An interesting story is told by Rev. Preston Taylor, who recently made a visit to Edwards, Miss. where he delivered five addresses at the Industrial School. In relating the trip to a Globe representative, Rev. Taylor said:

THE SAN JOSE SCALE IN TENNESSEE WITH METHODS FOR ITS CONTROL.

By G. M. Bentley, Introduction.
Paramount of all the insects causing loss to the horticulturists and nursery is a small scale insect no larger, when mature, than the head of a common pin. This insect is the San Jose scale (pronounced San Ho-ay), Aspidiotus perniciosus. No insect pest has received more attention and has had more written concerning it. Nearly every experiment station in the land has published one or more bulletins as to its life history and ravages, and remedies for its control.

Newspapers, journals and magazines have issued volumes calling the attention of fruit growers to the effects of this scale pest and encouraging legislation for its control. Those who have heeded this admonition of the entomologists and followed their recommendations have satisfied themselves that in spite of the enormous damage done by this scale, there are methods which, if properly pursued, will reduce injury to the minimum. The careless, unheeding grower who has scale-infested stock and has done nothing by way of controlling the pest suffers heavy losses and eventually is compelled to go out of business (be he horticulturist or nurseryman) or is advised to start anew.

The orchard and nursery interests in Tennessee are developing with rapid strides, and the heavy daily correspondence pertaining to San Jose scale and its remedies emphatically indicates a need for suggestions and information applicable to Tennessee conditions.

History of Occurrence of San Jose Scale. Through investigations of Prof. C. L. Marlatt during 1901-1902, acting for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the native home of the San Jose scale was definitely located in Northern China, not far from Peking. From existing conditions the indications are that San Jose scale has been present in China for a number of years. San Jose was first noticed in this country in 1870, in the San Jose Valley in California. In the town of San Jose, in 1873, it had increased sufficiently to be serious. Not until 1893 was the scale discovered east of the Rocky Mountains, when it was noticed at Charlottesville, Va. It is supposed to have reached Virginia from New Jersey, where it had been scattered by means of nursery stock shipped from the San Jose Valley in 1880 or 1887. The infested nurseries in New Jersey continued to ship nursery stock to all parts of the United States until investigations were made in 1893 and 1894. Thus many sections throughout the United States became infested, especially in nursery and orchard districts.

The Occurrence in Tennessee. In Tennessee San Jose scale first made its appearance in the eastern part of the State, in Roane County, at Harriman, where it was brought in on nursery trees during 1891 or 1892, yet it was not discovered until 1896. At this time many trees were found in a highly infested condition. Scale was found next in Claiborne County, near Cedar Fork, in 1897. The following year specimens were received by the Experiment Station from another section of the same county, at Tazewell. In less than a month afterward scale was found in Washington County, at Amstln Springs. These scale insects were on trees that had been purchased four years previous from a New Jersey nursery.

Habits and Life History. Perhaps the worst feature of an attack of San Jose scale is the difficulty of recognizing the insect, due to its size and color; it is about 1-16 of an inch in diameter when mature, and in color it resembles the bark of tree or plant infested. If there is a very bad infestation an ashy-gray appearance is noticeable; again one may determine the presence of scale by crushing many of them, when an oily appearance is noticed.

If a female scale be carefully turned over with a knife or a pin, there will be found underneath a flat, yellowish insect, looking very much like a small piece of rich butter. It has no legs, no wings, no eyes, no antennae (feelers), nor a distinct head, but it does have a long, threadlike sucking proboscis, with which it bores through the bark of trees into the young, growing wood and draws out the sap.

In April (earlier in advanced seasons) the adult female begins to give birth to living young, continuing to do so for about six weeks, after which she dies. The young scale has legs, antennae and eyes; it moves about over the twigs for some hours, then settles down and begins to push its mouth parts slowly into the bark to the sap beneath. A scale-like covering now begins to be formed, coming from all parts of the body and looking at first like waxy filaments or threads, which later fuse together, making with the cast skins, an entire covering over the insect. All young San Jose scale look alike in size, color and shape until the first molt, about twelve days after birth, but from then on there is a very great difference. The male scale, which is smaller, is now elongate, while the female scale is circular, or nearly so, both sexes losing legs and antennae, and the female her eyes. In from 24 to 26 days from birth the male comes from under the scale in the form of a minute and extremely delicate two-winged, fly-like insect.

