BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

On Saturday, May 30, about 60 happy, jolly children and young people, with the officers and teachers of the Baptist Sunday School boarded hay wagons buggies, and surreys and hied them away to the country for what they are determined from now on to be their annual outing. The particular point of their destination was the beautiful grove and the spring which flows out from under the mountain at the foot of Pilot Knob. A more ideal place scarcely be found for a Sunday School outing than Knob Spring. Nature has devoted hundreds and thousands of years to the making of this ideal spot. Here the giant oak towers, through whose leafy boughs the summer's heat cannot penetrate. The spring is large enough to supply a whole city, and its water is unsurpassed. Giant boulders, carved by the centuries, lend majesty to the scene. Upon one of these was spread the bountiful repast prepared by the ladies of the Baptist Church and the young ladies of the Sunday school. No better description could be given perhaps, than to say, if there were those present who were fond of any particular menu above another, they certainly had no cause to complain, since in the dinner served there were the makings of a dozen courses, and each picnicer had the privilege of serving the courses (to himself) to his own taste.

Lemons, sugar, and ice were taken to add an artificial touch to the drink that nature furnished. The "artificial touch" was the best that could be done, however, since the water of Knob Spring can scarcely be improved upon.

In the afternoon pictures of the school were made, after which sixty tired and happy picnicers embarked upon the hay wagons, etc. again for Cookeville and their respective homes.

It has been but a little over a year since the Baptist Sunday School was organized with twenty-five enrolled. During the year considerably above a hundred have been enrolled, and the present attendance ranges from fifty to seventy-five. In spite of losses on account of the moving away of some of its best workers, the Baptist Sunday school is steadily growing in numbers, in interest, and in the loyalty of its membership. The remarkable thing is the unity and spirit of fellowship that exists both in the Church and the Sunday School. In and through it all can be noted on the part of the entire membership an abiding faith in God, in his guiding power and in his desire to lead them and use them here in Cookeville.

A few of their valued members will be away during the summer vacation; but their promise is given to be back again at the opening of the city and County high schools in September. After their return a series of class events and receptions are planned and promised on the part of the officers of the school. These will doubtless be looked forward to with anticipations of pleasure.

In the meantime the Cookeville Baptist Sunday School is always glad to extend a hearty welcome to visitors, or receive new members. Are you a regular attendant at Sunday school? If not would you not like to join this happy, faithful band of workers at the Baptist Sunday School.

MISSIONARY INSTITUTE

There will be a missionary institute for the eastern part of the Lebanon District, held at the Algood Methodist Church, Tuesday, June 9. There will be morning, afternoon and night services. Dr. T. A. Kerly of Nashville and Prof. Peoples, will be the principle speakers. The following pastors will also be present and take part: Rev. J. F. Tinnon, Cookeville; Rev. Robt. Chenault, Monterey; Rev. Estes, Gainesboro; Rev. Taylor, Celina; Rev. J. O. Ensor, Livingston; Rev. Rochelle, Byrdstown; Rev. F. B. Cox, Algood; also Rev. J. T. Blackwood, Presiding Elder of the Lebanon District. This meeting is for the pastors, Sunday School Superintendents, teachers, and all officials of the church, and everyone in general. Pastors and congregations of other churches are cordially invited to be present. Let everybody come and make this a live and enthusiastic Missionary Institute. It will be profitable to all. The addresses will be well worth coming to hear, besides the general influence of the meeting. Be sure and come, Tuesday, June 9. Morning at 10:30; afternoon at 2:30, and 7:45 at night.

F. B. Cox.

HULL THE NOMINEE

On May 20 the Democratic Committee for the Fourth Congressional district of Tennessee met and declared Hon. Cordell Hull the nominee for Congress, no other candidate having filed any notice of entering the race. This order was in line with the rules adopted by the Committee on April 10, in session at Cookeville.

JAMES M. DOUGLASS

His many relatives and friends in this city were deeply shocked and grieved Sunday afternoon when a telegram was received announcing the death Saturday night in Los Angeles, Cal., of James M. Douglass.

