ENTERTAINED.

Lee, Mrs. Parkerson, Mrs. M. Ervin, Messrs. Parkerson, Harris, C. W. and J. E. Orr, G. Lee, C. Jones and — Giles.

MRS. HUGHES, HONOREE.

No event of the season has been more charmingly beautiful in every particular to the young ladies of the H. T. G. M. Club, than the entertainment given them on Thursday evening, July 1, by Mrs. Henry Allen Boyd in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Sarah M. Hughes, of San Antonio, Texas. Ferns, carnations and roses in pink and white were the effective floral decorations. As the guests arrived they were served fruit trappe from the porch by little Katie Boyd. The cozy apartments of the home, the spacious porch and the attractive lawn rang with merriment the entire evening. Fun, exercise and excitement were present in no small degree immediately after the hostess had announced to her guests that peanuts were hidden about the lawn and each one must take part in the hunt. After the hunt all were interested in the counting of the peanuts of each one, as a prize was to be given the one who found the largest number. Miss Frances Banks, who held thirty-two as the result of her effort in the search, was presented at a later hour, in the dining-room, a very pretty Dutch silver belt buckle. The consolation trophy, a dainty little Japanese fan, was won by Miss Lucy B. White, on a tie with three other ladies. The dining-room was superb in its artistic decorations. Extending from the chandelier were streamers of pink and white ribbons fastened to the four corners of the table with large pink roses. Flowers were arranged in various other ways. The table centerpiece was handsome linen Mexican drawn work. The color scheme was carried out in the menu, which consisted of a most elaborate luncheon, followed by a delicious ice-course, in which the ice represented a full-blown pink rose and was served in plates on natural rose foliage. Just before leaving the dining-room each guest was given a souvenir. The souvenirs were miniature photographs of Mesdames Hughes and Boyd taken together. Those present besides the honoree and the club members were Mesdames E. S. Landers, of Tuskegee; R. H. Boyd, A. Cartwright, J. W. Bostick, A. J. Bright, E. D. Kennedy, A. M. Townsend, C. H. Phillips, Mr. H. A. Boyd, Misses Rhoda H. Mason, of Knoxville, Tenn.; Josephine Styles, of Milledgeville, Ga.; Lillian Allen, Lucy B. White, Susie L. Crawley, Harriet E. Caruthers, Lady E., Lucy and Lottie Phillips, little Misses Leonie Spears and Katie Boyd.

PROHIBITION MOVEMENT IN A NEW ROLE.

The latest prohibition movement in the South is the opening in Birmingham of headquarters for the Southern Negro Anti-Saloon Federation. Its promoters declare it will result in loosening the hold that liquor has upon the Negro race.

The plan of the Federation is to reach that class that whisky harms most by educating the Negroes through Negro leaders, to the evils of liquor indulgence. It is proposed to organize four districts in each State, except in Maryland, where there are to be but two, and in Texas, where there are to be six. A Negro is to be made Superintendent in each section, and under him the work in each district is to be forwarded. Literature is to be distributed in plenty, but the main work will be done through mass-meetings. Leaders at these gatherings are to be the Negroes themselves, the desire being to make the reform work from the center outward. In all, it is hoped to organize anti-saloon societies in every town in the South, and through these to reach the 15,000,000 members of the race.

Managing this movement is Dr. B. F. Riley, former President of Howard College, located near Birmingham. Dr. Riley has spent his entire life in the Baptist ministry in the South, and is known in almost every Gulf State. He is a native Alabamian. He has opened headquarters in Birmingham because of this city's central location, and the preliminary work of districting the South is already under way.

His selection to his post was made at a recent conference of Negro church leaders, held in Atlanta. Nothing was said of the meeting at the time, as the desire was to withhold information until plans were matured. While no announcement on the subject is made, it is known that the funds for the organization will be donated by Northerners. It is figured that the first year will cost around $75,000. By that time the organization is expected to have grown to such an extent that possibly twice this amount will be needed. As the movement spreads it will require more money until it is possible that a half million or more will be needed to meet the annual expenses.

The Pastors' Union, of Birmingham, has endorsed the movement, and it is certain that the ministers of other Southern cities will be called on for an expression. Indeed, the work of the Association is expected soon to claim the center of the stage as regards the fight for prohibition in the South.
