WEEKLY HERALD.
CLEVELAND, TENN.

The Senate, in executive session Thursday, confirmed the nomination of Stanley Matthews as Associate Justice on the Supreme Bench of the United States by a vote of 22 to 21.

The Georgia Press Association at Rome the other day passed a resolution requiring each member to send his paper to the State Lunatic Asylum for a year, free of charge, for the benefit of the unfortunate inmates.

Who blames the Indian for not wanting a railroad run through his reservation? He has no corner lots or town sites for sale. It ruins his hunting ground and interferes with his rights and comfort. If we had been a Cherokee we would have done just as they did—make the surveyors get up and dust.

Probably nothing that has ever happened in the political world has caused such a sensation over the country as the unlooked for resignations of Senators Conkling and Platt, of New York. It is generally conceded however that both Senators will be endorsed by their State and returned to the Senate. The breach between the President and Conkling's friends widens, and there is no telling where it will stop. Such a state of affairs is very damaging to the Republican party in the empire State of the Union.

We learn from the correspondents that the Post office Department has a proposition under consideration for a new stamp to "expedite" the delivery of letters in cities where the free delivery system is in operation. The proposed stamp, to cost five cents, will, when placed upon a letter, send it within a few minutes after its reception at the post office to its destinatination by a special carrier, without waiting for regular carrier trips. It is thought that such stamps would be well received by the public. They will be known as "instant delivery stamps."

The Springfild Republican predicts that Postmaster-General James' real trouble will begin when Congress meets. It adds: "Every route he has discontinued or on which he has decreased service and pay means money to some Congressman's constituent. All over the South there are steamboat lines—whose profits have been killed by the railroads—dependent on a star route contract for their existence. These lines are a convemence to the locality, a very great convenience to the men who own them, and southwestern communities are extremely apt to guage a member's success by the number of routes he secures for his district—just as a Northern constituency thinks a congressman is not worth much who does not see that the local manufacture is taken care of in the tariff."

New York Star: "The French say that the English have many meats, but only one sauce. The French have many sauces, but only one meat. That is to say, all their meats taste the same, though the sauces vary. French cookery is nothing if not spicy and greasy. It is not so greasy as the Spanish; but it is too much so for a pure taste. A good American cook allows each meat and fish and vegetable to retain its own flavor; a French cook is taught to mingle flavors in order to obtain an unnatural result. The foundation of French cookery is the stock pot, into which are thrown all sorts of meat, the scraps and bones of every dish; and from this compound come French soups and sauces. Every American soup is as distinct as a flower. The French drown the flavor of fish in spiced sauces. In America the fish taste as nature intended them. A Frenchman prides himself upon cooking meats so that you will not know what you are eating. An American prides himself upon the fact that you can make as to what you are eating, nor as to its excellence."

The New York Mail gives a reminder: "Once three of the ablest Senators we ever had—Webster, Clay and Calhoun—set out to destroy a President. At the end of the prolonged struggle the "triumvirate" gained considerable experience, but Andrew Jackson won the fight and became the strongest President with the people that had been known. Mr. Conkling is neither a Webster, a Clay nor a Calhoun.'

U. S. S.

SENATORS PLATT AND CONKLING RESIGN.

The Fight Over Robertson's Confirmation the Cause.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Vice President laid before the Senate the following communication:

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
May 16th, 1881.

"To the Hon. C. A. Arthur, Vice President.

"SIR: Will you please announce to the Senate that my resignation, as Senator of the United States from the State of New York, has been forwarded to the governor of the State?

"I have the honor to be, with great respect, your obedient servent, (Signed) ROSCOE CONKLING."

This communication was received with great sensation, which was heightened when the Vice President laid the following before the Senate:

"SENATE CHAMBER, May 16, 1881

"To the Hon. C. A. Arthur, Vice President:

"Sir—I have forwarded to the governor of the State of New York my resignation as Senator of the United States for the State of New York. Will you please announce the fact to the Senate?

"With great respect, your obedient servant,

(Signed) T. C. PLATT."

A hum of astonishment followed the reading of the communication, and Mr. Hill, of Georgia, suggested (sotto voce) that this would be a good time to elect the officers of the Senate.

Mr. Burnside, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, reported back favorably from that committee, the resolution declaring the consent of the United States Government to be a condition precedent to the construction of ship canals or other ways for the transportation of sea-going vessels across the Isthmus connecting North and South America, and also to the rules and regulations under which othnations shall participate in the use of such canals or other ways. Mr. Burnside gave notice that he would call it up to-morrow.

