Plea For Men.

As far back as history records the world has always had great admiration for manly and courageous men. As the human family has increased in knowledge opinion has changed to some degree as to what constitutes a manly and courageous man, but fundamentally there has been little change. There is one principle of manliness that the American people have always stressed, and that is respect for womanhood. An American who will not protect a woman is considered less than a coward. Strange to say, however, Negro men are slow to become imbued with this great fundamental principle. They make a great noise about their women, but when the test comes they shrink from their duty, and in too many instances leave the Negro women exposed to the humiliation and abuse of the world.

No stronger proof of this weakness may be cited than the case on the Jefferson street car last Sunday, when a lot of Negro men permitted a white man to jerk a colored girl from a seat and strike another with his fist and then call her all of the vile names in the vocabulary of blackguard and profanity. A true man would not consider his life one moment under such conditions, but would spill his last drop of blood as willingly as he would take a drink of water. It is hard to conceive of such cowardice. Such are not worthy to be called men. Think how helpless a woman would be who should chance to have such a coward for a husband. Shame on those creatures, with men's attire as a covering.

But there was one man on that car. A Negro man with the pure iron in the blood. He was not dressed in loud stockings, green vest and big-legged pants, just ordinarily dressed—no coat on. No attention had been paid him, and the women on the car did not dream that their lives were in his hands, but when the test came he proved that he was a man, and the brute who so cowardly assaulted those two girls will always remember him, and if he has one iota of manhood in him he has more respect for the man who plunged the knife in him than he has for all those who sat cringing as he committed the cowardly assaults on those two girls.

Boosters.

The young men who organized the "Booster Club" struck upon a scheme that will do much toward the betterment of Nashville, if properly handled. It is not a new move in this city, but it is a commendable move. It is well that the young Negro men of Nashville realize that they owe something to their home; and that a part of the responsibility of pushing Nashville to the front rests upon them. We hope the new club will grow strong and live long. That the members will count themselves men, and not as charity seekers. That they will always feel that the expenses of the club must be borne by the members of the club and not by donations from others. We hope they will be "Boosters" and not beggars.

The initial trip to Knoxville should receive the most hearty support of all. Every man should realize that the city's reputation is at stake. Every Negro who works for a Nashville manufacturer or merchant should feel it his duty to boost that man's business. Negroes are pretty good boosters as a rule, but they can be better boosters through an organized effort. Let's show Knoxville who we are. Let's tell the world about grand old Nashville and her opportunities.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION TAKES GOLD MEDAL.

Who is it that does not feel proud of our Sunday School Union, which, almost at the last moment, came to Philadelphia, put up its exhibit and received for its display a Gold Medal certificate from the Emancipation Proclamation Commission? It was a daring thing for the Sunday School Union to come here to exhibit. But it showed that much of the vigor of the fathers has descended upon the sons; that the younger men of the church, of whom Secretary Bryant is one, are not only zealous for the church they love, but have intelligence and ability with that zeal. If given a half chance they will show the fathers that African Methodism is safe. The Missionary Department, under Dr. J. Y. Rankin, is also to be congratulated upon the award of the Silver Medal certificate for the display of photographs of its work.—Christian Recorder.

MR. HAWKINS ELECTED CASHIER OF PEOPLE'S SAVINGS BANK AND TRUST CO.

The Board of Directors of the People's Savings Bank and Trust Company held their regular monthly meeting Wednesday night in the Directors' room in the bank building. The reports of the officials showed the bank to be in a prosperous condition. Dr. A. M. Townsend, the retiring cashier, made his last report which was for September. He prefaced his report with a brief review of his connection with the bank, and assured the Directors that he would always have the deepest interest in the bank and would give his influence unreservedly.

Dr. J. H. Hale read the report of the executive committee, after which the election of a cashier was taken up. Mr. W. D. Hawkins, the assistant cashier, was unanimously elected cashier and teller. Mr. Hawkins has been with the bank since its organization, and has risen from the position of teller to cashier. He has made a good record in the bank, and enjoys the confidence of the public. He is thoroughly familiar with the workings of the institution, which means that the business will move along without a hitch. The Board of Directors voted to go out to Roger Williams University on the 15th to witness Ex-Cashier Townsend's inauguration as president of that institution.

one of whom will be the state grand master by virtue of his office. This property was bought and the deeds made to the National Order of the Mosaic Templars of America. The national officers purpose to have the deeds framed and placed right at the entrance of the building so that all may see that the property belongs to the people and no individual or set of individuals.

The Freewill Offering. In erecting this building the Mosaics have done what no fraternity in the world has done and that is complete—a building without levying extra building assessments on the people. At Paducah they levied a national temple tax of 20 cents per annum on each member. This tax has been accumulating slowly, but it would have taken many years for a small tax like that to amount to sufficient to erect the temple. On the other hand, the endowment funds have been piling up at an immense rate. The insurance commissioners of Arkansas recommended that the safest investment for the endowment surplus would be to put money into a national building. Hence last March the temple trustees arranged with the Endowment Board for money to complete the temple. Now the National Grand Master will start his list campaign to replace this money in the endowment treasury and that will be