It takes the female about thirty days to develop fully. From thirty-three to forty days from birth she gives birth to a new generation. Each female is supposed to produce 200 male and 200 female young; this being so, and counting four generations in a season, there will be produced, according to Dr. L. O. Howard, 3,216,080,400 male and female scales from one progenitor in a year.

In Tennessee, where there are at least five generations or broods each year, the above number is greatly increased. Thus it is easy to understand why a slight infestation, if untreated, soon becomes bad. If the scale are allowed to increase unmolested they will kill a young bearing peach tree in about three years, and an apple tree in about four or five years. Consequently, when San Jose scale are first discovered in an orchard immediate preparations should be made for applying a remedy, the most satisfactory of which is the Boiled Lime-Sulphur Solution, if the tree is dormant.

Bulletin No. 8 and 10, and a copy of the eighth annual report of the State Entomologist and Plant Pathologist for 1912 may be had by any one who will write to Mr. G. M. Bentley, at Knoxville.

Lane-Snowden.
On last Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Ruthie Banks, 232 North Eighth street, East Nashville, Miss Mollie E. Snowden was married to Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt Lane. A few friends were present. A delightful reception was given them. Rev. Wm. Haynes performed the ceremony.

Announcement.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Banks announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sammie Wardie Banks, to Mr. Alven Williams Smith, to take place about the middle of June, 1913.

Azalia Art Club.
Mrs. John Cheatham, of 709 Sevier street, delightfully entertained the club Monday, May 19th. The meeting was called to order by the President. Song and prayer by the chaplain. Minutes of last meeting read and received. Roll call and each answered with a quotation and dues. The hostess then invited the ladies to the kitchen to make icing to decorate cakes. Here they were all as busy as bees, each one in turn having her share to do, also the cooking was done, then each lady decorated her own cake, some with sweet peas, others wild roses, and various designs. After the decoration was over the ladies were invited to the dining-room where ice cream and cake were served. Those to enjoy Mrs. Cheatham's hospitality were Mrs. Holman, Mrs. Thos. Morgan, Mrs. Henry Ransom, Mrs. Louis Guild, Mrs. Louise Mason, Mrs. Cornelius V. Lane, Mrs. Cynthia Boyd and Mrs. Jennie Ridley. The ladies were overjoyed with the afternoon's pleasure, which was never witnessed before. Next meeting June 2nd, with Mrs. Cynthia Boyd, 708 Sylvan street.

Visits Murrefsboro.
A happy party of four spent Sunday at Murrefsboro the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Scales. They were driven in their most beautiful car to the places of interest—State Normal, the fair grounds, the scene of the terrible disaster a few months ago. The party consisted of Miss Nannie Guild, Miss Mamie Walton, Dr. Gerald Drisdale, Dr. D. O. Darden. The party returned home Sunday night expressing themselves as having a pleasant day.

Eagle Club C. of C.
Mr. Edward Stockell entertained the members of Eagle C. of C. at the last regular meeting, May 6. Music and games were the features of the evening. Remarks from Misses K. Lillian Hill, Lelia and Alma Dillahunt and Braden of Fisk University. The business was followed by an elaborate two course menu. Miss Mary B. England, 722 Georgia street, will be next hostess. Visitors are welcome.

A Breakfast.
Mr. and Mrs. Alex Goodwin entertained at breakfast Messrs. A. T. Smith, C. N. Vance and C. Payne, who are to leave the city for the summer. They will go to Springfield, Ill., Washington, D. C. and other points East before returning in the fall. Those seated at the table were Messrs. C. N. Vance, A. T. Smith, C. Alex Goodwin. A delightful three course breakfast was served. Mrs. Goodwin was assisted in receiving by Mrs. G. E. Yowell.