Mr. Dawes moved to go into executive session.

Mr. Cockrell—I thought you wanted to consider the other resolution.

Mr. Dawes—I had no idea but that the Senator would like to go on with it. It is in accordance with a disposition which has been shown from the beginning.

Mr. Hill, of Georgia—The Senator said that the republic could be subverted if the resolution was not acted upon.

Mr. Dawes—But the Senator would never be convinced until he happened to have a majority.

Mr. Hill—Oh! we wont insist upon having it considered.

Mr. Dawes—An accident is an eye opener to the Senate.

Mr. Hill turned around and suggested to Mr. Dawes, of Illinois, that there was nothing to prevent the Senate from adjourning this week. The Senate then, at 12:30 p. m., went into executive session.

When the doors were reopened at 1:40 p. m., the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

The Republican caucus this afternoon, with only four dissenting votes, decided to bring the Robertson case before the Senate for action forthwith, and to proceed an adjournment of the Senate sine die this week.

The Star this evening says: When the news of the resignation of Senators Conkling amd Platt reached the Treasury Department to-day, great excitement ensued and officials and subordinates alike were soon gathered in groups throughout the buildings discussing the situation and its probable effect. The theory which has been advanced, that the Senators who resigned are quite confident of being returned by the New York legislature is very generally accepted. But in some quarters it is maintained that on account of the legislature having heretofore endorsed the nomination of Robertson to be collector of the port of New York, it cannot consistently endorse the action of the two Senators in opposing it. This course, however, it is conceded by prominent Republicans, can easily be brought about. President Garfield was apprised of the contemplated resignations this morning, and remarked to a treasury official, shortly before 12 o'clock, that he expected the news to arrive momentarily.

The resignation of the two Senators are the topics of conversation at the hotels and other public places, and groups of men may be seen on the street corners discussing the affair in an excited manner.

The Star also publishes the following views of Senators concerning the sensation: One Republican Senator said: They will both be re-elected by the New York legislature. Another said that, while he had not been informed of this step, his opinion was that it was simply an appeal to the New York legislature, now in session, by Messrs. Conkling and Platt for an endorsement of the position they had taken on the Robertson nomination. A warm friend of Senator Conkling said: It means that Conkling and Platt will not be insulted and outraged by this administration. They have known from the first that the nomination of Robertson was Blaine's declaration of war against the ruling element of the Republican party in New York. They have known that Robertson was selected to crush Conkling and destroy his influence if possible. They had done everything they could to prevent this bitter war in the Republican party. They showed that they had the Republican party of New York behind them. That only a small ring of disorganizers and bolters supported Robertson. But the President refused to listen to any appeals for peace and harmony. Conkling and Platt then appealed to Republican Senators to unite with them in saving the Republican party in New York from disorganization, to help them to save the State in the coming election, but Republican Senators, too many of them, preferred to stick to the tide which controls the patronage, and Mr. Conkling determined that he would not sit in the Senate and see such an outrage put upon the party he has so ably organized and brilliantly led in New York. Mr. Platt agreed with him, and they have resigned. Yes, no doubt they will appeal to their party for the approval or disapproval of their course, and any man who knows anything about the Republican party of New York will tell you that Conkling and Platt will be endorsed with a vim. Some of the Republican Senators said they were too much surprised to express any opinion on the subject. The Democratic Senators were delighted at the action of the New York Senators. They made no effort to conceal their gratification. Some of them said it would widen the breach in the Republican party. As to the action of the Democratic side, a Star reporter enquired of the Senators who control that side: They will go right ahead with the executive business, and will adjourn as soon as the President has nothing more for them to do. Rumors of a reorganization of the committees were pronounced as groundless and absurb by the Democrats. Their leaders state that nothing of the kind will be thought of; that they will not attempt to call up the resolution to elect the Senate officers for the purpose of laying it on the table; that they will not do anything with it unless the Republicans should bring it up. This, it can be authoritatively stated, the Republicans will not do.

The almost universal opinion, as far as expressed, was that Conkling and Platt will both go before the legislature for re-election; that they will regard their re-election as a rebuke to the Administration as well as an approval of the course they have taken. Some of the Democrats spoke of this action as a clap-trap saving, that Messrs. Conkling and Platt know, in advance, precisely how the legislature stands, just how many votes they can get, and that they are in no danger of losing their seats. Those who are disposed to criticise to any extent hold that the indorsement Messrs. Conkling and Platt will get will not count for much, because they are assured of the result. That if they would wait and go before the people, that course would be more commendatory. After the Senate had adjourned an admirer of Mr. Conkling expressed the belief that he will not ask his re-election from the legislature, but will go before the people next fall and make a fight to elect the legislature, which will re-elect him.