He was a son of the late Jas. M. Douglass, one of the most prominent of the pioneer merchants and citizens of this city. He was born and reared in Cookeville, for several years was in business in Nashville, but located in Los Angeles about ten years ago. He was about forty years old and had never married. He was, from young manhood, engaged in the mercantile business. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Avo Douglass, of this city and two brothers and two sisters, J. R. Douglass of this city and C. A. Douglass of Memphis and Mrs. Kate Hinds of this city and Mrs. W. D. Sloan of Nashville and many other relatives in Cookeville. The remains will be brought to Cookeville for interment.

ANDREW G. MORGAN

Andrew G. Morgan was born Dec. 31, 1863. Son of Capt. J. M. and Mrs. Paulina Morgan of Jackson county. Married Miss Fanny Carnes, May 17, 1885. Died May 29, 1914. Survived by his wife, three children, Clarence Morgan of Fort Worth, Texas; Carl and Lella Morgan of Cookeville; father and mother and several brothers and sisters. He had been a member of the Christian Church since his youth. Mr. Morgan had traveled this territory for 17 years, never having worked as a salesman for any other house.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late residence, and was probably the most largely attended funeral ever held in Cookeville.

Andrew Morgan was an ideal citizen, a christian gentleman in the true sense. In his death we have suffered a distinct loss. Called from time to eternity in the prime of vigorous manhood he will be greatly missed by the entire community.

FRANK MAURY BIG SHOW

The above-named theatrical troupe entertained the people of Cookeville every night last week in a big tent on the city lot, Broad Street. Monday night they played The Turning Point; Tuesday, The Land of the Sky; Wednesday, Ishmael; Thursday The Man From the West; Friday, The Belle of Richmond, and Saturday night Jesse James. The plays were all well rendered. The leading woman and man were clever artists, and given splendid support by the other members of the company. The band was good and the orchestra all right. Mr. Maury and his people made many friends in Cookeville, who will be pleased to learn that the company will be here during fair week with an entire change of program.

Another good rain Thursday evening

Mt. View Lodge, No. 179, I. O. O. F. held a splendid meeting May 30, 1914, L. A. Copeland, N. G. in the chair. Quite a lot of routine business was transacted. Bro. Dank Garrison and J. H. York were reported as still improving slowly. No report at to Bro. D. C. Gossage's condition. Bro. Andrew Morgan was taken suddenly ill up about Monterey last Tuesday, was brought home and taken to Nashville and underwent an operation for appendicitis and died at 10 o'clock a. m. on the 29th of May. Suitable resolutions were adopted at this meeting. He was buried at Cookeville cemetery at 3 p. m. May 31st.

The 2nd degree was conferred upon one applicant. The 3rd degree will be given two brothers at our next meeting. The election of officers for the ensuing term occurs at our meeting June 6th, 1914.

The decoration and memorial services will take place at the Cookeville cemetery June 14, 1914, at 3 p. m. All that can should attend.

The following resolutions were adopted at the regular stated meeting of Mount View Lodge, No. 179, Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Cookeville Tennessee, on Saturday night, May 30, 1914, relative to the death of Bro. Andrew G. Morgan.

Whereas, death has made another sad invasion of our ranks, Bro. Andrew G. Morgan, for many years a member of our order and for the past nine years a member of this lodge having departed this life on May 29, 1914, at St. Thomas Hospital in Nashville;

Therefore, be it Resolved by Mount View Lodge No. 179, I. O. O. F., of Cookeville, Tenn., That we are deeply shocked and grieved on account of the death of our brother. He was a good man, whose life measured up to that high standard of citizenship which our order enjoins and this worthy heritage we shall ever treasure.

We extend to the grief-stricken family of our deceased brother our heartfelt sympathy.

Further, be it Resolved, That memorial services be conducted by this lodge at the grave of Bro Morgan on the afternoon of Sunday, June 14th.

