RADICAL PROGRESSIVENESS. A substantial reason why Radicalism is not worthy of public confidence and sup. port, is its reckless changes and its utter uncertainty. INDIFFERENCE A CRIME.

If there be a citizen of Tennesses worthy to bear the name, who, under the present aspect of affairs, is disposed to be indifferent to the course of political events, and to sink into apathy, and give himself over to despondency; or, who would make his personal comfort of mind or his private pursuits, an excuse for refusing to participate, to that extent that is the duty of every citizen, in directing and controlling public affairs, we have a word for him. We use the term citizen in its broadest sense, and give it a general application. We mean men of every shade of political opinion, except that styled by those who hold it-Radical Republicanism; and of every color-those enfranchised and those disfranchised.

Important changes have been wrought in our institutions by the war. Some of them are complete, and beyond the power of reversal, even if it were desirable to alter them. There were conflicting opinions as to their justice and propriety; and a large majority of the people of the State feel that they were the work of arbitrary force, selfishly and wantonly wielded; and feeling this grievance deeply, they have not yet come to a dispassionate ljudgment of the inthem. This was natural, and to be expeeted. We cannot ask any man to "let his eye look like a friend" upon the ruthless innovations around him, and at once to cancel all his former views, and concede that what he formerly condemned, is just and right and proper. But we do ask that, as sensible, practical men, they shall, so far as they have the power, lay hold of matters, and endeavor so to shape the condition as to evolve from it all the good it contains, and to prevent all the evil that it threatens. This is clearly the policy and the duty of every Conservative, whether he was a Union man during the war, a Federal soldier, a "Rebel" in arms, or a Southern sympa-The President has nominated tien. Romeann | thizen. If the management of affairs is them, with the machinery which they have erected in full operation, they will soon make Tennessee a hell. All that is now had will be made infinitely worse. Evils existing will be made more intolerable, and they will multiply. It is, therefore, the religious duty of every Conservative man to arouse from indifference and to throw off despondency, and, by every legitimate means through which political influence can be exercised, to endeavor to eject from power the men who are driving the State on the rock of destruction. Proconceived views and lingering prejudices alike, should be abandoned. There is before them a stern and nctual state of facts. They cannot be changed and we must meet and manage them as best we may. A united effort of all who recognize that the longer continuance of Radical sway will increase the mischiefs we are subjected to, will put an end to it, and when conservatism assumes direction of the organic alterations which have been made, they may, and we have no doubt will, he wisely adapted and bacome as thoroughly harmonized with the sentiments and interests of the people, as they are firmly fixed in the body of our laws. So long as they are allowed to be used for base political purposes, they will and liberties will be at the mercy of the

The first lesson they will try to teach him is Conservatism. His political power is newly acquired. A breath made him a member of the body politie-the hot breath of revolution. A breath may unmake him. The ascendancy of a party that claims as its cardinal doctrine the necessity of Radical changes under the name of progress, is a standing invitation to revolutions and counter revolutions. What might be his fate in another upheaval cannot be foretold. His security for the permanency of his right to assist in framing the laws under which he is to live, is in stable and well ordered, economic government under a fixed constitution. Co-operation with his Conservative friends will ensure him and them against the dangers of Radicalism; and we therefore urge that it is his duty to vote, and use every means of gaining the information that will enable him to vote intelligently. It was to be hoped by everybody that nothing would appear that would render it necessary to impeach the President, but if a state of facts should appear that would render it proper, the Judiciary Committee would not shrink from the responsibility, but would recommend a bill impeachment. And again, as it is sometimos the custom of giving premiums, such as watches, etc., and having proof of the last two weeks' business that the citizens of Nashville appreciate our efforts to help the nucly, we have therefore concluded to give ten per cent, of our profit to the poor of Nashville, from the 1st day of April, 1807, up to October 1st, 1807, (six months,) which amount will be remitted weekly to the Mayor of Nashville. We hope that the amateur billiard players and the public it general will appreciate the cause and sustain it. of two things to do - resist or submit; the first is inadmissible, in our painfully exhausted condition. Four years of a despeate war have taught us that the "argument of the sword" can no longer be resorted to by ns to redress our grievances. We must, therefore, submit; but with that calm dignity becoming our manhood and our st independence. Having been overpowered in the late struggle, we can submit to the harsh and ngenerous conditions of our conquerors without dishonor, and we must adopt the least of the two evils; a futile resistance

In our future political contests with the North, on protective tariffs, internal improvements, etc., the freedmen of the South will side with the whites of the South and of the West, and they will thus contribute to give us back the influence we formerly had in the councils of the nation. Our people should understand that the Radicals can remain in power only so long can be gained at as the public excitement is kept up; as with the turbid waters of the Mississipp river, the sedimentary particles are kept up at the surface only so long as the waters are n motion; the instant the current is checked those particles fall to the bottom Thus will it be with the Radicals, when peace and quiet are restored to the country he Conservatives will then take the reins in their own hands, and the constitutional laws of the land will once more prevail. I remain, yours respectfu'ly, G. T. BEAUREGARD.

LIABILITIES OF RAILROADS-IN PORTANT DECISIONS.

William Walker, a passenger on th Long Island railroad, was killed by a collision in August, 1865. He was standing on the platform at the time, being com pelled to do so in consequence of the cars seing full. A suit for damages brought in the Supreme Court of New York, the jury brought in a verdict for Mr. Walker's administrator to the amount of $2225, to which the court added an allowance of five per cent. The judge charged the jury that it is the duty of a conductor to furnish seats to all passengers. If he should fail to do this, and travelers be ompelled to stand, even though they stand on the platform, and personal injury reult, the railroad company cannot avail hemselves of the law which absolves them rom liability by posting notices in the cars against standing on the platform. The Cleveland (Ohio) Leader reports the following decision, rendered in the Cavahoga Court of Common Pleas, in the case of A. Abernethy 18. the Cleveland and Toledo Railroad Company: "In March 1865, a quantity of corn was shipped at Sandusky by the Cleveland and Toledo railroad, consigned to the plaintiff, at Buffalo. He was duly advised of its shipment, but it did not arrive "on time," and after "waiting and watching" for several weeks, he commenced tracing it back. It was claimed by the plaintiff that the Cleveland and Erie Railroad Company refused to receive and forward the corn upon its arrival in this city, being blockaded with freight, and it was unloaded in the warehouse of Otis & Brownell. It remained there two or three months, and becoming damaged by heating, it was sold for fifty cents per bushel. Action was brought to recover damages of the Cleveland and To
