The Times!

Much is said about the prospect of Peace. We think it our duty to say that it is wrong to deceive our soldiers in the field, and people at home, with such an idea. The former will be negligent and inattentive to the drill and necessary importance of being vigilant at all times, as though they expected the foe any moment, and the latter would become lukewarm in the cause, in providing for the wants of the soldier.

"The cry is Peace! Peace! but I tell you there is no Peace." What means this clank of arms on Tullahoma's Plains?

We venture to predict a change of programme, which will surprise our many readers—but mark the prediction. Rosecrans will change his base of operations. The war is over in Virginia, the "on to Richmond" is no longer the cry. A garrison will be left upon the Potomac, and Hooker will divide his army between Rosecrans and Grant. In that event Lee will have to leave a garrison upon his side of the Potomac, and divide his army between Bragg and Pemberton, and the theater of action will be removed to the banks of the Mississippi and border of the Western States.

Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones, says one who ought to know something about human nature. Therefore we would advise Union sympathisers to be very particular how they throw out their insinuations relative to a reunion of the Northern States with the Southern ditto. We have our eyes resting upon some who yet cling to the sandy rope of reunionism, and unless they keep cool something will be divulged that will be very unpleasant to them. We had rather be a dog and bay at the noon, a toad and feed upon the vapors of a dungeon, than a Tory, for we look upon any one who favors a reconstruction or reunion as being no less than a vile and unmitigated Abolitionist and Tory.—The true Southern feeling has approximated to that point,—has so redeemed itself from evil associations, that a man claiming to be a citizen of the Confederacy must not give the least "aid and comfort" to a foe that disregards all law, and tramples under foot the great principles of right and justice.

Away with such dark and impious characters, who fulminate their wicked designs and blacken the fair escutcheon of our nation's glory. Down with the traitors—let their names be handed down to posterity as being classified with those hirelings of the revolution who deigned to make war upon the teachings of a Washington.

Southern Literary Messenger.—The January No. of this most superb work is upon our table, the contents of which are highly interesting. This magazine should be liberally sustained by the people of the Confederate States, as it touches upon every subject of deep import, whilst its miscellaneous reading is from the most talented correspondents. Terms of the Messenger, $3 per annum, in advance. Address Macfarlane & Fergusson, Proprietors, Richmond, Va.

Northern News.

The Cincinnati Gazette, a vile abolition sheet, invites the outlawry of all the men in the North—puts the democratic party upon a par with traitors who are to be dealt with by the laws of war just as the Southern rebels are dealt with—"that is," says the Enquirer, "shot or imprisoned." The Enquirer says the Gazette means this though it does not say it. The Eaton (Ohio) Register is bolder than the Gazette. It says, under date of January 15th:

The aid of the slaves must be welcomed, and they must be incited to deeds of daring by the promise of protected liberty when they have gained it, thus sparing the lives of thousands of our precious sons and brothers. Not only this, but an eye must be held on traitors in the North. Let them be held with a firm, unsparring hand; let them call at once upon their own heads any violence which they may seek to palliate or initiate. Let no traitor be tolerated any-where. The tight rein must not slacken, but grow tighter. If a man speaks treason let him be hung or banished South to his friends. Let every reptile who dares to vindicate the South, or decry the North, be at once put down. It is no time now to mince matters. Traitors should be looked upon and treated as traitors. Nothing no right but that of death, it should be certain and speedy. And wherever we have officers, either civil or military, who feel tender toward rebels, they should step aside at once for men of purpose.

Now is the hour for steady purpose and determined, uncompromising men. Let the President, commencing with his Cabinet, ferret out every man who falls below this terrible earnestness for the success of our cause. Is it Seward or Halleck, still anxious to defeat the rebels by overawing them with our monster equipments, let them be dismissed for men who realize that this war is for the existence of freedom and free institutions, and must be pressed with all the vigor that so great a prize demands. Is it Seymour who would deaden the power of the Government by placing New York in opposition to its necessary action, let him be taught by severe example where he must stand. Is it such miserable distributions on men, such poor apologies for Liberty as Cox, Vallandigham and Olds, let them be put at once where they can do no harm. If their death be necessary, let it be, as they weigh nothing except when balanced against the cause of the country. Let the President feel that he is acting for freedom throughout a thousand ages to come, and act with that unconcern for men that such a thought should inspire.

The Cincinnati Enquirer comments as follows on the above:

Now, all that we choose to say at this time in reply to these threats of murdering Democrats for differing with the Abolitionists in opinion, is that if the latter believe they can gain by that sort of work, they may commence as soon as they please! It will be a sorry day for them, a day they will not be likely to forget. Those who attempt to crush out the Democratic party at the North by force of arms—those who seek to prevent its voting or influence voting by talking and writing—those who call it "treason" to constitutionally oppose the Administration, will have a contract on their hands considerably larger than they can accomplish!

THE CURRENCY.

In regard to the currency the Enquirer says:

Should the issue of paper money increase as rapidly for the next six months as it has during the past twelve, we may see a return of the time spoken of by old Dr. Witherspoon, one of the signers of the Declaration, "when creditors were seen running away from their debtors, and debtors pursuing them in triumph, and paying them without mercy."

A PROBLEM.

A correspondent in the Enquirer, in answer to a problem as to the time the rebellion will be crushed, says:

In answer to your "Arithmetical Problem," after making all the calculations, I find the "time" will be the "Day of Judgment;" but, as that will be a very busy day, it must be deferred till the day after. "The number of lives," the whole of the fighting men of the North; and require all the greenbacks that can be manufactured by Chase & Co. until that great day. This if you think proper, you may publish. X. Y. Z.

The Southern Illustrated News.—The reception of the last number of this weekly was a treat to us. This new feature in paperdom in the Southern Confederacy is fulfilling the just expectations of its most sanguine supporters, and we predict for it a brilliant career. We cannot speak in too high terms of this able journal. It is now on its "first legs," but the day will come up in its history when it will be read by every civilized nation. We wish the enterprising editors and publishers unbounded success. Address Ayers & Wade, Richmond, Va.

Good News!—Andrew Johnson Deserted!—We learn from the most reliable authority that the captain of Andrew Johnson's body guard deserted a few days ago, and is now with the Southern Confederacy in her glorious and onward move for independence! The captain acted wisely by turning his back upon such a demon as Andy.

No Paper Printed on Monday.—For the information of many who are not aware of the fact, we would state that the Bulletin is printed every day except Monday.

Northern correspondents are more abusive in their letters of Abe Lincoln than Southern journals. Poor old Abe!