It is understood at the Post-office Department that the President and Postmaster-Geneal have decided, since Mr. Grier declined to accept the position of third assistant postmaster-general not to make the contemplated charges in the offices of third assistant postmaster-general and assistant attorney-general for the Post-office Department. The nomination of General Hazen, to be assistant attorney-general for the department, will, it is understood be withdrawn, and he will remain in his present position. Judge Freeman, whose resignation as assistant attorney-general for the department has been tendered, but not yet accepted by the Postmaster-General, will, it is stated, remain at the head of the law office of the department.

In an after-dinner speech given by the New York chamber of commerce Tuesday evening, Postmaster-General James said:

Speaking of the investigations now in progress in the Postoffice Department, by the direction of the President, let me say that they are aimed at a system, and not at men; but if this inquiry should disclose the fact that any persons have been guilty of corruption and fraud, they will be handed over to the department of justice, presided over by the interpid, able and energetic Attorney-General, Wayne MacVeagh.

Second. The country may be assured that no mail service necessary to the welfare of any community shall be abolished or curtailed, while all unnecessary and wasteful expenditure shall be relentlessly cut off. In other words it is proposed that the postal service shall be conducted and disturbed with strict regard to actual public sequirements, and not with a view to serving private interests. I will only add, in further reference to this subject, that it is the intention of the President, as embodied in his explicit instructions to myself and the Attorney-General, to pursue this investigation until there are no more facts connected with it to be ascertained.

TENNESSEE CROPS.

A Synopsis of Commissioner Hawkins' Monthly Report.

Nashville American; The crop report of Commioner A. W. Hawkins, of the Bureau of Agriculture, Statistics and Mines, for April, will show that there is a decrease in the acreage of tobacco of nearly 10 per cent. Cotton has apparently increased but not really. This is caused by the fact that in lower East Tennessee four or five counties, last year, tried cotton as a money crop, still holding on to their grains and grasses, and succeeded so well that the area has this year been increased two, three and four fold. Thus the percentage in those counties makes an apparent increase all over the State, while their actual acreage is insignificant in comparison with that of the regular cotton counties. The acreage of wheat has diminished owing to the severe weather last fall preventing preparation of the ground and sowing. Its condition, however, is very good, and there is prospect of a good crop. The acreage of clover and the grasses has largely increased, and the condition of the crops far above the average. Sorghum acreage has considerably decressed. In the fruits there is good prospect for a large apple crop, and there are many sections where the peaches are not at all hurt.

The severe winter all over the State has caused the general condition of stock to be poor, especially in this the case with milch cows and other cattle which are allowed to go at large, exposed to the weather. The average of damage from want of shelter for this stock may safely put at 24 per cent. of its value, and it will be far in the summer before the standard of average quality of last fall is reached. There is a lack of work oxen. Hogs are reported as scarce, on account of the large sales last fall and the winter killing a large number of last fall's pigs.

"I Don't want that Stuff,"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.—Standard.

VICTIMS OF VANITY.

Fatal effect of the Use of Poisonous Cosmetics.

New York special to the Cincinnati Commercial.

Miss Fannie J. Blanchard, aged 24, a native of Buffalo, died Tuesday, on West Fifteenth street, from lead poisoning, the effect of cosmetics containing white lead. A diagnosis of the case was made by Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, who pronounced the cause of death lead poisoning. While unwilling to talk to a Tribune reporter about any case that involved his relation as a physician to a patient, he stated his views on the dangers of the use of cosmetics.

"Lead poisoning," he said "occurs more frequently than is generally thought. The public rarely hears of such cases. It is only once in a while that cases like that of Miss Blanchard attracts the attention of the public outside of the medical profession. The use of any kind of cosmetics, even if not habitually indulged in, is attended with danger. There are very few, if any, that do not contain white lead. This poison is used in the manufacture of face powders, face washes and hair dies. A very distressing case came under my notice a few days ago in the wife of a governor of one of the Western States. She had been in the habit of using a certain hair dye—I forget the name at present—which contained white lead in large proportions. She became hopeless insane, and death ensued finally. Another case was that of a young lady who used a so-called "bloom of youth." In this case paralysis preceded death.

