

BOYNTON'S SPEECH WAS SENSATIONAL

Compares Veterans of '61 With Those of the Late War.

A SEVERE ARRAIGNMENT

Representative of Secretary Root Ridicules Spanish War.

The exercises of dedicating the 107 monuments and markers of the state of Illinois on the battlefields surrounding the city of Chattanooga were held Thursday at Orchard Knob, the site of one of the principal memorial shafts and famous during the civil war as the headquarters of General Grant.

Among the visitors were Senator Cullom, Governor Tanner and staff, Commissioner of Pensions H. Clay Evans, General H. V. Boynton, representing the secretary of war, and a large delegation from the confederate camp of Chattanooga.

Major Charles A. Connelly delivered the speech presenting the monuments to the governor of Illinois on behalf of the Illinois commissioners.

Governor John B. Tanner, of Illinois, received the monuments and in turn presented them to the government.

General H. V. Boynton, chairman of the national park commission, in receiving the monuments, said in part:

"The citizens of any state, or of any nation, might well be proud to stand on this historic spot, with the right to stand here as the military associate of General Grant, participants with him each in his appointed rank in that miracle of military history, the storming of Missionary Ridge. First, toward this point, and then from this point he directed that series of memorable battles which have given Chattanooga a world-wide fame.

"What of the soldiers who won the battles which these monuments commemorate and the great captains who commanded them? Did General Grant spend his time about the commissary stores in the capacity of a pure food commissioner? Did he send his staff officers throughout the limits of his command to gather evidence to prove that the war department did not know more than a thing or two about war? Did he fill the press of the land with interviews criticising everything and everybody but himself? When he telegraphed General Thomas from Louisville to hold Chattanooga, did Thomas reply, 'We are out of the proper brand of meat, and it can't be done,' or did he reply, 'We will hold the town till we starve'? Did General Thomas and his general officers send a round robin to Washington concerning the condition of their stomachs, their temperature and their pulse, and promptly furnish a copy of it to the press?"

"And what of the soldiers who served under General Thomas? They went about the streets of Chattanooga and the horse and mule corrals, picking up kernels and scattered corn. They gathered about the refuse heaps of the commissary stores where moldy bread was thrown, whittled off the mold, and filled their haversacks with the crumbs; and when interrupted by the play of the siege guns, they would look up at the smoking summit of Lookout and exclaim: 'If these rations hold, Mr. Johnny Reb, we'll get you yet.'

"The monuments which Illinois here dedicates are to such officers and men. Let the small, but the loud persistent crowd of grumblers of the national guard in the war with Spain, who filled the land with their baseless groanings, take notice of the kind of soldiers which an American state delights to honor.

"And those who fought against these iron men were soldiers of a like mold. When union veterans gather, that fact should never be forgotten, and ever be held as a matter of pride, since, together, they fix the universal and undisputed standard of American pluck, endurance and heroism on the field of battle.

"This great park, embracing seven battlefields, is being established with absolute impartiality as a military object lesson and an illustration of the powers of the American soldier in battle. More than a thousand historical tablets attest this impartiality. The like of it was never seen before in any land."

THE KENTUCKY TESTED.

Big Battleship Made a Highly Satisfactory Record.

A Boston dispatch says: Against tide, wind and a heavy head sea for at least half her course, the new battleship Kentucky made a record of 16,877 knots an hour Friday on her official speed trial over the government course from Cape Ann to Boone island, and by her work showed that she is a little faster than her sister ship Kearsage, which recently was sent over the same course. The trial satisfied her builders, that she can justly be rated as a 17-knot vessel, although her contract calls for only 16 knots.

Extraordinary Flights of Birds.

It is said that the bobolinks which rear their young on the shores of Lake Winnipeg, Canada, and go to Cuba and Porto Rico to spend the winter, twice traverse a distance exceeding 3,500 miles, or more than a fifth of the circumference of our earth each year. The kingbird lays its eggs as far north as the 57th degree of latitude, and is found in the winter in South America. The biennial pilgrimages of the little redstart exceed 3,000 miles and the tiny hummingbird 2,000.

Those Awfully Long Words.
At 1 o'clock A. M. the night editor shouted through the speaking tube to the man in the telegraph room whose business it was to supervise the dispatches from the seat of war in the Transvaal and to act as custodian of the Dutch dictionary:
"Glubbings!"
"Ay, ay."
"That last dispatch from Pretoria will have to be cut. It's half a column too long. Come up here and take out a couple of words!"—Chicago Tribune.

"Variety's the spice of life," but to retain its realising qualities is sometimes difficult.

