cases be sufficient to deter a nation from practicing aggression or menacing the peace of neighboring countries.

Won't Lose Hard-Won Victory. In the end, the reservations and limitations upon the peace treaty and covenant will be thrashed out and decided before the ratifying resolution itself comes to a vote. But that there is to be a league of nations to make Germany keep her promises and to enforce the terms of the treaty, is the whole controversy today centers about the extent and character of the limitations on American action and responsibility. For there is to remain indefinitely a league of victors, closely associated, so that the peace which has been obtained after such painful sacrifices will not be lost as soon as demobilization is completed, but kept by potential force.

SEVEREST TASK FOR ENTENTE TO BE JOINT ACTION TO FINANCE NEW GOVERNMENTS WHICH TREATY SETS UP.

WILSON SENDS MARINES Precedent for Use of U. S. Troops in Area Holding Plebiscites.

Paris, June 27.—(By Telegraph From New York World, Copyrighted.)—(Delayed).—As soon as the peace treaty is signed, the most severe task for the allies will be their joint action to finance the new governments which the treaty sets up, as well as to arrange to handle the vast German obligation, which must be reduced to a liquid form at once if some of the allied governments are not to go to smash. Dr. Von Haimhausen, who being accredited to a negotiator, naturally is eager to begin work, sent a note to the president of the peace conference this morning asking when discussions relative to the details of administering the occupied German territory would begin. Being Completely Germanized. Germany's interim plenipotentiary was informed that there would be no discussion, inasmuch as the matter is fully covered by the details accompanying the treaty. Highly disquieting reports have been brought to Paris this evening by the special mission to the Baltic states headed by Col. Warwick Greene. The new border countries are declared to be in the way of being completely Germanized, due to the neglect practiced by the conference, which saw them wallowing through bolshevism without an effort to save them. The report made was a secret one, and no member of the mission was willing to discuss the situation. But it can be said that the allied powers have been left no choice but to look to Germany for support and encouragement. Unless immediate and energetic steps are taken, German penetration will be complete and the German dream of progressing eastward will be well started. As to the Russian Muddle. The whole business of peace with the Russian muddle, which if he be true to his word, Wilson said, presented the acid test of statesmanship, shows bankruptcy of vision and of plan. Russia is a subject to which the polite of Paris do not refer, because of its unfulfilled promise or even effort. The Kolchak support was the worst of makeshifts and had the effect of alienating many liberal elements, bitterly opposed to bolshevism, but equally opposed to Kolchak. President Wilson, late last night authorized the dispatch of 500 marines to Schleswig to act as a guard against bolshevism, and provided for in the treaty to continue its occupation until the plebiscite is taken. This must be completed within ten weeks after the signing of the treaty. High importance is attached to the president's action, since it may be a precedent for the use of our forces in many other European countries where plebiscites are called for. In any event the step shows how far America is committed to the settlement of the general affairs of Europe.

Paris Strikes Interfere. Strikes in Paris are likely to interfere seriously in recording the terms of the peace treaty. Foreign telegraphers are dissatisfied with the government, which promised them an increase of wages, but never gave it. After a hurried meeting last night they decided to go on strike. Work almost ceased at the French central bureau. No decision has been reached as to what will happen to press messages describing the ceremony at Versailles on Saturday. The only step so far taken is that the strikers who thereby practically reinstated censorship on the cables, decided to appoint a commission to report on what arrangements must follow and how much Germany must pay for the ships.

HUNS SIGN ALLIED TERMS FOR CLOSING WORLD WAR. (Continued From First Page.) the cord of troops, cheering madly. The three statesmen were swept along by the surging throngs. Many soldiers broke ranks and joined in the demonstration, while guns boomed and low-flying airplanes seemed to fill the air. The German delegates left the hall first, the allied representatives remaining in their seats. Those who had assembled in the hall then went to the terrace to see the fountains playing. Statesmen Photographed. Premiers Clemenceau and Lloyd George and President Wilson were photographed together on the terrace. After the demonstration the three allied leaders left Versailles in the same automobile, the crowds following and cheering. The Chinese plenipotentiaries did not sign and were not present. They have written to the president of the conference stating that they would not be present and that they are awaiting instructions from their government. Arrived by Automobile. Versailles, June 28.—(A. P.).—Dr. Hermann Mueller, German minister for foreign affairs, and Dr. Johannes Bell, minister of colonies, who were named by the German government as plenipotentiaries to sign the treaty of peace here this afternoon, arrived early today by automobile from St. Cyr. Instead of taking the belt line railroad, as did the German delegates who came here to receive the terms of the peace on May 7, the credentials of Dr. Hermann Mueller and Dr. Johannes Bell, German plenipotentiaries sent here to sign the treaty of peace, were approved this morning.