OUR BILLY

Wm. A. Hensley, president of the Tennessee Travelers, and traveler for the Phillips-Trawick Co., Nashville, was a visitor in Nashville, early last week. Mr. Hensley is very enthusiastic over the coming convention of the Tennessee Travelers, which will be held at Lebanon on July 3 and 4.

"The Cookeville boys are going to 'cut up,'" said Mr. Hensley. "Several weeks ago, the Cookeville traveling men's organization began making preparations to send a large delegation to the convention, and we expect to make the fellows from other parts of the state sit up and take notice. We are negotiating for a special train, and if anybody happens to ask you, along about July 3, where the upper Cumberland travelers are, you can point Lebanon Way."

That Cookeville bunch is just about the liveliest set of fellows to be found this side of the north pole. And in the person of Bill Hensley they have a leader that can't be beat. Hensley demonstrated that to a queen's taste at the all-traveler's banquet in Nashville, last fall. Though the cannons roared and the roof fell in, Hensley kept his nerve and told 'em what he had to say. If there's another just like him, the Firing Line hasn't found him.—Tennessean and American.

Miss Meadows Entertains

Miss Lona Meadows gave a doll party in honor of little Miss Gladys Ligon of Double Springs who is visiting her, Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5. There were 13 little girls present, most of whom had their dolls, and a happy group they were as they played with their dolls. They played out in the yard until the rain when they went in and played several games in the house. Refreshments were served on the porch after which several songs were sung and five recitations were given by Misses Hattie Holloway, Mable Broshears, Gladys Ligon and Jessie Barnes, which were enjoyed so much. Miss Meadows was assisted by Misses Lois and Melva Wirt. Those present were little Misses Nona Webb, Vallie Carr, Vida Judd, Mable Broshears, Jessie Barnes, Lorton Slagle, Nannie Maxwell, Myrtle Maxwell, Imogene Maxwell, Etha Selby, Pearl McDonald, Birchie McDonald, and Amy Shipley.

To the Teachers of Putnam Co.

The institute for Putnam county teachers will be held at Cookeville beginning on July 6, and continuing two weeks.

The State Superintendent has agreed to furnish two teachers to assist in the work. These and local teachers will compose the faculty.

Every one who teaches in the county who does not attend a summer school will be required to attend this institute.

The next state and county examinations will be held on July 16 and 17.

Institute for colored teachers will begin at the same time and continue one week.

Respectfully,
J. M. HATFIELD,
County Supt.

REVIVAL AT ALGOOD

Rev. J. B. Kendall of Wilmore, Ky., will assist the pastor of the Methodist Church at Algood in a meeting commencing Friday night, June 12. Rev. Kendall is an evangelist of the Methodist Church, and comes very highly recommended as a revivalist, and a general all-around good preacher. The meeting will in a sense commence with the Missionary Institute, on Tuesday as the pastor will hold services from that time until Rev. Kendall arrives on Friday. The public is cordially invited to attend these evangelistic services and to help in saving souls. All denominations have a special invitation to come and assist.

We need the prayers and help of every good man and woman in this great effort.

Yours in the Master's work.
F. B. Cox.

BOOSTING PUTNAM COUNTY

One of the handsomest special booster editions that has ever found its way to the Firing Line's desk was that of the Putnam County Herald, published at Cookeville, Tenn. This issue of the Herald consisted of two sections of eight pages each and every page was brim full of live, interesting matter about Cookeville and Putnam county.

This special edition of the Herald is sure to be of great benefit to Putnam and surrounding counties, and especially to Cookeville. It will attract the attention of people all over the country, as copies of the average country weekly are known to travel great distances from home. It shows that the publishers of the Herald are wideawake and looking out for the best interests of their community, while the business and professional men of the city and county are ever ready to help boost along a good cause.—Tennessean and American.

The above item was misplaced, and is printed now to show our people how the great daily newspapers view an effort like that made by the Herald to keep our folks on the map.