Mrs. Mary Jackson of Rains avenue entertained Tuesday evening, May 13, Miss Mary Johnson of State Normal, Mrs. Annie Mal Pierce and little daughter, Lucy Mal Pierce.

Y. M. L. C. Notes.
The first program from the "Club Curriculum" was indeed a success and in the future the members will know if this work has been beneficial. Mr. C. Merritt delivered an able address to the club. Each meeting seems to give to the members new zeal. This "club curriculum" will give each member a chance to become one of the best literary workers of today, as the local clubs seem to neglect this kind of work. The club hopes to send forth some of the best talent in literature and music. All members are asked to be at next meeting. Business of importance to be considered. Visitors welcome at all times.

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Entertain.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jennings entertained at their residence 1724 Thompson street, in honor of their fathers, Mr. Albert Sherrill, Mr. Chas. Jennings of Columbia and Mr. James Johnson of this city, Sunday, May 11, 1913. A two course menu was served by the hostess to the delight of those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nixon Entertain.
Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nixon of Columbia, Tenn., were royally entertained by their brother, Force Nixon, with a very elaborate dinner from three to five o'clock Sunday afternoon. A five course menu was served by Mr. Dix at his cafe on Cedar street. Seated at the table were: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, Mr. Yalce Nixon, Miss Berta White, Mr. Nathan Ray and Mr. Edward Nixon. After dinner the gentlemen were served with cigars and the ladies with delightful music.

Eighth Annisvasary.
Mr. and Mrs. James Coffee, 629 Ewing avenue celebrated their eighth anniversary Sunday afternoon and the home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and ferns. She asked her friends to mix presents but she received many flowers, several boxes of candy and three handsome pieces of cut glass. The affair was for ladies only and quite a few were present. The evening was beautifully spent.

The E. S. C.
The East Side Sewing Circle met Monday afternoon and held its weekly meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president. The rally was called by the Secretary; members responded with dues and each one repeating a verse from the Bible. The meeting was very interesting. Fancy aprons were the lesson for the afternoon. Many pretty aprons were made. An ice course was served. The meeting adjourned to meet again with the president 722 Georgia street. Miss Mary B. English. Club meets every Monday afternoon from 3 to 6. All visitors are welcome.

Reception at the Millers.
Miss Fuchsa Miller was the hostess Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 of one of the handsomest receptions of the season given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Miller, 1601 Jefferson street to compliment a few of her friends of the A. and I. State Normal School. A musical program was rendered by Misses Helena Lowe, Ruth Allison, Katie Boyd and Quintard Miller. Assisting the hostess and honoree in receiving were Misses Emma Stone, Katie Boyd, Mary Stephens and Mary Merrell. Refreshments were served. The rooms were artistically decorated with a wealth of garden flowers and gift bouquets. The school color of blue and white was effectively emphasized. The guest list numbered about forty.

The Phyllis Wheatley Club.
The Phyllis Wheatley Club will meet with Mrs. G. W. Draper Thursday, May 29th, 1913, at 3 o'clock. All members are urged to be present. Business of importance. Full reports from Carnival will be made. The club is now arranged under twelve captains; each captain with her members will take up a note on the home. Full assignment of members will be made at this meeting. Names of heads of departments will be announced.

Let every member be on hand. Take Main street car; Get off at end of the line. Walk north a short distance to home of Mrs. G. W. Draper. The club has dipanecaf of dhevETAIO. The club had a pleasant and profitable meeting last month at the home of Mrs. W. B. Blake, 8 Cannon street. $31.50 was collected. A number of new names were presented on membership.

All good women of all denominations who are able and willing to life as they climb are always welcome to membership in this club.
W. E. P. Club.
The W. E. P. Club met at regular meeting Tuesday evening, May 20th at the home of Miss Sadie McMurry, 1208 Phillips street. The house was called to order by the President, Mr.
