

The quarrel in regard to "Eros Trade," "Protection," and a "Tariff for Revenue Only," still goes on in the Democratic party, and in proportion as it waxes prominent above all other matters, in the same proportion are the chances lessened for Democratic success in the next Presidential election.

The trial of Hon. Phil. B. Thompson for killing Davis, the seducer of his wife, took place at Harrodsburg, Ky., and resulted in his acquittal. When the verdict of the jury was announced there was a shout, and men rushed forward to congratulate Mr. Thompson. During the confusion the voice of Mr. Thompson was heard saying, "Thank God, Kentucky's wives can now be protected."

We yield much of our space this week to two letters—one from Judge P. Turney and the other from Professor Gardner, the latter having been called forth by some personal allusions in the former. They both are the result of the "boosh" as to the removal of Mary Sharp College from our town, and we are satisfied that any ill feeling apparent will be dissipated upon a clear understanding of the matter in issue.

The Removal of Mary Sharp Collego.

JACKSON, TENN., May 7.—Dear Sir: I see by the newspapers of Nashville that some of the citizens of Nashville are proposing to remove Mary Sharp College from Winchester to Nashville. I do not believe that any considerable number of your business men will favor such a proposition for a moment. The town of Winchester and the county of Franklin do too much business and lay out too much money in Nashville for the people of the latter place to be willing to make such an issue, and thereby run the risk of estranging our business men from your market, and, besides this, I do not believe that the people of Nashville have concluded that Nashville is the State of Tennessee, and that the other towns and counties are tributaries to the growth and development of their city, at whatever cost and sacrifice such growth and development may be to such towns and counties.

I desire to notice the reasons set forth by the memorial for the removal:

First, that document says it has been represented "that owing to serious and vexatious litigation about the property at Winchester," etc., "the Faculty have come to the conclusion that the future prospects of the school, etc., demanded a removal." This statement naturally suggests the inquiry, What is that "serious and vexatious litigation?" It is simply this: Some time ago the school became indebted to Dr. Graves, its President, in a pretty considerable sum of money, and the question was, how should the debt be paid? Mr. Walmesley, a man of means and a member of the Board of Trustees, agreed to pay Dr. Graves a portion of his debt, and he and Dr. Graves agreed to take the management of the college, pay the teachers and appropriate the income of the college to the payment of their debts. This was settled upon and Mr. Walmesley paid Dr. Graves the amount stipulated for. This arrangement was to run, as I now remember, for the period of four years. The Trustees gave to Mr. Walmesley a deed to the property to take effect at the expiration of the four years if his and Dr. Graves' debts were not paid. Walmesley died after the expiration of the time. He had been guardian for his daughter, and as security had assigned to her the "mortgage" (so he terms it in the assignment.) After her death, the daughter, through her husband, demanded possession of the college property, which was refused, and suit was brought.

The history of the execution of the mortgage to Walmesley is this: I was directed by the Board of Trustees to prepare the deed and did so. The Board met and I had the deed ready. There was but one other lawyer present in the Board. My opinion was that the deed was, at the best, but a mortgage, a deed in trust. So thinking I called the other lawyer aside and told him what I thought of the deed, and that I did not want Mr. Walmesley to take it under the belief that he could at any time after maturity and non-payment of his debt enter and claim the property. My view of the case was fully concurred in by my brother attorney. We returned to the Board. The deed was read and I told Mr. Walmesley that the deed was only a mortgage, a deed in trust, and that if he accepted it and advanced the money, he could not, in default of payment, take possession of the property, but would have to resort to a court of chancery to enforce his mortgage, a deed of trust, by a sale of the property, to all which he replied he was willing to accept it as a deed of trust, and he did so accept it. Besides, Dr. Graves admits he has been paid in full, and the evidences by his receipts and the testimony of Mr. Walmesley has been over paid.

I was a member of the Board, and connected with the transaction. While I was a member of the Board the matters were submitted to Hon. A. S. Colyar and myself for an opinion. We both, unhesitatingly gave the opinion that there was nothing in the lawsuit for the college property, and so announced to the whole Board of Trustees and to several hundred persons at the closing exercises of an annual examination, Mr. Colyar voluntarily pledging to defend, without fee, which I suppose he is doing. I have given the substance of the facts as I remember them. If I have in anything mistaken the case the record in the Chancery Court at Winchester will correct me.

The suit is not to foreclose a mortgage, a deed of trust, but to recover the property in kind. It is not a suit against the college or its Trustees, but against the teachers, who were in occupation as teachers. The Trustees and corporation are not in any sense before the court by the bill, which it is said makes a "serious and vexatious litigation." It is simply an action of ejectment in the Chancery Court based upon a mortgage, a deed of trust, when the debt secured had been overpaid long before the commencement of the action. If I am right the facts make a "vexatious," but not a "serious litigation."