A Foolish Fad.
The fashion of men wearing bracelets is on the increase. The Prince of Wales is said to wear a bangle which once belonged to Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico. The Duke of Sax-Coburg is also accredited with wearing a gold bracelet, while the late Duke of Albany is said to have worn one for luck.

Making an Impression.

"I was much amused one day about a year ago, when I was on my way to Washington," remarked a Detroit not long since. "I had finished a good meal in the dining car and was enjoying myself in the smoker. Pretty soon two young fellows came in who appeared to me to be college undergraduates returning to their alma mater. They began to talk of a visit they had paid to Washington during the Christmas holidays a year before, and were recalling incidents and episodes of the trip. They mentioned the name of a Congressman from a Western State and told of the good time they had had at his house. One of them was in especially good spirits when speaking of the Congressman's daughter.

"You know, I had a great time with her," he said, "and flatter myself that I made quite an impression. I guess she hadn't seen much of society, for I just waded in and took her off her feet. I didn't do a thing but take her to half-a-dozen 'functions' and I guess I made her think she was the only girl there was." He said a good deal more in the same strain, all of which I couldn't help hearing. The reason it interested me was this. I knew the Congressman and knew his daughter quite well. She was about 30 years old, almost ten years the senior of the young fellow who had taken her off her feet. She had spent four years in New York society, two years in London, where she was a favorite, two years in Chicago, and had been for four years one of the most popular young ladies in Washington social circles. I rather imagine that there were two playing at the game of making the other think of being the only one there was."—Detroit Free Press.

A Weed Garden.
It is remarkable how many really beautiful flowers are discarded because ordinarily they are classed as weeds. A woman who had plenty of land and a taste for experimenting made a "weed garden" this year which is a great success. She doesn't know the names of all the outcasts she has gathered in, but she noticed last year all the wild things that grew and flowered neglected by the wayside, and transplanted those that appealed to her most strongly.

"The main reason," she urges, "that they attract so little notice when growing wild is that they are not massed and arranged as we place cultivated flowers to get the best effect. Now, that is what I have done. A wild flower, or a weed, as it is scornfully termed, that is too fragile to be thought much of will make a delicate, feathery mass which will be vastly admired when planted together by the score or more."

Even such a despised thing as the common ragweed is worthy of admiration if you happen to look at it aright, and it is finely effective as foliage for cut flowers.

This weed gardener has provided for a succession of blossoms from violets and dandelions to golden rod and late fall grasses, and nothing has repaid the gardener's efforts with better results than these absolutely free flowers.—Boston Herald.

"I wonder why Fraulein Amalie always smiles so pleasantly at Schmezzfrel, the dentist?"
"Oh, that's because she has got a new set of teeth on credit, on condition that she passes his office every day and shows that she hasn't pawned them."

He Was Slightly Elevated.
"I'm going to keep this up all day," said the persevering aeronaut, as he threw out another sandbag.—New York Press.

Electricity for Brain.
A European scientist claims to have discovered an apparatus which will stimulate the brain. It has been tried on school boys, and consists of an electric hand. While scientists have been busy inventing unnatural ways of making the brain work, Hightower's Stomach Bitters has for fifty years been doing it naturally. It cures dyspepsia and all stomach troubles and builds up and invigorates the entire system. There is nothing "just as good."

Nearly as Good.
"My good woman," said the clergyman to the rarely tried matron, "did you ever try heating coals of fire on your husband's head?"
"No, your reverence. Ol' 's thrown a lighted lamp at him once or twice."

Sick Women Advised to Seek Advice of Mrs. Pinkham.

(LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 61,662)
"I had inflammation and falling of the womb, and inflammation of ovaries, and was in great pain. I took medicine prescribed by a physician, but it did me no good. At last I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after using it faithfully I am thankful to say I am a well woman. I would advise all suffering women to seek advice of Mrs. Pinkham."—Mrs. G. H. CHAPPELL, GRANT PARK, ILL.

"For several years my health was miserable. I suffered the most dreadful pains, and was almost on the verge of insanity. I consulted one of the best physicians in New York, and he pronounced my disease a fibroid tumor, advising an operation without delay, saying that it was my only chance for life. Other doctors prescribed strong and violent medicine, and one said I was incurable, another told me my only salvation was galvanic batteries, which I tried, but nothing relieved me. One day a friend called and begged me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began its use and took several bottles. From the very first bottle there was a wonderful change for the better. The tumor has disappeared entirely and my old spirits have returned. I heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women."—Mrs. VAN CLEFT, 416 SAUNDERS AVE., JERSEY CITY HEIGHTS, N. J.