"Ladies using cosmetics cannot be warned enough of the danger which they incur by their use. They are always injurious, and they are rarely used with impunity."

Abbeville Medium: "Prohibitory laws are not what we want; temperance organizations will not meet the end desired; 'dry' elections will not answer the purpose. Reform must begin elsewhere, if we desire effectually to remove this curse from the land. We may be wrong, but it is our firm conviction that unless public sentiment be directed against this liquor drinking; unless it is frowned down by our leaders, both in Church and State; unless the agitators in this temperance question and those to whom the great masses of the people look up, and follow as leaders; unless these, we say, preach not only by precept, but by example, all the prohibitory laws that forty Legislatures could pass would be of no avail."

If you have a cough or cold, or disease of the throat and lungs, use Coussen's Honey of Tar, the best and purest compound ever offered the public. There are a few worthless imitations of this valuable remedy, but it has no rival as a ready relief for disease of the Throat and lungs, bad colds, and severe cough of long standing. Use Coussen's Honey of Tar and get rid of your cough or hoarseness and difficulty of breathing. Price 50 cents.

A Georgia man is sued by his niece for breach of promise of marriage. He urges their blood relationship as evidence against the probability that he would offer to make her his wife. She replies that the proposed union was at first repugnant to her, but, as he was rich and persistent, she finally consented. She wants $25,000 damages.

CATARRH
CATARRH is the forerunner of Consumption, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Diseases, Nervous Debility and Premature Death.
CATARRH may manifest itself by a running or discharge from the front or back portion of the nose, by hawking, raising of mucus and tickling of the throat, loss of voice, loss of smell, loss of taste, partial or complete deafness, the formation of scabs in the throat and nose, bad smell of the breath and nose, RINGING in the ears, dizziness, weak, faint feelings, costiveness, irregular appetite, and a sense of restless, nervous weakness, with more or less loss of memory. These symptoms may all exist, or only a part of them, in any one case.
CATARRH is produced by specific GERMS or PARASITES lodging on the parts when debilitated by cold or other causes. Catarrh of the Stomach, Bowels, Liver, Bladder, Kidneys and Womb is also very common, producing Biliousness, DYSPEPSIA CONSTIPATION, or Diarrhœa, BLADDER and KIDNEY Affections, WOMB Disease, Leucorrhœa, CANCER, and other fatal maladies. When it locates in the throat and lungs it produces BRONCHITIS AND CONSUMPTION. In all cases the parasites exist in the BLOOD, and produce every conceivable form of blood poisoning. Some forms of the Catarrh germs produce ASTHMA, HAY FEVER, Neuralgia and violent fits of coughing; while others cause Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pleurisy, Erysipelas, Skin Diseases, Falling of the Hair and Premature Grayness.
PROF. PAINE has discovered a VAPOR that as positively cures and kills these parasites as water extinguishes fire—it is called the CATARRH VAPOR. He has a pill called the LIVER RENOVATOR, which kills all the disease in the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, cures Constipation, and never leaves you costive. He has a tea called PROF. PAINE'S TONIC TEA, that never fails to cure all Female Diseases and Dyspepsia. He has a pill called S. P. PILLS, that cures all forms of Nervous Debility; a NERVE TONIC SYRUP, that makes you sleep and feel happy; ANTISEPTIC POWDERS, that cure all forms of AGUES, FEVERS, NEURALGIAS and RHEUMATISM. He has an ANTIDOTE TO ACUTE DISEASE, that cures all Fevers and Lung Affections. His great work on the PRACTICE OF MEDICINE, 1,000 pages, gives a full account of his great discoveries; his DOMESTIC PRACTICE, 700 pages, tells how all people can doctor themselves. He sends his PEABODY RECORD, published monthly, free. ALL CONSULTATIONS FREE. Without boasting or egotism we assure the public that Prof. Paine, by means of his new discoveries, immense experience and eminent learning, can diagnose and treat disease with more certainty, and greater success, than any other physician now living. By sending a little scraping of fur from your tongue, on a small piece of white paper, he can describe disease with as much certainty as though the patient was present; this he does by means of his great microscope—the most powerful one in the world. The germs lodge on the tongue, and it is by discovering these germs that he tells the disease. All those afflicted and wishing to live should consult him either in person or by letter—which they can do without money and without price—at his office, PEABODY HOTEL, 250 SOUTH NINTH STREET, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
