Ferguson and Dora Johnson, Colonel Nowell and Bertha Oxford, Finis Anderson and Dora Council, John F. Dortch and Bell Foster, C. A. Pace and Fannie Tatom, Scott Wheatley and Sofrona C. Brewer. Colored—John Walker and Jennie Medlock.

The star route mails from the South was cut off Saturday by the swollen streams and did not arrive here until Monday. For the same reason mail from Wyly and Bristow (tri-weekly service) was delayed until Tuesday.

The rain Friday night seriously interrupted work on the brick yards of W. E. McCullough and Thomas H. Bateman. Mr. Bateman lost about 20,000 brick, and Mr. McCullough's loss is about the same. If not hindered they will both get through making brick this week.

J. W. Bateman, who has had his stove factory overhauled and new machinery put in, let the work by contract, which was secured by the Paris Machine Shops. This company is rapidly forging to the front and has already acquired considerable reputation for efficiency and promptness. We predict for them the future which they deserve.

With an eye to the economy of space and to better preserve important records and papers, Circuit Clerk L. R. Watson is replacing the old clumsy cabinets in his office with neat inexpensive shelving for filing records. One entire side of his office is given to shelving. As the ceiling is very high, there may be occasions when Mr. Watson will find it necessary to use a balloon.

Guy Lashlee, son of J. M. Lashlee of the tenth district, had a very narrow escape from drowning last Saturday. He attempted to ford Cypress Creek, which was swollen by the rains, and his mule refused to swim. They were engulfed in the raging waters and were swept down stream. Two neighbors were on the opposite side of the creek, but they were powerless to render assistance, and no doubt the young man owes his life to his presence of mind. Coming to the surface, almost strangled and his mule gone, he caught to a limb and held on until he could remove his clothing so that he could swim. The mule was rescued in a drift.

PUBLIC SCHOOL OPENING.

The public school opened here last Monday morning with a larger attendance than on any former occasion for years, the enrollment being 131.

There was a large attendance of the patrons of the school at the opening. After a song, in which all present joined, Elder John W. Waters offered a prayer in which he feelingly referred to the inestimable blessings we enjoy at the dawn, so to speak, of the twentieth century.

Several persons present were invited to address the assembled students, patrons and visitors, and among those who responded were Elder Waters, Revs. J. M. Webb and J. M. Youree and D. G. Hudson.

The success of Camden's school is assured. What we need (and it will soon be a necessity) is a larger and more commodious school building. There are in Camden, or the nineteenth district (which includes the town and its environs) nearly 200 children of school age. The citizens of the community can afford it, and they should see to it that larger buildings are provided. Let us look after the comfort and health of the children.

If the party to whom I was seen to hand my watch at Cowell's Chapel August 24 will return the same to me, nothing further will be said about it. Otherwise legal proceedings will be instituted.

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY.

Resolutions Adopted at the Memorial Services Held Here Yesterday.

As a token of respect and esteem for President McKinley memorial services were held at the Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. The school and almost all the business houses were closed and the church was well filled at the hour of service.

The services were simple but impressive. Rev. J. M. Pickens read an appropriate passage of scripture and referred with much feeling to the lamented President.

Brother Pickens was made chairman of the meeting. Resolutions which speak in kindly terms of the President and offer condolence to Mrs. McKinley, were read by Mayor Tom C. Rye and adopted as follows:

The finger of the Almighty God has touched the President of these United States and he sleeps. We, as his countrymen and citizens, regardless of any tinge of political sentiment, deeply mourn and grieve his untimely demise and feeling the loss of a martyr President, we in memorial service assembled, offer the following resolutions:

Whereas, Our President has been foully slain by the bullet from a pistol in the hands of a bloodthirsty assassin in the prime of his manhood and while enjoying the pride and happiness of a successful administration, loved and revered by his countrymen, recognized at home and abroad as one of nature's noblemen, and whose home life was as beautiful as a picture, be it

Resolved, That we tender that noble woman, Mrs. McKuley, whose life has been one of constant devotion to Him above and to her home and her husband, our heartfelt condolence and keenly-felt sympathy in this hour of her great affliction, and may the same Providence comfort her which moved her husband to say in his last hours, "It's God's way, his will be done," and may she find consolation in the fact that—

So long Thy power hath blest me, sure it still
Will lead me on
O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent, till
The night is gone.

Resolved, That as our grief is commingled with that of a mourning nation we know his loss is immeasurable, whether we consider him as the statesman, wise and just; the citizen, honest and patriotic, or the man, generous and kind. We mourn him alike as statesman, citizen and man and wish to add the expression of our sorrow and our tribute to the memory of a great and good man.

Mayor Rye paid the martyred President the most beautiful and touching tribute one ever listed to and the silence following was impressive. His reference in tender terms to the grief-stricken widow brought tears to many eyes. Rev. J. W. Wardlow, Rev. J. M. Youree, J. G. Presson, Dr. E. M. McAuley, Prof. W. D. Cooper, T. J. Lowry, Eugene Travis, A. G. McDaniel, J. H. Combs, U. A. Potts and others paid tribute in a few words to the deceased statesman.

"Nearer, My God, to Thee," the words of which were whispered by Mr. McKinley in his last conscious moments was sung by the choir, the congregation joining in. The choir service was excellent, and other appropriate hymns were rendered. The services throughout were significant of the genuine sorrow and grief felt by the people of the entire community.

Services were closed by prayer by Rev. J. M. Pickens, in which he made touching reference to the late President, and asked God to bless and guide President Roosevelt.