PEACE TREATY SIGNED ON FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF SARAJEVO MURDER

Signatures to the German peace treaty were affixed on Saturday, June 28, the fifth anniversary of the assassination of the Austrian Archduke Francis Ferdinand and wife, the Archduchess of Hohenburg, which took place at Sarajevo, the Austrian capital of Bosnia. Austria charged that "men in close connection with the Serbian government" procured this crime. Serbia accepted a demand for an abject apology with some slight modifications. Germany backed Austria in its insistence incompatible Serbian integrity. Russia protested, Germany and Austria refused the plan of arbitration. Saturday, June 28, is the fifth anniversary of the war's real beginning.

WILL COMMIT SUICIDE RATHER THAN BE TRIED

EX-CROWN PRINCE SPEAKS FOR FATHER.

Frederick Wilhelm Announces His Purpose of Going Back to Germany. London, June 28.—The Kaiser will kill himself rather than submit to the indignity of trial by his enemies, according to his son, the ex-crown prince, in an interview with the Daily Express correspondent at Wieringen. The prince made this declaration after a conference with his father which he had held in Berlin. He is in the castle where the ex-kaiser is interned that he had gone, and not to Germany, the crown prince said. He seemed to enjoy the excitement caused by his temporary absence from the island. "The Kaiser will never submit to trial. He will die first," declared Frederick Wilhelm, well known here. "I am going to Germany myself as soon as peace is formally declared. I will go to Silesia." The former crown prince refused to discuss the war. He declared, however, that East Prussians and Silesians will never accept Polish rule. Great trouble is ahead for the league of nations, he thought. "I was visiting my father when it was reported I was in Germany," he said in conclusion.

BIG SHORTAGE OF PEACH CROP

Late Frosts and Hail Take Heavy Toll in Local Orchards.

25 PER CENT. YIELD

Estimate Out From 230 to Only 52 Cars—Lansing Heavy Sufferer.

Late frosts and hail storms have taken a heavy toll in the peach and apple orchards of the Chattanooga district, which embraces all the territory between Hartman, Ooltewah, Lansing, Spring City, Sale Creek and intermediate points. Included in the district is one of the largest peach orchards in the south, located at Lansing. It is estimated that the late frost cost the orchard owners at Lansing alone approximately $200,000 in crop loss. The estimated crop was 100 cars. It is declared that the producers will do well to get ten cars from their vast orchards. Peach production for this season will be smaller than in many of the previous years, production point out. No one realized the vast damage which had been done the peach crops of the Chattanooga district until only a short time ago. Early in the season it was feared that the frost had blighted the crops, but it later developed that the tender young fruit was apparently uninjured and the prediction was for a bumper crop. Within the last week or so, however, the growing fruit began to fall from the branches. Some orchards are left stripped.

According to estimates compiled by the Southern railway, the normal peach crop for the district should be about 230 cars. Late estimates point out that the crop has been cut to a fourth and that the orchards will produce but more than fifty-two cars of peaches this year. The young orchards at Lansing should yield 100 cars, but this year not more than ten will be produced, as before stated. The early estimate of sixty cars had been cut by hail to only thirty for Hartman. It is extremely doubtful if the Spring City orchards, which usually bear about twenty cars, will produce a single shipment. The Sale Creek crop has been cut from twenty-five to ten cars. Other smaller shipments produce on an average of twenty-five cars. This year only two cars are anticipated.

The outlook would point to a shortage of peaches and extremely high prices this year. At this time, however, it is very hard to forecast prices, since the reports from all other peach growing centers are not available. The Georgia crop is reported to be large and in excellent shape. Shipments from other sections if the crops are large, may keep the shortage from being felt acutely in the northern markets, where the local crop is sent.