This is the "serious and vexatious litigation" alluded to. Mr. Colyar thought two years ago when the facts were fresh in his memory there was nothing in the case; I think so still. What changes may have occurred in Mr. Colyar's views I of course cannot undertake to say. I have certainly the right to refer to his public and most confident expression of opinion under the circumstances mentioned.

In looking over the names of the memorialists, I can point to at least one who will say that to be located in Nashville is not always a sure guarantee and protection against "serious and vexatious litigation." I think I can undertake that he would say that Nashville schools have not only "serious and vexatious litigation," but also litigation with bad results.

But, leaving all else aside, I ask by what authority may the Trustees remove the Mary Sharp from Winchester? Is it a portable institution to be picked up and carried away as Trustees, or any one else, may desire? I answer, not at all. The charter of the institution recognizes it as "established at Winchester." How then can Trustees, who hold a merely delegated authority to act for an institution "at Winchester," and not elsewhere, remove that institution to Nashville? The college is the creation of that charter. The Trustees are creatures of that charter. On these creatures grow above their creator, and change it? The laws of the State of Tennessee answer it. The powers of the Trustees are defined, and are "full power and authority to collect and receive all funds that have in any way been contributed or pledged for the establishment, enlargement, maintenance or benefit of said institution, or for any of its purposes, and to apply the same, and to give, grant, bargain, sell or otherwise dispose of all or any real, personal or mixed estate as to them may seem best for the interest of the institution; provided, that no portion of them shall be expended, vested, used or appropriated in other manner than in strict accordance with the will and direction of the donor, provided such will or direction is consistent with the constitution and laws of the State."

Notice the language. It refers alone to the "institution of learning established at Winchester."

The donations were all made with the express understanding and agreement that they were to be used for the benefit of the institution at Winchester. The grounds upon which the college buildings stand were bought and conveyed to the Trustees for the benefit of the school at Winchester. In that way everything that has been done for the promotion of "Mary Sharp College," "established at Winchester."

I will venture to suggest to persons disposed to enter into the project of removing "Mary Sharp College" to Nashville, or elsewhere, to study well its charter before investing much money. We have it established by law amongst us, and we propose to keep it. Before the memorialists or any others remove it they will learn something about "serious and vexatious litigation."

The Trustees may exercise the powers given them by the charter. They are restricted to such express power; they may exercise none other. There is no power given to remove the college from the place at which the law established it.

I will presume the Trustees will conscientiously discharge their duties, and apprehend that no man will for a moment after reading the charter think that the Trustees can or will remove the "Mary Sharp." But suppose they may conclude they can and will remove, there is still an interest behind that must be overcome. It is this: Many of the people of Winchester and Franklin county freely gave their money to build, support and maintain the college established at Winchester. Now when it shall transpire (if it can be possible) that the Trustees undertake to remove, then we will have the claims of the donors or their heirs asserted, the claimants relying upon the charter for the sustenance of their claims. I wonder if the memorialists will think these things do not prospect "a serious and vexatious litigation."

If Nashville has so many advantages and holds out so many inducements to and for the educator, why should it want to interfere with other localities? If it has what is claimed in the memorial why not establish its school and make its own reputation? With all that is claimed for it, with its "population of more than fifty thousand," it certainly is not driven to the necessity of attempting to rob a village of twelve or fifteen hundred people of its advantages.

We think we know our rights, and will try to maintain them even at the risk of "serious and vexatious litigation," and Nashville cannot get "Mary Sharp" without money and without price.

The second reason is that it was represented at the meeting at the Baptist church that the people at Winchester did not appreciate the Mary Sharp College. Such was the reported declaration of Prof. Gardner. This statement of Prof. Gardner is absolutely and unqualifiedly untrue. If, as he stated, he was authorized to say for the Faculty, it is only necessary to remind them that not as governors or advisers to and for only for the year, and if they desire to remove they will be free from their contract, and can remove if they desire. There will be no "serious and vexatious litigation" to interfere with them.

Speaking for myself, I would regretfully and sorrowfully see some members of the Faculty leave us. As to other some I would most cheerfully bid them an earnest, an honest "Fare thee well, and if forever, still forever fare thee well." I would do so knowing from a thirty three years' experience that their

A Perpetual Weather Table.

The following table was constructed by the celebrated Dr. Herschell upon a philosophical consideration of the attraction of the sun and moon. It is confirmed by the experience of many years' observation, and will suggest to the observer what kind of weather will probably follow the moon's entrance into any of her quarters. As a general rule it will be found wonderfully correct: If the moon changes at 12 o'clock, noon, the weather immediately following will be very rainy, if in summer; if in winter, snow or rain. If between 2 and 3 p. m. changeable; fair and mild in winter. Between 2 and 6 o'clock p. m., fair in winter and summer. Between 6 and 10 o'clock p. m., in summer, fair if the wind is northwest; rainy if the wind is south or southwest; in winter fair and frosty if the wind is north or northwest; rainy if south or southwest.

Between 10 and 12 p. m., rainy in summer, and fair and frosty in winter. Between 12 at night and 2 a. m., fair in summer, and frosty in winter, unless the wind is from the southwest. Between 2 and 4 a. m., cold and very showery in summer, and snow and storm in winter. Between 4 and 6 a. m., rainy, both in winter and summer. Between 6 and 8 a. m., wind and rain in summer, and stormy in winter. Between 8 and 10 a. m., showery in summer and cold in winter. Between 10 and 12 a. m., showery in summer, and cold and stormy in winter.

The Smithville Index reduced its subscription price to one dollar per year, and after a few months found that it was a losing business and raised it to the standard price—$2. In making a note of this fact, the Sparta Expositor says: "A county paper can't be published at a dollar, unless the publisher has plenty of money, or some other business to furnish the money that is required to sink in the paper. Of course if every voter in the county, or even half of them, would take the paper, it might be done, but as only about one-fourth of them on an average take it, it can't be done successfully."

An old writer very truly says: "Advertising and politeness are the main levers to get customers. Advertising will draw them, ability to fill their orders will satisfy them, and politeness will induce them to buy." Tennessee bonds are quoted in Nashville at 40 cents.

Our Cash Argument REWARDED! Under our cash system we have, in three months, been compelled to move to a larger store-house and employ extra force in order to meet the demands of our trade. We do not claim to sell all the goods that we could here, but we will say we will make your friends treat you right. Even an enemy is your friend if he makes your friend treat you right. Then how great a friend must your friend be who treats you right without the making? Did you buy for $14 fourteen pounds of choice sugar, ten pounds of choice coffee, or 4-4 full weight domestic 47 1/2, or best prints at 6c, before we put them down? Suppose you permit Harry to go to your smoke-house and take one of your most choice hams every week—how long will it be before you would have to sell the remainder at double its value to make good your loss? This suits our case exactly. Harry comes every day—there are many Harryes. Suppose we load him down with 100 lbs. of coffee and 14 pound sugar for $1. For $1.00, he, but for the promise of $1.00, we can't stand it, but pass him over to our neighbors who take chances on all alike with only one consideration—that is, if Harry don't pay, Tom and Dick will.

We keep a full line of Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, &c., also a general stock of merchandise, and pay the highest market price for hatter of all kinds. P. S. LENEHAN, Successors to Jos. Lenahan, Decherd, Tenn., Dec. 20, 1882. tce27-83

MARY SHARP COLLEGE, N. C. & ST. L. RAILWAY. "The Female University of the South," At Winchester, : : : Tenn., A LOCATION unsurpassed for variety and beauty of scenery, and entirely exempt from all malarial and epidemic diseases. THE METHODS OF INSTRUCTION in this Institution are such as common sense and the wisdom gained from long experience have demonstrated to be most effective. No plan is accepted or rejected because it is "new" or "old," but if proved best, no stigma is placed upon it because it is not the birth of yesterday. THE TEACHING in this College is fully up to the progressive demands of the present. Both the instruction and example such that even the sluggish and indolent soon become interested, and study becomes a positive pleasure. THIRTY YEARS the Mary Sharp has stood firm amid the desolation of war and the persecutions of envy and jealousy, and this long record of faithful and successful teaching should be a sufficient guarantee for the future. STUDENTS OF THIS COLLEGE, occupying positions of honor throughout the land, and who, by the education here received, are made blessings to thousands of "Southern homes," and to the communities in which they reside, are living witnesses of the thorough work done at the Mary Sharp in educating mind and heart. ECONOMY of dress is insured by a neat and inexpensive uniform. Books and stationery can be bought at Nashville prices. No combinations formed by which any teacher is to receive a profit in monies spent for pupils. THE PROSPECTS of the Institution were never better; requests for Catalogues and information received daily, not only from the Southern States, but from points north of the Ohio river. THE STANDARD of education is high, and rests upon the conviction that every system of instruction should be estimated by its success in promoting the higher education; by its ability to increase the power and range of thought, and to not only excite the mind to extended scientific research, but to join with it that pure moral culture by which alone the true dignity and well-being of humanity is insured.
